A LOCAL DISAPPOINTMENT.

The announced summer schedule of the Norfolk-Southern Railroad Company, between this city and Norfolk, is a local disappointment. There is practically no change of trains; the train reaches New Bern a little earlier in the afternoon, and the better service is a parlor car, which is all right. But what was wanted, locally, was a night train from New Bern and a return night train leaving Norfolk, with Pullman car sleeper on these trains.

The Norfolk-Southern has established this night service between Raleigh and Norfolk, in competition with the Southern and Seaboard Air Line. Is Raleigh such a traveling point, as to demand three trains nightly to Norfolk? Those who note the travel at New Bern, say that from six to twelve persons daily, would use the Pullman night service to Norfolk from here. And it is not just New Bern that this night train to Norfolk is wanted for. There is the section towards Wilmington, Beaufort and Oriental and from Kinston this way. All this travel would flow over the Norfolk-Southern road, if it gave the service, and the day train is not a favorite route during the summer months. If the Norfolk-Southern will run a passenger steamer from this city each night to Elizabeth City, and train connection there, returning the same way at night, it will have the plaudits of the traveling public, and have plenty of business for the service they thus extend.

ITINERANT NEGRO NUISANCE. It is the exceptional household in this city, that is not disturbed at this time of the year, early in the morning, from shortly after daylight until the sun is several hours high, by one or more itinerant negro girls, crying out some vegetable or fruit. Even more than shrill cry under the bed room window, sleepers are often aroused by the knock at the door, or the bell ringing. There are other nuisances besides this early household disturbing by these itinerants. In the first place the fruit they offer for sale is gathered wild in a slovenly manner, is often stolen from gardens, and the measure sold is false, so that while the housekeeper may think it easy and a bargain to buy from these shabby peddlers, it will be found that the false measure makes the price paid a high one. There is also the danger that all premises must chance, that is having anything that is loose, stolen by these early morning visitors. From the trade and business side there is also the nuisance. They pay no license, and so the farmers and merchants have their competition to meet for besides no license, they pay nothing for their fruit or vegetables, besides selling by illegal measure. This injures legitimate trade. This kind of street peddling is not allowed by the authorities in most cities. Its illegal features are recognized, and when these strollers start out their progress receives a check that puts them off the streets. This city is large enough to put the ban on this itinerant negro nuisance.

CRUSHED BENEATH IRON WHEELS

Zilphia Watson an Aged Colored Woman Horribly Mangled Yesterday Afternoon

While attempting to cross the Norfolk-Southern rail track near the Pine Lumber Company's siding yesterday afternoon Zilphia Watson, an aged colored woman was struck by a boxcar which had been shunted into the siding by engine number 84 and horribly mangled.

The woman, who is the mother of Ben Watson, a colored fireman on the Norfolk-Southern road was employed by a family near the scene of the accident in the capacity of a nurse and at the time of the catastrophe was going home to her dinner. In attempting to cross the track, she did not see the approaching car which had been turned loose from the engine and was struck by the coupling bar and thrown to the ground with her left leg squarely across the track in front of the wheels which were only a few feet away. Before she could move from this perilous position the car was upon her and that limb was severed from her body.

Despite the awful agony which she must have been in from this and other wounds which she received by being struck by the car the woman did not lose consciousness until she arrived at the sanitarium where she was carried immediately after the accident, and where the mangled limb was amputated.

At a late hour last night the woman was still alive and the attendants there say she has a good chance of recovering.

A KING MARKED FOR DEATH.

Confession of Anarchist Charged With Murder Reveals Gigantic Plot.

LISBON, May 24.—Through the confession today of an anarchist named Ramires, one of the conspirators in the assassination in February, 1908, of King Carlos and crown Prince Luiz, of Portugal, the identity of 1,146 other conspirators in this crime has been revealed. Ramires says the leaders in this plot are still in communication with each other, their ultimate aim being the assassination of King Manuel, who was under special guard during his attendance at the funeral of the late King Edward.

Today's confession shows that the plot was even more widespread than the police suspected and that 16 prominent politicians, several of whom are still active in government affairs, were involved. The authorities expect to implicate at least 4,000 persons, and are now engaged in obtaining evidence for the extradition from New York, London, Paris and Rio Janeiro of the leaders of the regicide band.

