Joshua Simpkins

The rural comedy-melo-drama, Joshua Simpkins was played last night to a crowded house. There were some fair passages in the play which were well presented, and a few of the actors gave good satisfaction, but as a whole, the show was no better than it ought to be from a merit standpoint.

The real attraction was the music. The rube band had a great make-up and discoursed some lively music on the street at noon. The orchestra was a very fine feature, and there have been but few shows in the New Masonic that have had better orchestral and band music.

The show is held in the dining room of the Guilford hotel. A large number of the lovers of flowers have entered the contest for prizes, and many beautiful plants are exhibited. Register of Deeds and Rev. A. G. Kirkman, did the marriage feat of his life yesterday afternoon by uniting two brothers and two sisters in matrimony bonds at one and the same time. The parties were: Mr. Warner L. Jones to Miss Ella S. Miller, and Mr. Settle W. Jones to Miss Jennie S. Miller. The ceremony was performed at the home of the brides uncle, Mr. D. L. Miller near Hickory Grove church, in Friendship township and was witnessed by some twenty or thirty-five relatives and neighbors of the young couples. The brides were beautifully attired. After the ceremony had been performed the party was invited into the dining room where an eloquent repast was served by Mrs. D. L. Miller and Miss Mahie Miller. The brides were originally from Pennsylvania, but have resided in this county for several years. Their father has been dead for some time and their mother died last year.

Soon after the young ladies went to live with their uncle, the Messrs Jones who live near there, began to pay them attention, the double-header marriage ceremony yesterday being the result. One of the most interesting features of the ceremony is that the older brother got the younger sister and the younger brother got the older sister.

Parties here, who are acquainted with Nat Crump, the Davidson county outlaw, who shot Clay Scrubs, and later fired into another crowd of white men, putting rifle balls through two mens hats, are suggesting that the negro who killed the Asheville police officers, and two negroes Tuesday night is Crump, and not Will Harris. Crump like Harris, escaped from the penitentiary, but unlike the Mecklenburg outlaw, was open and bold in his lawlessness, and always a crack shot with a rifle. After breaking out of the penitentiary, Crump went back to Davidson, but a reward of $1,000 for his capture offered by Clay Scrubs caused him to go west, and the last time heard from, Crump was somewhere in the Asheville section. As an evidence of Crump's fine workmanship with a rifle, a gentleman here from Davidson relates that in Crump's last villainous was waylaying of a party of men in a buggy, he declared he had not wanted to kill them, but only scare them and so simply shot through their hats, just above the head. That is where two of the men found the damage done.

The plant of the Empire Steel and Iron Works, which is situated north of city, is to be torn down and the machinery shipped to Pennsylvania. Work was stopped at the plant three years ago owing to the lack of ore in this section. The ore beds at Ore Hill furnished the supply for a long time. The land on which the plant is located will not be sold.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR DR. McIVER.

An Event Which Will be Largely Attended by Many Prominent Men.

[Special Correspondence.] Greensboro, Nov. 17.—The memorial exercises to be held in the auditorium of the State Normal & Industrial College in this city next Tuesday, over the President of the College, the late Dr. Charles D. McIver will be an event of more than State wide importance. The railroads generally have made reduced rates of one and one-third plus 25 cents for round trip, and from letters received by acting President Foust, there will be a large number of leading educators outside of the State in attendance.

The principle address will be made by President Alderman of the University of Virginia, and Dr. Wallace Butrick, of New York. Other addresses will be by President Venable, of the North Carolina University, President Winston of the North Carolina A. & M. College State Superintendent of Education J. Y. Joyner, and Dr. J. E. Brooks, representing the Guilford County University alumni Association and Ex Governor Charles B. Aycock.

Among prominent out of the State men who have written of their coming are: Superintendent of Public Instruction, Martin, of South Carolina; President Thompson, of South Carolina Normal & Industrial College, P. P. Claxton, of University of Tennessee and Walter Page, of New York.

GIRL BRIDE SENT HOME.

A 13 Year Old Child Wife Of 16 Year Old Boy. Deserted And An Object of Charity.

[Special Correspondence.] Raleigh, Nov. 17.—Today the little girl-bride, Amanda Carter, who is evidently but little over 13 years of age was sent to her mother, whose home is Ty-Ty, Ga., the Sunshiners having raised the money to pay the railway fare. The little creature was deserted by her boy-husband, who seems to have been but a little over 16 years of age in this city about 2 months ago and has been most kindly cared for since by new friends who become greatly attached to her. Her case is a very sad one. Little and young as she is, yet it seems that she was regularly married by a minister in the house of her mother to a boy who attended school and who, it is said lives in Boston. She says that he claimed to have been born in Cuba. She has never heard a word from him since he left her. He told her she would never see or hear from him again and that he was going to Richmond. The child is so small that her head barely comes to the shoulders of an average girl of 12 years of age.

ACROSS THE CHANNEL.

A & N C Trains Now Crossing to Beaufort.

The first train to cross the bridge between Morehead City and Beaufort, passed over Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. This item at first thought conveyed but very little information, but on reflection can be considered of the utmost importance. Over fifty years ago the good people of this section laid themselves to build a section of railroad to connect the mountains of North Carolina with the seaboard. The building of the A & N C road from Goldsboro to Morehead City accomplished a part of the desired purpose but not quite.

Beaufort is the capital of Carteret county, a registered seaport town with fairly good harbor, traffic as passengers heretofore have been transported in an uncertain way between the two towns. The completion of a track across that channel means great things for Eastern North Carolina. Cape Lookout is one of the finest seaports on the Atlantic coast, and will eventually be a great government coaling station, as well as an outlet for the shipping of the State.

