POLITICAL YIELDING TO TRADE DEMANDS.

Hardly has the agitation on the Ellier Lumber circular quieted down a little, before the chairman of the tariff commission of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, enters a protest against the proposed reduction in the cotton tariff schedule with the following:

"The so-called Underwood bill on the revision of the cotton tariff schedule is a bill framed apparently solely in the interest of the importer and foreigner—wholly unfair and unjust to us—ignoring entirely the interests of the American cotton manufacturer and the American laborer, and if enacted into law will turn cotton mills of our country into soup houses."

It will be remembered that this association was in session at Charlotte, N. C., some ten days ago, and in discussion, the sentiment was expressed that the tariff was a great economic question, and this being true there should be no changes in the cotton schedule, and a letter was drawn up and sent to Mr. Underwood, chairman Ways and Means Committee, Washington, D. C. stating the position of the Association and Southern Mill men, as regards any change in the cotton schedule. One of the number of reasons urged in this letter, probably contains the meat of the entire protest, and is as follows—

"We are opposed to reductions of duty on machinery and other items entering into the cost of mills, except such as will keep them on a parity with our own industry as to labor and costs at home and abroad. We do not want our property depreciated, nor do we want broadly to injure other industries to help our own."

Truly an economic statement, a practical business like presentation of the situation, but one in no political agreement with Democratic principles or platform, and certainly in discord with the Underwood bill which the Association declares as "wholly unfair and unjust to us." This is more sweeping than the protest against "free lumber," and if this is another call for Democratic leniency in the matter of tariff reduction, it is a serious problem to face, politically.

AVERON CO. FARM LIFE SCHOOL OF STATE INTEREST.

The matter of the Farm Life School to be established in Craven county, in one township yet to be selected from the three voting on bonds, while of great local concern, has a state wide importance.

The local sentiment on this school did not find full expression in the recent bond vote in the eight township. The elections in the seventh and first townships, early in August, may be said to have been the real test of the two townships, however its size will not indicate Craven county's true sentiment in point of numbers, of the favor in which this Farm Life School is held, or the general desire that is felt for its establishment.

In North Carolina this Farm Life School is a new thing. It is experimental and being so, there is found a lack of courage to be the first to undertake building such a school. Craven county people looked into the subject, so did the people of two or three other counties. Craven called for an election, so did other counties, but Craven is the one county that did not falter, but called for an election, in three townships, the people of each being willing to pledge themselves towards the establishment and maintenance of this Farm Life School. At present other counties have dropped out, and await the result in Craven.

The establishment of this Farm Life School in Craven county, is therefore a matter of more than local interest. The confidence exhibited by Craven, is to be seen in three townships being competitors. There can be no failure with such a local sentiment favoring this school. There will be other counties soon to follow Craven's lead.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. THE CRAVEN COUNTY TEACHERS ASSOCIATION AND SUMMER NORMAL CLOSED.

William Sutton, Prof. J. T. Barber, and Rev. A. L. E. Weeks, M. D. Fraxell, and Prof. A. W. Wetherington. The above named were also appointed as the committee of program. Committee on music, Mr. J. L. Books, Miss Leona Harris, Mrs. Mattie Oden, Mrs. Annie Weska, Mrs. Melvina Robinson, Mrs. Annie Reynolds, and Miss Pearl Spruel, and Rev. R. H. Sawyer. Committee on ways and means: Prof. J. T. The Puzzle of the Press. There used to be an aged elevator man who operated one of the lifts in the house wing of the capital. Most of his passengers were either representatives or newspaper correspondents. The old man got to know all of the correspondents very well and always had a cheerful greeting for them. It was often noticed, too, that he seemed to be greatly interested in their conversation.

HELP FOR THOSE WHO HAVE STOMACH TROUBLE. After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them, and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. Old Time Strawberries. Strawberries have improved very much in flavor since the fifteenth century. Until then the only strawberries eaten were wild strawberries of a kind which would never find a market nowadays. By 1480, however, they were beginning to be cultivated, for Hollnsted records under that date a particularly fine crop grown by the bishop of Ely in the grounds of his palace, now covered by Hatton garden.

