

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

SHORT PASSING EVENTS

TUESDAY.

There were two small cargoes of oysters in market yesterday. The quality was not of any special excellence.

A one week term of the U. S. Circuit and District Court will convene in this city next Tuesday morning with Judge H. G. Connor presiding.

The reporter was informed yesterday by one of their relatives that Mr. C. E. Land and Miss Francis Bray formerly of this city, were married at Norfolk Sunday afternoon. The groom is the son of Mr. T. A. Land, of this city, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. Levi Bray, deceased.

Only a few weeks remain before the graded schools of the city will close for the summer and in the meantime the end of the term examinations will be held and the pupils are already making preparations for these. Prof. Craven states to the writer that the present term has been one of the most successful in the school's history.

It will be of interest to the travelling public to learn that Mr. S. W. Everett, well-known hotel man, and lately proprietor of the Everett House, Oriental, has removed to Manteo, and will conduct the large Roanoke Hotel at that place. The hotel is located on historic Roanoke Island. Tourists and other travellers find in Mr. Everett an accommodating and congenial host.

WEDNESDAY.

The two-masted schooner Varina, Captain Gibbs, master, arrived in port yesterday afternoon with a heavy cargo of corn, live hogs, poultry, etc.

About ten bales of cotton have been brought to the city and placed on sale on the local exchange this week. The average price still remains about 142 cents per pound.

A number of local citizens went down to Beaufort last night to attend the Thomas Whitford nuptials which were solemnized at that place last night. The contracting parties were Mr. Samuel Thomas and Miss Mary Whitford, both of that place.

The local order of Mystic Shriners are making elaborate preparations for the celebration which that order will hold in this city next month. A large number of the members of that order all over the State will be present to assist in the ceremonies.

A gentleman from lower Broad Creek Pamlico county, in the city yesterday informed the writer that one of his neighbors, James Jordan, had a plot of cotton up and growing. This is unusually early for cotton to be up as the most farmers around here are just beginning to plant.

Within the next few weeks the Farm Life School question will be agitated as it never has been before. It is understood that there is some opposition to this school in some of the townships and men who are thoroughly familiar with the subject have been secured to deliver addresses at these places on this subject. Craven county cannot afford to let the opportunity of securing this school pass by.

THURSDAY.

The schooner Mabel and Ruth, Capt. Geo. Conway arrived yesterday from Washington, D. C. loaded with corn.

Worked the Visitor.

"Speaking about visiting Englishmen," said a hotel manager recently who had been reading about one in the newspapers, "reminds me of one that came to the Palmer House in Chicago some years ago when I was room clerk out there. He and another had been paying a visit to the Rockies, and their last stopping place had been Cheyenne. Coming east they had fallen in with some Americans who made themselves agreeable, with this result:

"After they had put their names on the register one of the Englishmen leaned over the desk.

"I say," he whispered, "I am expecting President Cleveland's son to call this evening to return £50 which I lent him on the train. Will you please put the money in the safe for me if I do not happen to be in?"

"I promised, for I had not the heart to shatter his confidence in human nature. President Cleveland didn't happen to have such a thing as a son at that time."—New York Sun.

Royal Perquisites.

The king has many privileges which he never exercises. He enjoys an immemorial right to all gold and silver mines, not only on his own land, but upon any of his subjects' lands within his dominions. So shareholders in Rand and Westralian mines would have to forego their dividends if the king felt avariciously disposed. The king is also entitled to a yearly tribute from his tailor, consisting of a pair of white doves, a pound of cummin seed, a pair of scarlet hose and a silver needle.

All sturgeons and whales caught in British waters are royal perquisites. The whale has a split liability. Its tail belongs to the queen, while its head goes to the king. It is generally assumed that the partition was decided upon in order that the queen should always be supplied with whalebone, but if so the founder of this act of beneficence committed the mistake of giving the queen the wrong half.—London Chronicle.

The Fourth Estate.

Thomas Carlyle says that the term "fourth estate" was first applied to the newspapers by Edmund Burke when speaking in the house of commons about 1790. In consequence of the freedom which had been won for it during the reign of William of Orange the press had by the time of Burke become the power which well deserved to rank up with the king, lords and commons as one of the estates of the realm, one of the great creative forces of the kingdom.

The Awakening.

The twilight was dark. He softly came behind her and kissed her lightly on the cheek. She didn't scream. She didn't even look around. And he darted away undiscovered.

A little later he met her in the parlor.

"Then you knew who it was?" he said.

"Knew who it was?" she repeated. "Knew who it was that kissed you?" She gave a sudden start.

"Good land, was it you?" she cried. And there was something in her tone that sent him up to the dressing room, where he gazed at himself in the glass and kicked his own shins vigorously.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE FIRST ASTOR.

A Daring and Resourceful Operator in the Fur Trade.

John Jacob Astor was born in the little village of Waldorf, in Germany, in 1763, just as France at the close of the Seven Years' war was ceding Canada to England. He sailed to our side of the Atlantic in 1783, when George III. in the treaty of Paris was acknowledging our independence and when the merchants of Montreal were establishing the Northwest company.

He became a fur dealer, gradually gained control of the trade south of Lakes Huron and Superior, except that which was in the hands of the Mackinaw company, and won a reputation as a daring and resourceful operator, which made his name known in Montreal, St. Louis, London and Canton.

He had a dozen vessels about, representing a capital of $1,000,000, carrying furs to England and China in 1800, and at the time that the purchase of Louisiana in 1803 pushed our boundary to the Rocky mountains he was the wealthiest and most successful merchant in the United States.—North American Review.

The Man of Leisure.

Most of our rich men work very hard—not always because they want to, but in many instances because they have to. The husbandry of a big estate in itself may be a task for the whole of the time and thought, not of one man, but of several. As a general thing it is fair to say that our only man of leisure is the tramp. The social pariah, the mutineer against the rule of work, is the only one who can be sure of a care free, sybaritic existence, and even he lives in constant danger of rock salt from the farmer's gun or the onslaught of the watchdog around the corner as the hobo knocks at the kitchen door or pauses at the water trough to drink. The poor tramp is certainly a more frequent social phenomenon than the rich one.—Philadelphia Ledger.

FARMERS FREE LIST BILL.

Proposed Exemptions From Tariff Duties. Arguments in Its Favor.

Washington, Apr. 20.—The majority report of the Ways and Means Committee on the so-called farmers' free list bill, submitted to the House yesterday by Chairman Underwood, is a merger of Democratic political argument and an analysis of the proposed duty exemptions.

The report shows that the bill would reduce the tariff revenue $10,016,495, based on the importations for the last fiscal year, an amount described as "inconsiderable in comparison with the great saving and advantages to all of our people from the additions to the free list provided for."

The report takes up in detail the classified list of articles included in the free list bill. Regarding agricultural implements it says their manufacture is controlled by trusts and combinations that have sold in foreign countries at lower prices than at home, building up their foreign trade from $3,859,184 in 1890 to $28,124,033 in 1910.

In discussing the elimination of the duties on hoops, bands, wire and other articles made in metal, the report says the steel trust for controlling prices and selling more cheaply abroad. Similar charges are made against the meat combination and the makers of sewing machines. The reasonableness of putting the other articles on the free list is set forth at length.

Peppers in Finland.

According to the account of a St. Petersburg newspaper, the Finnish poor law system puts up abled-bodied paupers at auction, displaying them in the market place, where they are examined by employers of labor desirous of finding cheap workmen. The bidding works downward, the authorities handing over to the lowest bidder the chosen pauper, for the person acquiring the right to his labor receives an allowance from the authorities for his upkeep, the amount being that of the "lowest tender."