Condensing the News of the World

"The World at Large," in the Metropolitan Magazine, is a tremendous time saver, and it cannot help being popular with the hurried man of business who scarcely has time to read his morning and evening paper. This department condenses for its readers every month the news of the world, and presents it in tabloid form strikingly illustrated. The material and illustrations which go into this department are gathered from the four corners of the globe. When a busy man has so much trouble to read one newspaper a day it is very comforting for him to have somebody else read all of them and pick out for him all that he wants to and ought to read, but which he never has time to choose himself.

EFFECTIVE WORK AUDUBON SOCIETY

Change of Date for Annual Meeting of Tobacco Growers Protective Ass'n.

WEEKLY TAR HEEL ENJOYING PROSPERITY.

Arrangements Being Made for Poultry Show. Farm of W. C. Bain Conducted on Modern Principles and is an Interesting Place to Visit.

[Special Correspondence.] Greensboro, Nov. 19.—Secretary of the State Audubon Society, T. Gilbert Pearson, returned last night from Washington, where he had been in attendance on the annual session of the American Ornithological Association. There were over three hundred delegates present from all parts of the United States and the session lasted three days. Professor Pearson gave a lecture on the colony bird of North Carolina. The subject from what the Washington papers had to say about as well as the lecture, was one of the most interesting of the whole series. The colony birds are those on the coast, which nest in groups, are principally the laughing gull, and black skinner and three species of terns, locally called "strikers."

Professor Pearson showed that when the protective work of the North Carolina Association began in 1903, there were only 1,700 eggs in all those colonies. By protective care for the three years, the number of young birds (not eggs) have reached in 1906 10,000. There now fifty wardens actively at work in North Carolina.

Before the North Carolina Farmers Protective Association adjourned Friday night, Winston was selected as the place for holding the next annual session, and the date was changed from November to the second Friday in July. This date was selected, so that the association might be able to meet before the beginning of sales of tobacco, in order that any recommendation it might make in regard to the policy of marketing tobacco could be put into effect before the Trust had gobbled up any of the crop. The association passed highly eulogistic resolutions on the work of the retiring president, John S. Cunningham, and unanimously elected him as Chairman of the State Board of Directors.

At a meeting of the stockholders and board of directors of the Weekly Tar Heel here Friday night at which $4,200 of the $5,000 stock of the corporation was represented, E. Spencer Blackburn was re-elected president and John Crouch secretary and treasurer and managing editor. The new board of directors is composed of E. Spencer Blackburn, John Crouch of Greensboro, J. E. Jones of North Wilkesboro, J. D. Dorsett of Spencer, C. J. Harris of Dillsboro.

The report made to the directors by the secretary and treasurer shows that the paper is making its way with gratifying and encouraging financial success. It is understood that Mr. Blackburn will in future devote a good deal of his time in active assistance to editor and manager Crouch in the conduct of the Tar Heel.

Mr. J. S. Jeffrey, superintendent of the Poultry Department of the State A & M College at Raleigh, and secretary of the North Carolina Poultry Association is here completing arrangements for the holding of the North Carolina Poultry show, which will be in Greensboro January 8th-11. The large Neese building and auditorium on East Washington and Davis streets, has been secured for the exhibition.

Mr. W. C. Bain, President of the Central Carolina Construction Co., besides being a building contractor of more than State reputation, is a model farmer. On his farm two miles from the city he has a fine herd of cows and runs a model dairy. This morning he was speaking of having just completed housing his corn crop from a fifteen acre tract. He did not seem to realize what a good farmer he was until this correspondent divided the gross amount of 900 bushels he had made, by 15, and informed him he had harvested 60 bushels to the acre. Asked as to how he planted the cultivated crop, he replied rather carelessly, "oh I planted it in rows four and a half feet apart, twenty inches apart in the row. I never ploughed it all, but run my weeder across it until it was about knee high, then I had cultivators run in it just to keep the surface good and broke up and the weeds out. "I had the land well prepared and had grown wheat and peas and clover like all the other land I plant, and of course hauled manure from the barn and stables and spread over the land." While not too many, there are a great many just such farms and farmers in Guilford County, and the yielding capacity of this red loam soil under intelligent treatment is something really remarkable.

MANY CASES SMALLPOX FIRST PASSENGER TRAIN TO BEAUFORT.

Opinions Wednesday (Special Correspondence)

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—The health officer had a busy day yesterday in a negro settlement near the Seaboard Air Line, in the northwestern part of the city he found nine cases of smallpox and five suspects, all of whom were hurried to the pest house, in which there were already two cases. Today another case was brought in, a negro, from 42 miles north of the city. The negroes say they caught the disease from a negro named Tom Clegg, from Durham.

It is said that some of them have been sick two or three weeks. The officers were today looking for more cases. In the northeastern part of the county, not far from the line of the Raleigh & Pamlico Sound Railway it is said that there are other cases. The total number of small pox cases in the pest house is now 12 and there are also five suspects. Only one is white. The pest house is a mile south of the city and far from any road.

The Supreme court will next week hear appeals from the 13th district. The court will not sit tomorrow but will call the docket Wednesday. The court will file opinions that evening among these will be the long-expected one on the Anson county lynching case.

The K. of P. Band will be present and furnish music during the evening. Also every person entering the rink will be presented with a coupon number and on Thanksgiving eve the person holding the lucky number will be handed out a nice 20-pound turkey.

After an intermission of a few weeks the second week of the fall term of Superior court for the trial of civil cases began yesterday with Judge Shaw on the bench. The only case tried was that of J. C. Green vs. R. P. Williams et al. The case arises from a boundary line dispute of a tract of property on Craven street on which Mr. Green is building a plumbing shop. The case resulted in non-suit.
