THE MISERABLES.

Hot weather expansion takes place among the material and the physical, alike. In the material its phases are technical, can be reasoned and mathematically demonstrated and explained.

At no period of the year, can there be found so many men of families, living in the smaller cities, such as New Bern, who may be aptly and truthfully styled, The Miserables. It is not that these men are over worked, or are specially sufferers from the heat. They are just homeless, tho' having wives, children and houses comfortably fitted to live in.

Perhaps at no public place are The Miserables more conspicuous, exhibiting more different moods, than at the post office at mail hours. Note the grin on that man's face as he reads his letter beginning "Dear Hubby." Not a mention of "please send $10."

And yet while these summer home staying fathers and husbands, may be termed, The Miserables, they are so from choice, many thro' personal sacrifice, and willing to bear their part in the scheme that makes up family life, the home, parents and children.

WEATHER TEMPERATURE DECEPTIONS.

Why is it the average person insists on asking what the thermometer registers when the temperature rises above 90? It is the same way when the weather turns cold. Take the spring and fall periods of the year, no one asks then is it hot or cold enough, or what is the temperature? And yet there are extremes of temperatures during both of these seasons.

Take the temperature from the mercury standard and the physical standard, and there is not just a wide range but a range that is deceptive. What the government thermometer registers on the tower of a ten or thirty story building and what the thermometer registers at the corner drug store, will during the heated term vary from 5 to 10 degrees, and often more.

as to temperature during such weather as the past ten days, could be estimated from a medical standard, or leaving out such a technical test, take people as they are found at work, at play or idle. Here would be found again the deceptive temperature, for the trained worker would be found to have the healthiest hot weather temperature, exceeding the idler, for the worker would find temperature in eating and drinking demanded, while the idler through non-occupation would over indulge if not go into excess, creating a physical temperature that would bear with difficulty the outside heat.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Made Napoleon Wait.

On the day when the courier brought news of the signature of the peace of Amiens, Talleyrand thrust the impatiently awaited document in his pocket, went to the emperor and engaged him in current affairs. When these were all disposed of he said: "Now I have good news for you. Read!"

"And you could not tell me this immediately?" exclaimed the astonished Napoleon.

"Certainly not, for then you would listen to nothing else."

ANNUAL PIC NIC AT PILGRIM'S REST.

North Harlowe, July 7.—The annual picnic of Pilgrims Rest Sunday school was held Saturday June 24th, and was in every way a success. The exercises were opened by Supt. C. A. McCabe, "Consecration," by the choir, morning prayer read by the superintendent Rev. W. J. Smith, of Morehead City, offered prayer, then "Oh Why Not Tonight" was sung. Miss A. V. McCabe made the address of welcome, the choir then sang "I'm a Pilgrim and a Stranger." Speeches by Sunday school scholars came next, and talks by friends of the school, Rev. Edward Bryant, subject, "Obedience." Brother J. R. Holland, "Just be True to Your School." Rev. P. B. Hazel, of the Colored Industrial Department, South Carolina, spoke on "Virtue." Professor White was delayed and the audience was entertained by Revs. L. G. Miller, A. N. Gooding, W. C. Miller and others until his arrival. Prof. White made a masterly address which was thoroughly enjoyed. Response by Rev. L. B. Blackledge, superintendent McCabe then arose saying that for the blessing of the Lord in being allowed to gather at another annual picnic, let all engage in a period of silent prayer and thankfulness, to which the entire congregation responded. The choir then sang "God be with You 'Till We Meet Again." Dinner and oh what a feast, barbecue, chicken, ham, cakes of all kinds, apple, peach, and other kind of pies, three long tables loaded down. Free lemonade and plenty of other refreshments for sale. A merry go-round was on hand too. There was no whiskey or drinking allowed. One young man came who had been drinking, but he was immediately bound with ropes and laid aside just close enough that the pleasing odors from our rich food and refreshments might become a punishment for his misconduct. He was released after a time and departed for his home unfed and dishonored.

HELP FOR THOSE WHO HAVE STOMACH TROUBLE.

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them, and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Polson, Iowa. Threatened the King.

The honor of knighthood is not one which appeals to everybody. Coke of Norfolk, who considered that he had a far better claim than the speaker to the designation of first commoner of England, strongly disliked the idea of a handle to his name. This fact was well known to George IV. When Coke was chosen to head a deputation praying the king to dismiss from his peerage and council those advisers who by their conduct had proved themselves alike enemies to the throne and people, George announced that he would give even with him. "If Coke of Norfolk enters my presence," he declared, "I swear I'll knight him." The threat was repeated to Coke, who rejoined, "If he dares such a thing I swear I'll break his sword." And as the sturdy Norfolk squire was quite capable of doing this, George refrained from carrying out his threat.—London Chronicle.

BOUNDARY MARKS

Limits a Fiery Orator Once Gave the United States.

THE CANADIAN LINE FENCE.

Monuments That Cleave the Two Countries West From the Lake of the Woods—Irregularities in State and County Boundaries.

The fates of empires and of dynasties have been involved in the struggle for boundaries. The argument that the Rhine was the natural frontier of France ended in the downfall of the Bonapartes and the exaltation of the Hohenzollerns, thus tearing the neo-German empire upon the ruins of the upstart French empire.

In our own country the cry of "Fifty-four-forty or fight!" held a threat of the mighty conflict that eventually proved irrefragable. And in our own day the dispute over the Venezuelan boundary nearly precipitated a war between the two greatest nations of the earth.

It was a startling figure of speech, that of the western orator who, mounting higher and higher to a climax of unbecoming, described the United States as bounded on the east by the Atlantic ocean, on the north by the aurora borealis, on the west by the setting sun and on the south by the gates of hell. Still, it was only a figure of speech. Canada lies between us and the boreal aurora. The Latin American states to the south hardly deserve the infernal comparison. As to the oceans to the east and the west of us, they may be left to themselves. Not mine the task of determining what the wild waves are saying.

The Canadian boundary presents its idiosyncrasies and eccentricities. The eastern part of it follows, naturally and spontaneously the regular water line formed by the great lakes and their outlets. Thence from the Lake of the Woods on the north of Minnesota a more direct course, man made and mechanical, is taken through the wilderness and over the mountains of the west to the Pacific coast. Nor has this course been suffered to remain a mere imaginary line. Man, having made it, has marked it well. Between the Lake of the Woods and the Red river cast iron pillars have been placed one mile apart alternately by the English and the American governments. These are hollow castings to pyramidal form eight feet high, with a base eight inches square, an octagonal flange one inch thick and a top four inches square surmounted by a solid cap.

Into these hollow posts are fitted well seasoned cedar joints, with spikes driven through holes made in the casting. The pillars are firmly imbedded in the ground. Inscriptions in raised letters face north and south. The north side reads, "Convention of London," the other, "October 23, 1818."

Beyond the Red river the boundary line is generally denoted by earth mounds and stone chert 7 by 8 feet, though these are occasionally diversified by wooden posts of the same height as the iron pillars and painted red above ground. Through forest clearings have been made a rod wide. Where bodies of water are crossed monuments of stone rise several feet above high tide. Over the mountain shafts of granite supersede the pillars mounds and castles.

There are eccentricities in state lines as well as in those which limit the confines of the United States. Thus the line that separates Delaware from Pennsylvania (Newcastle and Chester counties respectively) suddenly curves upward and forms a semicircle just above the ancient town of Newcastle.
