THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

Even the Warld's Most Ancient Back Lamente That They Have Fled. A priceless manuscript of eighteen pages, found in an Egyptian monument and published in facsimile in France about the year 1847, is thought to be the oldest book in the world. Procured at Thebes by Prisse l'Avennes and presented by him to the national library at Paris, it is usually called the "Papyrus Prisse," from the name of the donor. As the manuscript was found in a monument of the eleventh dynasty, it must be an terior to the shepberd kings and therefore older by many centuries than the time of Moses-older even than the date usually assigned to Abrahamand so of all existing books it would be the most ancient. The words of every page, though believed to have been written 4,000 years ago, are in-tensely black to this day and in a bold, round hand. By a curious frony this echo from the very childhood of the world laments the good old times that had passed away. The author, who was a prince of the royal blood, gives warning to the young and declares that the words of ancient wisdom should be the daily food of children and grown men alike. Humility and obedience he makes to be the foundation of all virtue.-Christian Science Monitor.

The Torpedo Fish. The torpedo fish, known to scientists as the Torpedo electricus, are the electric cattish of the Nile. They can give an electric shock similar to that of an electric Leyden jar. This is useful to the fish in stunning prey and in confounding their enemies. This shock, like any other electricity, may be conducted through a metallic substance and is often uppleasant, though not dangerous. It is conveyed through au Iron spear or kuife, so that the person holding either of these implements may receive a shock when it comes in contact with the fish.-St. Nicholas.

Giving Thom Their Due. "It was simply a question of veracity between us," said the oldest inhab itant. "He said I was a liar, and I said he was one."

"Humph!" rejoined the village postnaster. "That's the first time I ever heard of either of you telling the truth."-London Mall.

PREPARED FOR DEFEAT.

Precautions General Taylor Took Be fore Meeting Santa Anna.

Santa Anna was the greatest mill tary leader the Mexicans bave ever known. Santa Anna, with 25,000 veterans, went into the battle of Buena Vista with the avowed purpose of exterminating the entire army of the United States, and there was no doubt in the mind of Santa Anna that this great feat could be accomplished with comparative case. General Taylor, with his 5,000 men, prepared for the unequal contest, and not only defended himself successfully, but won a substantial victory from his aggressive antagonists and drove them from the battlefield of Buena Vista.

Some time after the battle was fought and the Mexican war concluded General Taylor was criticised for having made no preparations for the retreat of his army in the event of defeat. General Taylor promptly replied: "I made every preparation neces-sary for the battle of Buena Vista. I wrote my will, and so did nearly every man in my army. If we had not won that battle we would have needed no be only preparation necessary for wills."

Shopping For a Railroad. Strict economy in buying is the only qualification that can insure a position as shopper for a railroad.

"The woman who can be talked into paying a cent more a yard for cotton or woolen goods than is absolutely neces sary need never apply for the job," said a woman who holds a railroad job. "It is my business to buy clothes for people who have been injured on our road. Pending recovery the road pays all expenses, and when patients are ready to leave the hospital they are provided with a complete set of clothing, even to rubber overshoes. Unless the patients are unreasonable in their demands we provide the kind of clothes they ask for, and no doubt many of them leave the hospital better dressed than they have ever been in their lives. Since those outfits have to be duplicated a good many times in the course of the year it is obvious that needless extravagance cannot be tolerated. The railroad insists upon purchasing all supplies, and it is imperative that the woman who does the buying knows to a thread the kind of material she wants and what she