Ramires was arrested shortly after the assassination of Carlos and Luiz, but escaped to Brazil, where he was recently arrested again.

He was brought back to Lisbon a few days ago.

A Hard Proposition. Anxious Father—I wish I knew what to do with my son. Business Friend—What is he like? Anxious Father—Well, they say he's very like me. (Silence.)—Boston Herald.

Old Relic on Display. Mr. F. S. Duffy has on display at his drug store a piece of brick that if it were endowed with the gift of speech could doubtless relate some very interesting history of the city of New Bern. The brick was recently excavated at the site of the old Tryon Palace, which was located on George street, and is supposed to have been brought over to this country from England.

A False Start. The referee held up his hand. "Then last two rounds don't count," he loudly announced. "Th' fight will have to start all over again."

A low growl ran through the vast audience. "What's th' trouble, Reddy?" shrieked a fiery faced man in the tenth row. The referee squared his jaw. "Th' trouble is," he explained, "that th' movin' picture man has struck a bad spot in his film an' th' pictures is no good. Are you ready up there, per fessor? All right. Shake hands, boys."

And the battle made a fresh start.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Education. A little knowledge of the ways of men. A little reading of their deeds and fates. A little guessing at their thoughts and then A quick forgetting of their names and dates. That's history.

A little delving in the tomes they penned. A little conning of the verses they writ. A feeble grasping of their aims and trend. A shadow memory of their mirth and wit. That's literature.

A little dabbling with a salt or two. A little musing with a sticky nose. A few experiments half blundered through. A twilight testing of a groping guess. That's science. —Hampton's Magazine

Never hesitate about giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to children. It contains no opium or other narcotics and can be given with implicit confidence. As a quick cure for coughs and colds in which children are susceptible, it is unsurpassed. Sold by all dealers.

The Important Question. "Father," said the sixteen-year-old boy, "I have come to ask you to forgive me."

"What's the matter, my son?" "I have married a girl who is three years older than I am."

"My boy, my boy! Do you know you have broken my heart?" "Oh, I know that without having to come here to find it out. But are you going to support us?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Witty Bishop. "The late Bishop Foss," said a Philadelphia physician, "was visited for some trifling ailment."

"Do you," I said to him in the course of my examination, "talk in your sleep?"

"No, sir," he answered. "I talk in other people's. Aren't you aware that I am a divine?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Rubey—And what did the doctor say Wiley—the said, "Put out your innards." Wiley—And then? Wiley—"Overworked."

Bar Dup in County Endorses W. R. Allen

The Bar of Duplin joined hands with the citizens here on Tuesday of Court and with H. D. Williams, Esq., in the chair resolutions endorsing Judge W. R. Allen for Supreme Court Justice were unanimously adopted. Several in the audience made loyal speeches in behalf of Judge Allen. The following are the resolutions adopted by the mass meeting:

Whereas, we have heard with pleasure that the distinguished son of Duplin County, in mass meeting assembled at Kenansville, on the 22nd day of February, 1910, that we heartily endorse the said Hon. W. R. Allen for the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.—From the Eastern Carolina News (Kenansville), February 23 1910.

Too Winning. She coaxed me to play bridge with her. To flout my safety lay. But I could not resist her spell. I liked her winning way.

My car fare only had I left When I had ceased to play, And quickly did I change my mind About her winning way. —Baltimore American.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangement, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal Laxatives reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark spots around the eyes, yellow skin, a constant feverish feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are sending help and protection. Chamberlain's Laxative and Liver Tablets give this necessary help.

They work in woman's own way. They do not merely force the bowels but keep up the liver and digestive organs in normal condition and enable her to do that one thing which is the key to her health—eat what she likes. Chamberlain's Laxative and Liver Tablets are sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents.

Judgment! Sometimes in selling mutton, too. As "Regular Reader" sadly notes, The butcher failed, if the tale is true, To separate the sheep from the goats. —Chicago Tribune.

Scriptural Reflection. The man with the fading fringe of hair in sort of a festoon from ear to ear across the back of his head stood to a store and watched a woman purchasing braids, switches and so forth. Turning sadly away, he mused: "Unto her that hath shall be given, but from him that hath not shall be taken even that which he hath."—Life.
