MAKING UNCLE SAM A WORLD'S BULLY,

There is a serious side to the constant dispatches being published, of the dangers of sending the large fleet of American war vesels to the Pacific coast. The serious part is not danger of war with Japan, but this constant parading of a possible conflict with Japan, is in the nature of placing this country in the character of a bullying nation. A late Washington special notes the following:

"Perhaps if Japan contemplated

an immediate war with the American Government there would be nothing more gratifying in her than having the battleships of the Atlantic transferred to San Francisco. A study of positions and distances on the navigation charts discloses that, with our war vessels at their proposed Pacific destination, a Japanese fleet of even moderate strength cruising about the China sea commanding the Straits of Malacca or Sunda and approaches to the entrance of the Suez Canal, would be within striking distance of our Atlantic coast. The Japanese fleet will have its practice cruise about 3,-000 miles nearer New York than the American battleship fleet will be when it reaches San Francisco. if our fleet should have to retrace its course by way of the Straits of Magellan. Our fleet would have a 4,000 mile steam chase if it tried to follow in a race for New York a Japanese fleet which had come through the Suez Canal." This is of course warm weather reading, and gives the press something to use for display heads. But to the every day American, the patriot, not the jingo, it is disgusting. The San Francisco school incident has been so paraded as a cause for open rupture between Japan and the United States, that the jingoes now believe It to be a serious matter. The actual position of each country, shows no tendency for the slightest cause for any disturbance, but the jingoes must take their fling, and declare both nations are snarling, the preliminary to a fight. And all of it places Uncle Sam in the position of a world's bully. The Big Stick and the Big Fleet, do not savor of the highest American-

NEW BERN AND ITS AMUSEMENT

LOVING PEOPLE. The people of New Bern, have ever been fond of amusements. It has not been a question of cost, if the prospect was favorable for the amuse ment or sport being first class. Two base ball seasons within a few years, both disastrons, financially, and not worthy of the cost, in returns of good sport, are examples of the desire, locally, to pay the fiddler, and chance the music being equal to the cost involved. The summer season has passed. Another hard muncial base ball experience has been charged to loss sount, and yet there has avoived no amusement creation, that should to a permanancy. It is not opposed a base tall be furnished for two three months, during the surb er annone. It is not that dur effections are presented at the ne. The population of his erital to the support of varand induser anne not be attended by every one. Many and work in the afternoon, and the out is for sports and amuse ment attractions which can be atided not only by the employer, but by the employe, as well. Parks with band music, with walks, with shows of various kinds, are to be found in most cities. One is neded here, a mile or two from the city, to be reached by an electric car line. If such a park could be located on the river, so much the better. But a park is needed, that can be easily reached by an electric car, or by a good drive way. Such a park would prove a continual source of recreation for the wage earners of this city. It would give them an outing at home. would offer them chances for healthy amusements and at a small cost. The park amusements need not be for the wage earner and the stay-at-home only, but for those who can spend one or more months away from the city, each year. But there should be these public amusements, and the climate here is such, that very few days even in the winter months, would prevent attendance at open air games, and amusements. The inclination of the people here is to attend good amusements, and the park, with its out-door and in-door amusements, would prove an attraction that would afford the people the means to indulge this inclination, and at a cost that would not be felt. Mischief and worse is too often, the result of suppressed desire for healthy pleasures. Give the people the opportunity for the enjoyment of healthy out-door amusements, and the gain for the community will be noticeable.

MEANS AT HAND FOR LOCAL ROAD IMPROVEMENT

The city administration will soon ask the people of New Bern, the voters, to permit the Mayor and Aldermen to issue $50,000 in city bonds, for pavement improvements

This will mean an important improvement, if carried out as proposed. It would be an improvement long demanded. Better pavements and better roadways, are equally a local necessity. A bond vote for pavements is held by many as less needed, than good roadways, but the unwise legislative limitations placed upon this city, in making $50,000 the maximum sum that can be voted at one time, leaves only the amount, likely to be proposed, for pavement improvement. But the city administration can show its purpose, and make good part of its anti-election promises, for civic improvements, by beginning at once with roadway betterment with those means already at hand.

A road scraper and a steam roller give the opportunity for good work, and present the chance of changing the present bad streets to much better ones. The steam roller pulling the road scraper would be an effective means of starting at least, the road betterment in New Bern. There is no special cost to this work, certainly not when the change in the roads is to be considered. The sight of this work would be a visible declaration that the present city administration was alive to local betterment, and employing the means at hand for such betterment. A few months work of scraper and roller on the streets would restore them to a degree of levelness, would remove the holes and ruts, and place the streets in a good condition to meet all climatic changes render driving pleasanter, and offer to every visitor an attractive appearance that is not to be seen today.

The opportunity for making better driveways in this city, is given the city administration. The means are at hand. There will be better local spirit to vote for bonds, when the city administration shows that it favors local betterments by beginning the work with the means at he

Today a deputation of committee of ova called on the Governor and coauell of State, to request permission to skate on the granofithic walks around the capital square from which senters have been barred for a good many months, because of the misbehavior of some toughs. The council took the matter under advisement.

Business was suspended this afternoon, and great numbers of people went out to the State Fair Grounds to attend the Labor Day exercises while others went to Pullen Park to witness and hear the annual convention of fiddlers, old-timers, this being under the direct personal maneer of the noted patron of fiddlers, Mr. William J. Andrews, eldest son of vice-president A. B. Andrews, of the Southern Rallway. Several counties were represented in this contest. Mr. Andrews hopes next year to have handsome prizes of money and to bring in prisoners from all parts of the State. Your correspondent is urging him to take some of those from this city to the Jamestown Exposition and let them show the world at large what they can do.

Political offices have attractions that causes men to anticipate far in the future. We have only four in and around this little town, who are already dreaming of the delights of bein a "slave" to the people. Politica paths are rough to travel, yet many there be who prefer this rigid way to the smooth highway of private life. Cotton picking has begun and there is no doubt but what there will be very short crop harvested.
