The South's Liquis Fuel."

Until recently the bringing to light of that other subterramean fuel , po troleum, was confined in the south principally to the lower Appalachain field. West Vi ginia alone yielded 42,680,374 of the total 42,726,652 barrels of oil produced in the south between 1887 and 1896. From this there was a decline in 1996 to 12.666.526 barrels. Meanwhile the search for oil, thus spurged, has expanded in Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama and Indian Territory, resulting in very large oil developments in Louisiana and Indian Territory. Norfolk, Va. May 15 .- The Jamesown Ter-Centannial Exposition will resent an infinity of attractions to please the eye and to delight the mind but it would be a grave error to consider the list complete and exhausted with objects of that cort. At all times and in all countries there is one particular part of the sensorium to please which has been dermed a taste of the most exquisite-order.

SEA FOOD AT THE JAMES.

The foner man claims supreme attention. Deny it you may but the denial is always taken as evidence of neurotic mentality. The classic lore of ancient times would lose half its charm were the achievements and the accomplishments of Luculius omitted. The great events of history would be deprived of the nimbus of idealism without the accompanying recital of the feast which crowned them. When the valiant warriors of Greece and Rome doffed their harness, and roposing on their soft couches, quaffed their Nectar and Falermian, they be came beings of a different order from what they had bene in the fierce confliet. Readers of the Wizard of Ro mantie Proze, Sir Walter Scott can petising evidence. Lynnhaven Bay, an inlet from Hampton Roads, and within a brief space of the exposition grounds, supplies the finest oysters in the world. The bon vivants, the gourmands and the gourmets who visit our shores are unanimous in their praise of the oyster dug out of Lynnhaven Bay. It touches the palate with a refreshing fulness that imparts a feeling of contentment and satisfaction. Unlike the starved, diminutive product of the seaboard grounds the Lynnhaven Bay oyster is a luscious marvel, fat and tasteful. SALARIES REDUCED.

The succulent hivalve will be in ap-

Special Correspondence. Greensboro, May 15 .- At a meeting of the new board of aldermen last night salaries of city officers were reduced: The mayor from $1,200 to $1,-000, the city attorney from $600 to $500, city tax collector, who has been getting $2,500 in commissions was reduced to a salary of $1,400. Similar raductions were made in several other positions. Ex-Judge T. J. Shaw was elected city attorney over ex-Judge Strudwick, present city attorney. Chief of Police Neeley was re-elected job. The only other contest was over the tax collector, present incumbent, R. M. Roose receiving four votes, to A. L. Rankin's two.

This week has been peculiarly prolific in blood curdling accidents but there appears yet to be one which has escaped the notice of the Journal which is one of the worst chaunities that has been recorded for some time. Early in the week Walter Chase white, a dock hand on the tug boat Curtin was brought to the Stewart Sanatorium suffering with a cen pound dislocation of the ankle joint. The boat at the time the accident occurred was one mile south of Brault island. She was arranging her barges in line and in some way there being no other applicant for his 'Chase caught his foot in the coil of the hawser, and the foot was literally wrenched from the ankle joint so that it merely hung by the tendons. The boat was hurried to New Bern and the patient taken to the hospital where. Dr. Frank J. Duffy, the marine surgeon gave the necessary surgioal aid. The foot has not yet been amputated but it is quite likely that such an operation will have to be performed as the injury is very serious

The ball park fence is now open to advertisers and if you want to be represcuted in this medium of advertising it will be well worth your wihle to speak for space now. It will be wise for the board of aldermen to request the Norfolk & Southern to have some kind of guard at the National avenue crossing, either gates or flagman. That crossing has become dangerous on account of the passing of so many trains and it is to their own interest as well as the public's that they take such precautionary step. The baseball season with its crowds of people coming and going make this provision a necessity. The Greenville Reflector notes that the knitting mill, there, is turning out 235 dozen knit garments per day, suggasts that Greenville "get busy and establish a yarn mill." New Bern, much older, much larger, and perhaps richer has neither knitting mills por yara mills. The Reflector goes on to say that notwithstanding the large production, the mill is far behind in filling its orders. Strange that New Bern capitalists do not become interested in such industries, Mayor Bryan laid down the law yesterday in the police court and told one of the violators what he could expect if he should ever come before the court on a similar charge. He was Mr. J. C. Moore and was arrested for drunkenness. He was taxed with costs.
