HER GIRL FRIENDS.

Mark Twain Dearly Loved Children as Playmates.

THE ANGEL FISH SOCIETY.

A Delightful and Touching Story About Little Margaret, One of its Members, and the Genial Humorist—A Pretty Compact and a Quaint Letter.

Like many another great man, Mark Twain was fond of children. He never outgrew childhood, and he always chose young playmates where they were to be found.

Another club of girls, little girls, became one of the chief interests during his final years. It had its beginning in Bermuda during one of his frequent visits to those happy islands.

It was in Bermuda one day when he was walking along the beach with one of his angel fish members that he picked up a small iridescent double shell, delicately hinged together.

"You will be going away from the pretty soon, Margaret," he said, "and growing up, and I won't know you any more, I shall see a great many Margarets, and now and then one of them will say she is my Margaret, but I will say, 'No; you resemble my Margaret, but you are bigger than my Margaret, and I can't be sure.' Then I will take out this shell and I will say, 'If you are really my Margaret you will have the other half of this shell, and it will fit exactly.' Then if she has the shell and it fits I shall know that it is really my Margaret, no matter how many years have gone by or how much older she has grown."

All this he said very gravely and earnestly, and the little girl took the shell thoughtfully and promised to keep it always. Next morning when she came running up to meet him on the hotel veranda he looked at her questioningly.

"You look like Margaret," he said, "but I can't be sure. If you are really my Margaret you will have a shell I gave her once—the mate to this one." He got no further. The tall man was promptly produced, and it fitted exactly. He returned to America, and somewhat later Margaret received a letter—one of the pretty letters he was always writing to children. In it he said:

"I am always making mistakes. When I was in New York six weeks ago I saw a small girl—not a bit one-start across from the opposite corner, and I exclaimed to myself joyfully, 'That is certainly my Margaret,' so I rushed to meet her. But as she came nearer I began to doubt and said to myself, 'It's a Margaret, that is plain enough, but I'm half afraid it is somebody else's.' So when I passed her I held my shell so she couldn't help but see it. Dear, she only glanced at it and passed on. I wondered if she could have overlooked it. It seemed best to find out so I turned and followed and caught up with her and said deferentially, 'Dear miss, I already know your first name by the look of you, but would you mind telling me your other one?' She was vexed and said, pretty sharply: 'It's Douglas, if you're so anxious to know. I know your name by your looks, and I'd advise you to shut yourself up with pen and ink and write some more rubbish. I am surprised that they allow you to run at large. You are likely to get run over by a baby carriage any time. Run along now and don't let the cows bite you.'"

"What an idea! There aren't any cows on Fifth avenue. But I didn't realize I didn't let on to realize how unkind she was. She was from the country, of course, and didn't know what a comical blunder she was making."

Margaret, with her mother, called when they returned to America. When the cards were brought to him he looked at hers and said: "Well, the young lady, her name seems familiar, but I can't be sure. It's my Margaret without a certain token which she is supposed to carry as a proof." The shell came up without delay. He took the shell and went to a jeweler and had them set in gold as a charm. One of these Margarets wore on a ribbon about her neck, and the other he linked to his watch chain, where it remained till he died. What a sweet fancy it all was!

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

Both Alaska. Robert, aged four, is the center of an adoring household, which includes grandmother and a baby sister. One morning at the breakfast table the boy seemed to be deeply meditating about something. "What's on your mind, son?" asked his father. "I was just thinking about grand-mama and baby," the lad replied. "You tell me that baby's teeth are coming in, and that grand-mama's teeth are coming out, and as far as I can see, both of their mouths look alike to me."—Youngstown Telegram.

REBELS WILL SHELL JUAREZ

Foreigners Notified to Leave, Cannon on House-tops.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 4.—Ciudad Juarez is practically depopulated today, everyone who could have fled to this side of the Rio Grande. The postoffice and banks there have been closed and all of the records and money have been brought to this city for safekeeping.

There has been considerable fighting beyond the town between the rebels and the Federal troops, and the latter are slowly falling back before the assaults of their foe. The casualties to date are not believed to be heavy, although details are not now available. House-tops in Juarez have been fortified and cannon have been mounted on the roofs of the public buildings. The Federal commander promised a stubborn resistance when the assault on the city, should begin.

The rebel army under command of General Orozco, is advancing in force and outnumbering the garrison of Juarez. Orozco complied with all of the demands of modern warfare by notifying the foreign consuls that he would shell the city at the designated hour, and giving them sufficient time to get their people out of the city.

That the Federal troops hardly expect to retain the city is shown by the action of the police in blowing up the Government powerhouse on the Mesa in order to prevent it falling into the hands of the rebels.

