Jail Life in Montenegro a Cheerful

Sort of Existence. Cettinje, the capital of Montenegro es the most remarkable prison system in the world. The jail presents little to indicate that it is a place of confinement. There are no outer prison walls, and in the cells the men-about ten in each-are as contentedly and comfortably housed as their own personal domestic belongings can make them. Moreover, they are generously fed, and cigarettes without stint, wine occasionally and no work at all combine to check any desire to escape more effectually than would strong walls, iron bars and an army of warders. When W. J. Stillman was in that country in the seventies all the free men were away fighting, and he observed how when a messenger was wanted the official took a man out of the prison and sent him off, having no fear that he would not return. One such messenger was sent to Cattaro, in Austrian territory, with 3,000 floring for the bank and duly came back. Another asked a Russian at Cattaro to intercede with Prince Nicholas for his release from prison.

"But you are not in prison," said the "Oh," said the man, "I have only ome down for a load of skins for Soand-so, but I must go into prison again when I get back to Cettinje."

One guard watched all the prisoners when they sunned themselves out of doors, and if he were called away a prisoner would take his rifle and do duty for the time.-London Mail,

A Slap at Whistler. A young San Franciscan, the owner of a large and valuable collection of autographs, once wrote to James Mc-Nelli Whistler, politely requesting his signature. The letter was sent in care of the London Royal academy, with which the famous American painter vas at outs. After four months the etter was returned to the Sun Fransisco address from the dead letter of fice in Washington. Covering the envelope was the word, repeated numerless times, "Unknown."

Academy of Sciences in Paris. The French word for rubber—caoutchouc—is simply a corruption of this Indian name.

La Coudamine treated the product is a mere vegetable curiosity. It was Fresneau, a French engineer, who first studied and utilized the substance. He embarked for Gulana with a model of the fruit and a sketch of the leaf. He rowed along the rivers, offered the natives drink and music and when he had assured himself of their friendship by these and other gifts showed his patterns and asked them to indicate the plant. His effonts were finally successful, and he obtained enough rubber to make a pair of boots, which he presented to M. de Maurepas, who went to court in them.
