Presi dent Cleveland's action caused dismay among politicians at the time, thus taking from obscurity and making prominent a hitherto unknown lawyer, but there was no of the country than all other diseases put together, in the set either indical mistake in the act, either judicially or politically. And so recollecting these things, republicans feel that the' in national power, they are but spectators sitting by the tarrh to be a constitutional disease and wayside, watching the increasing procession of democrats in high office, by the grace of President is the only constitutional cure on the Taft. What indeed is the Presi dency under such office giving conditions !

THE SEASON OF HOLIDAYS.

The transition of holy day to holiday, is less marked in the spel ling, than in the change of observ ance, the way people devote themselves to the spending of the modern holiday. Particularly in this country is the Christmas time recognized as a season for jollities, not confined alto ether to Dec. 25, though that special day is a holiday in commercial circles, but among the young and many of the older ones dating at Christmas eve and extending to and including January 1st, good times, parties and frolics, entertainments of all kinds are in order, and the work aday is limited to as few hours as possible.

ating will stand sough wear and is cheap, but other materials may be employed, such as alpaca, cloth, serge, silk, woolen rep and cotton velvet. In a hall either silk or alpaca would be suitable, in a ballroom silk, in a dining room velvet or silk or, for a school feast, cloth or woolen rep.

The letters can be embroidered upon the fing, but applique designs are more effective and need very much less work. If embroidered the ordinary crewel stitch should not be used, as the effect is too flat and not sufficiently bold. The basket and straight stitches and the French knot are much the best for either mottoes or devices, and all kinds of thread may be used, according to the quality of the groundwork. Gold and silver thread, tapes try and other wools may be utilized.

Having decided upon the size of the flag, cut the material to fit, lay it upon a large table and arrange the inscription, pinning each letter or ernament into position and carefully measuring the spaces to insure regularity. In cutting out letters enormous size is not altogether necessary for legibility. Much more depends upon simplicity of form and in the grouping letters of each word closely to gether and allowing a reasonable distance between the words themselves.

When the motto or inscription is arranged tack it firmly in place and note the effect before sewing it; then closely buttonhole the letters all around the edge, fixing them to the material. Should the device be required on both sides make the material double, sewing the letters on each side separately before joining the two pieces together. The flag may be oblong or triangular or the oblong may have the lower edge vandyked and finished with braid, silk fringe or cord. If fringe, then a silk tassel at each corner is a nice finish and this, as well as the cord by which it is suspended, should match in color. To prevent the banner being too limp cord should be run through the hem around the edge to slightly stiffen it and it is then fastened to the pole by strong cords fixed to the crossbar. On the top of the banner a number of small curtain rings must be neatly sewed, or, perhaps better still, loops of cord, and these are slipped over the crossbar, or in the case of a flag they are put upon the side and then slipped upon the pole itself. The pole is generally painted or stained, and the head s of turned wood, frequently gilded.

How to Make Tamarind Water.

The pulp of the tamarind, that ec centric looking pod which is to be found in New York markets, has a pe culiar "tang" and is used in a chilled beverage called "tamarind water." Remove the seeds and pulp from the pods, stripping off every particle of hard, woody fiber that may cling to it. To a cupful of shelled tamarinds add a pint of boiling water. Stir the mixture thoroughly until it is thick Add a cupful of sugar and squeeze as much of the mixture through a strain er as possible. Set it near ice to cool. then add crushed ice and enough ice water to thin it a little. It should be very cold when served. Tamarind water, it is said, was once as popular as lemonade. It is still used occasionally for patients suffering from slight fe vers and is recommended for billions troubles. It is also administered to hildren instead of castor oil, as it is