Orozco's brother is in the Juarez jail, held on a charge of treason. The rebel commander sent word to the officials that if his brother is harmed he will make reprisals on the Mayor and city officials when he captures the city.

Abraham Gonzalez, Provisional Governor of Chihuahua, who is here, said that the city would be taken by assault if it does not surrender. Then the provisional government will be established there, and the affairs of the rebels conducted from that point. The rebels control the railway and telegraph lines to the south and all communication is interrupted.

WHISTLER WAS INDIGNANT.

The Idea of Buying His Pictures and Then Demanding Possession. A certain eminent English lady, the proud possessor of a title of fairly high degree, who admired Whistler's genius to the extent of purchasing one of his pictures, never was able to obtain possession of her property. One day she drove to the studio in her victoria. Mr. Whistler went to greet her. "Dear lady," returned Whistler, "you ask the impossible. I will send it to you when I have it again, but it is not here. You have been misinformed." And so forth, and so forth, to the same effect, and the lady drove off without her picture.

After she had departed Whistler commenced to poke around his studio and to the great astonishment of a friend who had been an involuntary witness to the above conversation, he brought forth a canvas. "Here it is," he said. "She was right about one thing—it is beautiful." And it was beautiful. "But the impudence of these people," he continued, "who think that because they pay a few paltry hundred pounds they own my pictures. Why, it merely secures them the privilege of having them in their houses now and then! The pictures are mine!"

FORESTERS ARE IN CONFERENCE

Interesting and Instructive Lecture Feature Sessions at Raleigh.

Raleigh, Feb. 2.—Citizens from Wilmington to Asheville and beyond were here yesterday for the state forestry convention, which held morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Governor Kitchin welcomed the delegates and the response was by Hon. Fred N. Tate, of High Point. Other features of the morning session was valuable papers on "Forestry Problems of This State," by State Forester J. S. Holmes; "The Lumber Man and Practical Forestry," by J. B. Blades, of New Bern, and the "Relation of Waterpower to Practical Forestry," by W. S. Lee, vice-president of the Southern Power company, of Charlotte.

During the afternoon there were addresses by State Forester Alfred G. Killy, of New Jersey, and Thomas P. Ivy, of South Conway, N. H., the latter treating "Forest Protection and Revenue." State Geologist Joseph Hyde Pratt discussed comprehensively "The Stock Law and Its Relation to Forestry." There was a discussion of "Railroads and Their Relation to Forestry" by a number of railroad men and also a general discussion of changes and extensions of the forestry law for North Carolina that involves precaution against forest fires and conservation of the growing trees as the matured timber is being cut and hauled. There was an address by H. M. Curran, forester of the Philippine Island on "The Practical Application of Forestry."

PERUNA TONIC FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CATARRH.

JOSEPH H. CHASE. Peruna Drug Co., Columbus, Ohio. Gentlemen: I have used Peruna and find that it cannot be equaled as a tonic, as well as a cure for coughs, colds and catarrh.

You are authorized to use my photo with testimonial in any publication. Joseph H. Chase, 804 Tenth St., Washington, D. C.

Mr. C. Happy, Hardin, Ray Co., Mo., writes: "I can safely recommend Peruna as a remedy that will cure all catarrhal troubles. It was of great benefit to me, as it cured me of catarrh of the throat, and I took a very bad cold and had a grippe last February. It settled in my throat and lungs. I took three bottles of Peruna and it cured me. I highly recommend it to all who are sick, and I am glad to add my endorsement to that of others."

Pe-ru-na for Colds. Mr. L. Clifford Figg, Jr., 2929 East Marshall St., Richmond, Va., writes that when he gets a cold he takes Peruna, and it soon drives it out of his system. For several years he was not entirely well, but Peruna completely cured him. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets.

HAVE YOU TRIED PAXTINE

The Great Toilet Germicide? You don't have to pay $10.00 or $15.00 a pint for Listerian Antiseptic or Peroxide. You can make 15 pints of a most cleansing, germicidal, healing and soothing antiseptic solution with one box of Paxtine—a soluble antiseptic powder, obtainable at any drug store. Paxtine destroys germs that cause disease, decay and odors—that is why it is the best mouth wash and gargle, and why it purifies the breath, cleanses and preserves the teeth better than ordinary dentifrices, and in sponge bathing it completely eradicates perspiration and other disagreeable body odors. Every family physician appreciates this and its uses for toilet and hygienic uses. Paxtine is especially for sore throats, inflamed eyes and to purify mouth and brush after eating. You can get Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic at any drug store, grocery and etc. or by mail, ordered from The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass. who will send you a free booklet if you would like to try it before buying.
