George Dunn Dangerously Hurt.
Mr. George Dunn is at his home suffering from terrible injuries received by being thrown under his engine which tipped over on its side at Stony Creek, near Goldsboro yesterday afternoon. Mr. Dunn was in charge of the engine and had taken it from the city to the tank at the place mentioned to be filled with water preparatory to hauling the east bound mail. The cause of the accident is said to have been an insecurely fastened rail which threw the engine on its side and caught both engineer and fireman in the wreck. Mr. Dunn was fearfully burned by steam and fire and for some time after he was removed his recovery was regarded as doubtful.

Upon word being received here a special train bearing Dr. R. S. Primrose, the company's surgeon, Mr. John Dunn and Mr. Will Dunn, Jr., was dispatched to the scene and after the young man had partially recovered from the shock it was demonstrated that the injuries although serious were not fatal. He was brought to his father's home in this city last night and is reported as doing as well as such severe injuries will allow. The fireman a colored man named Watson, living in Goldsboro was also badly hurt but no bones were broken and it is expected that he will be able to be out in a few days. The engine is a total wreck. The mail arrived last night more than two hours late on account of the wreck.

No blame is attached to Mr. Dunn for the accident. He has won the confidence of the company and has shown a decided aptitude in this particular work. That he is not fatally hurt is regarded as a miracle.

A Great Day at Kingston.

The Masonic celebration at Kingston was all that was expected by the most sanguine. It surpassed in numbers any thing of the kind that has been held there. As usual the citizens held up their end to make the affair a success. The town was the epitome of southern hospitality. Every body welcome and the glad hand was extended all around. The Masons took pains to see that none were left out in the generous distribution of good will and the citizens vied with each other to have the stranger feel at home.

Between 600 and 700 Masons were present representing 35 lodges. The ceremony of laying the cornerstone was impressive and was witnessed by an immense concourse. Hon. W. W. Kitchen was the orator of the day and he made an excellent speech. He paid glowing tribute to the order and spoke in high terms of the Kingston lodge in particular. All who went expressed themselves as highly pleased.

"CALL TO ARMS" A DOOMERANG.

Circular Issued by the Prohibitionists of Greensboro Proves Their Undoing.
Special Correspondence.

Greensboro, May 1.—The city was agog yesterday over the second primary for a Democratic candidate for Mayor. In the primary last Tuesday three candidates, Mayor Murphy, Mr. Stafford and Alderman Brandt were voted for, with the result that Brandt got 55 more votes than Murphy, but not a majority, Stafford getting two hundred votes. As this is a legalized primary under the new law and the Australian ballot, Mr. Stafford had to drop out, and a second primary was held yesterday, Brandt and Murphy being the only candidates. The campaign had been most exciting, and if the Brandt managers had not refrained from "telling back" in print and circulars at the Law and Order League section of the prohibition element here who not only booed Murphy but shocked the city the day after the previous primary by issuing what they styled a "Call to Arms" and denouncing Mr. Brandt and his supporters as anti-prohibition or saloon men and their followers, it would have been very bitter if not bloody. The lines had not been drawn until this ill advised "alarm" was sent out signed by nearly two hundred voters, declaring Brandt's supporters were "wets" pure and simple. This made many of his "dry" friends mad, and they set to work for him with a vengeance. Last night the count showed Brandt 828, Murphy 582, result a majority of 246 and there was great rejoicing over the result.

May Festival Is Popular.

Greensboro, May 1.—The great event of the May festival is now on, the first concert being given last night to a large and select audience in the Grand opera house. It was by local talent entirely, with the exception of Miss Rose Few and Dr. Franklin Yawson. The magnificent chorus of over a hundred voices was under splendid control. The work done being superior to that of most professional choruses. Mr. Owen the conductor has evidently done fine work in training the singers. The second concert will be this afternoon and the third and final concert will be given tomorrow night by the New York Symphony orchestra. Telephone and special delivery mail orders for tickets from Winston, Reidsville, Danville, High Point and other nearby towns have been coming in all day. The indications are that the attendance will be the largest in the history of the May festival. The proceeds above expenses will be used as a reserve fund for next year's festival.

Raleigh, May 1.—Preliminary arrangements have been made for the improvements at the soldiers home and these will make the inmates of the hospital, who to be sure are numerous, far more comfortable than ever before. They will have their own dining room and kitchen. The home has always been isolated, being far from any car line but the prospects are now very good for a car service in that part of the city. This is the matter which the new board of aldermen which will be elected next week will take up, the present one having declined to act in the matter.

AN IMPORTANT LIQUOR LAW.

Dug Up From the Decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Shipping of Liquor Into Prohibition Territory Affected.
Special Correspondence.

