IS THERE A PRACTICAL SOLUTION FOR THE LOCAL LIQUOR QUESTION.

Is there a practical solution of the liquor issue in this City of New Bern? This is a question which ought to command the attention of every citizen, for certainly, today, there is no citizen, who is at all familiar with local conditions, but will declare the question calls for some practical solution, and at

To consider the several phases, as regards liquor drinking and the traffic in it, for the courts bear testimony that some traffic exists, even though prohibition laws are operative, it is but right to take up for at least partial study. the past two years and the present. The moral side, is drinking less, does public sentiment frown upon drinkers. Has the city gained in dimunition of crime and disorderly conduct. What is the effect, if any, on local trade. Near ly two years of prohibitiou in this city warrants a study of the situation, practically and seriously, more specially since at the present time, there is a strong agitation, locally, to attempt the overthrow of the prohibition law, through the establishment of a dispensary.

In the first place the Journal wants it strictly understood that this review is made with the purpose of getting upon some basis, that will lead to a change, so that, locally, the question of shall not constitute the only issue as to his status in this community,

From the moral side, it is estimated that the actual consumption of liquor. that is the alcoholic, is fully as large as it was when there were open saloons in New Bern. This being so, the public sentiment must not be against the drinker but only against the seller. In the issue of crime and disorderly conduct, it must be said that there is less upon the public records, than when saloons were open. As to local trade, which finds its source of revenue from outside havers it is generally said that it has greatly fallen off. That the holiday buying is less, because the trade which buys holiday goods, buys liquor as well, and patronizes the place where liquor is sold.

This in brief is the local situation, as the Journal has asked and looked about. In voting for a change, if that is what the majority of the people demand, is it fair to seek a dispensary or open saloons, from the money point alone? No doubt the gain is large from liquor selling, be it dispensary or saloon, but is the local sentiment which voted so strongly for prohibition, upon moral grounds, going to swing to the far extreme, throw the moral issue to the winds, and embrace the dispensary because it pays immense profits? The local liquor issue ought to consider the moral side even more than the profit side, through legal liquor selling, but if the gain for morals is not served. the question of local trade conditions call for some attention, and the local status as to liquor, its legitimacy as a traffic article, instead of a contraband, be considered, The subject does not call for excited discussion. It does call for the display of common as well as practical business sense. There is no cause for local hard feelings, but there is a demand for public action for a clear and dispassionate discussion, and the settlement upon some-basis that wall serve good morals and business.

WHAT IS CHRISTMAS TO YOU ?

Christman observance ought to have omething in it for each individual. The mere observance of Christmas Day, a too much a matter of personality. The true object of the day is lost right of in the gratification of self, either in you met your personal obligations, paying the debts that should justly be paid, instead of putting them off, using the money to buy articles that should not be purchased? Is today, one of eating and drinking, and both to excess? Is it for the animal instincts that Christmas is to be observed, and the day made one of over indulgences?

The glad cry "Merry Christmas"what is it to you, is it real, the heart cry of a soul that feels the spirit of Christianity, that reveres the day, for its home associations, the glad fireside gathering, the thought all prevailing, of the Christ Child. If it is, then it has its sweet benediction, which falls npon parents and children, and blesses the household.

But those of yesterday, with their old fashioned Christmas, cannot meet the wishes of the twentieth century Christmas. Instead of the sweet heart communions the gifts that have the real sanctity of Christmas, the church service, the family gathering-these are old fashioned. The call is for the strengous, the fire works, the boisterous street noises, the eating and drinking to be "merry" in its deprayed sense, the desire for exercises, because Christmas coming but once a year, must be held a sesson of revels and carousings, the madness of a day, to be atoned for by a period of extra rectitude.

What is this Christmas for you? Is it to be the call of your lower or your higher nature, to the observance of a day, that may give you a seeming satisfaction, through a few hours unrestrained gratification of the senses, or looking upward will it be the occasion of breaking the crust of your selfihness to set your aspirations and desires towards seeking a life that means a help to others, and a help to the world.

THE SETTLEMENT OF

A. & N. C. LEASE MATTER

The majority report of the Senate Supreme court, which settles the question of the lease of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad property, caused no surprise in this section, where the contest was made. From the beginning. when the State administration and the leading political interests, joined together to dispose of this property, taking it from State to private con'rol, the latter to parties outside of North Carolina, it was only a matter of weeks and months, when the final document would be issued, giving up, so far as the State was concerned in its conduct, of the last piece of railroad property, which by F. S. Duffy. ad been built only for the use and con trol of North Corolinians.

It has not been a popular position to take, that of opposing this lease It was not popular even, to ask that the lease be made to known parties, instead of seeking to secure it through men who had not a dollar at stake in the issue, whose only interest came through the commission, if success was the re-

It was not that the people along this road opposed development and betterment. The fact that they had paid their good dollars to have the road built, proves their feeling for the road. But from the beginning they opposed a lease that was to be consummated through a McBee or Howland method, one through a federal court, and the other carried into effect between two

That the Norfolk and Southern interests have and will give the people a good service, is not a question. That the people will give these railroad people a hearty support and their business is not in doubt. The acceptance of the lease question settlement causes no hard feelings, which will operate against the N & S people. Business and development must grow and increase, and the matuer of the A. & N. C. will soon be forgotten in the rush of new conditions But in spite of all, there can be no free and hearty endorsement of the methods pursued, which secured this State property by any North Carolinian who fully knows the situation.
