New Bern, N. C. Jan., 3, 1911

OFF WITH THE OLD ON WITH THE NEW

It is the spirit of youth to hurry, to rush forward, to demand constant changes, speed the parting year, welcome with acclaim the new year, as tho the ever tobe was to surpass what has been.

The passing of nineteen ten must be one of regret or rejoicing, from personal standpoints, because of such environments that have given joy or sorrow, produced the harvest of plenty or left the barren field, with its gaunt, ill favored weeds.

If nineteen ten has brought profit and happiness, in their combination for real good. both to the individual and those about, then looking backward is pleasant. There were sacrifices made heartily, unselfishly. There were bless ings received and devoutly appreself. Farewell, nineteen ten of bles. new waterway history. New chapsed memories !