Greensboro, May 2.—A very important recent decision of the United States Supreme court relating to the liquor traffic, which strangely has not been adverted to by North Carolina press, became known here sometime ago. The court says, that a man who acts as agent for the solicitation and delivery of whiskey in prohibition territory, is the seller, where the law defines the place of delivery as the place of sale. This is certainly a reversal of the North Carolina supreme court decision recently announced in a case taken up from Monroe. The case in point, went up from South Dakota. A man there who acted as agent of a liquor firm outside the state in receiving orders for liquor was indicted, tried and convicted of violating the section of the state prohibition law, defining the place of delivery as the place of sale. An appeal was taken to the state supreme court, which sustained the lower court. An appeal was taken to the United States supreme court, and it sustains the state court. It says, the interstate commerce principle does not apply in such cases as the Wilson Act of congress passed two years ago meets that point. A copy of this opinion has been secured by a leading attorney here with the result that every liquor order man located in Greensboro has suspended open business. The Southern Express company (which does a land office business bringing packages of liquor into North Carolina prohibition territory from points outside the state, is also looking into the matter, and its attorney is making further investigations into the decision to see if it also is under the ban. The decision says that while an agent who takes the order is the seller the party desiring the liquor may with impunity send out of the state and secure the liquor. This lets in the individual but knocks out the agent.

The observance of this decision as the law in Greensboro, would close up half a dozen whiskey order agencies the proprietors of which are making more money in commissions on orders than they did as owners of saloons. It will also be a loss to the Southern Express company of many thousands of dollars a year from this point alone. The Virginia whiskey dealers who have suddenly grown rich selling liquor through agents on orders from North Carolina dry towns will be hit hardest of all and Greensboro under the incoming so-called wet mayor, will be so dry in comparison to what it is under the present dry mayor, that the most serious prohibitionist will call for moisture.

The adjourned term of the special term of the United States district court convened here for an hour this morning to make final disposition of the case against L. E. Davis of Wilkes county. He was under sentence of a year and a day to the Atlanta penitentiary for participation in the Wilkes county revenue officers and whiskey distillers frauds. He had acknowledged guilty to a false voucher, other indictments being not pressed. At the January term Davis was first fined $1,000 and given the year's sentence. His physician testified that his health was such, confinement would probably kill him. Judge Boyd remitted the fine but gave Davis until May 1st to report to court and take his sentence. He promptly gave a $5,000 bond and this morning came to time, his bondsman, Mr. Clint Wagoner of Statesville and his physician Dr. Mosely of Wilkesboro and his attorney, Hon. R. H. Hackett and W. W. Barber of Wilkesboro being by his side. Mr. Davis looked sick, and his physician testified that nothing short of an eight weeks confinement to bed in a hospital under careful treatment would demonstrate the chance of his recovery. Judge Boyd said he had received a stack of letters from distinguished men all over the state asking that Davis' sentence be changed to a fine. This very fact showed him, that a man of such influence, who had been guilty of such conduct was the most dangerous to society, and most worthy of punishment. He would not change the sentence to a fine, but would give Davis every chance to get well, and gave him until the first Monday in September to report at a special term to meet that day. Davis at once gave another $5,000 bond and walked.

In spite of the strenuous and intense interest in the municipal campaign here among Democrats over the city election in the past month and the red hot fight over the majority during the past ten days, there has not been a single fight or public exhibition of bad temper, and yet on Tuesday night in the most public of public places, two very distinguished citizens and republicans, in the person of Judge W. F. Bynum and

HAND SHATTERED BY DYNAMITE

Colored Man Tries to Rescue a Stick of the Explosive From the Fire With Usual Result.
Special Correspondence.

Yesterday morning Moses Thorne, a colored man employed by the Pamlico, Oriental & Western railroad had an experience with a stick of dynamite that lost him his good right hand. He was near Bridgeton and was with some of his collaborators went to a vacant house to seek shelter from the rain. They built a fire and Thorne observed the smell of some substance which caused him to investigate when he saw the stick of dynamite in a dangerous position to the fire. He picked it out of the fire and started to throw it out doors when it exploded in his right hand shattering the member and wounding the leg in several places. He was taken to the sanatorium where Dr. N. M. Gibbs, surgeon for the road superintended an operation assisted by Drs. Primrose and Duffy. The hand was amputated at the wrist. He stood the operation well and is recovering finely.

A Big Attraction.

The Atlanta Daily Journal of Jan. 3 has the following about Billy Kernands' famous minstrels, which open an engagement at the New Masonic opera house Saturday, May 4.
"Billy Kernands' Famous Minstrels was the attraction at the Grand last evening. The popular playhouse was filled to an overflow, hundreds being denied admission.

It was a very good minstrel show and everybody present enjoyed many a hearty laugh. The honors of the occasion belong to the man with the big mouth, Billy Kernands himself. He is without doubt a great laugh producer and was last evening even funnier than ever.

"Fare Thee Well," as sung by Bunk Campbell, was well done, Kid Langford's work as end man was more than satisfactory, and the after part, "Nancy's Elopement," by Langford, Dixon, Cameron and Smith, left the audience in an uproar of laughter. The show on the whole was one of the best minstrels Atlanta has seen this season."

Ex-Postmaster Tyre Glenn had a scrap. Judge Bynum made a very emphatically disparaging remark about Marion Butler's deleterious influence, which Mr. Glenn resented with a stick. The gentlemen were separated before any damage was done, save the denting of Judge Bynum's stiff hat by the ex-postmaster's stick and the loss of Mr. Glenn's cigar by the judge's fist. They appeared through their attorneys as proxies before Mayor Murphy yesterday afternoon, and paid the costs of service of the papers etc.