SOLVES A DEEP MYSTERY. "I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It solved my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice and to rid the system of kidney poison that causes rheumatism, Electric Bitters has no equal. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50c at all druggists.

A Marvel of Insect Mechanism. The sting of a certain Indian fly offers as marked an example of design in nature as can well be imagined. When seen through a magnifying glass it is found to be composed of three sharp blades folded into one with their cutting edges outward and running down to one fine point. When the fly inserts this up to the hilt in its victim the three blades fly apart, and then it is seen that each inner edge is a beautiful saw, worked by six separate muscles, so that when withdrawn the instrument rips its way out with a gush of blood. But now comes the most curious provision of all. It would not do to fold up these blades with the blood adhering to them, so each blade is provided at its base with a fine brush of hairs growing out of an oil gland, which provides an antiseptic secretion to keep the blades clean.

RIDING THE BELLS.

Spectacular Feats of the Daring Ringers of Seville.

The ringing of a bell is not, as a rule, a performance particularly trying to the nerves, but there is one set of bell ringers the members of which must know no fear, for a moment of tremor would in all probability be for them the moment of death. They are the bell ringers of the Giraldos, in Seville.

When the city is to make merry on feast days the ringers climb to the belfry, and then by the aid of a rope and steps cut in the wall of the tower each mounts to the bell he is to ring and stands astride the shoulder of the brass monster. Then he presses the bell with his feet, holding on the cross-piece on which the mass of metal is swung.

Gradually the great bell sways to the muscular movement of the man astride it until it acquires a momentum that swings the hammer, first gently and then with increasing force as the sweep of the bell widens until the air is trembling from the giant blows that strike the massive sides of the monster.

The mere vibration of the atmosphere as the huge bells ring out would be enough to make an unpracticed ringer turn dizzy and fall from his perch. But this is not all, for many bells are ringing in the belfry at the same time in obedience to the movements of their riders, and the din is deafening.

Notwithstanding all this, the riders bend and rise and fall with the action of the bells, now appearing to the observer from below to be in a horizontal position as the bell reaches the limit of its swing and again riding gracefully to an upright position as the monster sways backward with another thundering note.

The most extraordinary part of the daring performance is the sight of a bell ringer calmly swaying the bell while it hangs far out of the belfry over the city, for the outward swing sends the counterpoise with the ringer into space beyond the arch.—Success Magazine.

The Worst. "My wife has been having some trouble with her throat," confided a friend, "and I got pretty worried about it and sent for a doctor. He examined her and looked very grave, and that scared me even worse. So I said, 'Tell me the worst at once, Doc,' and he whispered, 'She will recover her voice.' And my wife overheard the question and the answer, and now Doc and I are both in bad."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Waves in Solid Metal. As illustrating the advances in metallurgy and engineering it has been demonstrated that solid metals may reveal by their structure the vibrations to which they have been subjected. In explaining this phenomenon experiments have been shown proving that a beautiful wave structure can be imparted to the surface of mercury by the vibrations of a tuning fork, and that even the surface of solid lead which had been subjected to similar vibrations—possesses a structure resembling that of a vibrating surface of mercury. Mild steel has been defined as a "solid solution" of iron and carbon, free from cinders. Metallurgists have doubled the strength of steel as it was known in its early days.—Scientific American.

Tight Collars. Writing in the Hospital, London, Dr. Walford warns everybody against tight collars. He considers it remarkable that no one seems to have noticed or, at any rate, to have laid great stress on the fact that such slight obstacles to the free circulation of the blood through the vessels of the brain may adversely influence the health of those who are in the habit of wearing tightly fitting neckcloths. "The fact appears to be well known to veterinary surgeons, who tell us that neck constriction through badly fitting harness is a causative factor in 'staggers' in horses," says the writer. It seems to be equally well known that dogs suffer a great deal through having to wear tightly fitting collars. Is it too much, then, Dr. Walford asks, to argue that those of us who wear our own collars too tightly buttoned may find in that practice some explanation of a symptom—scribed to other causes?

FOILING THE PICKPOCKET.

What to Do When Your Hat is Tipped Over Your Eyes in a Crowd.

For a man there is only one really safe pocket, and that is a pocket which few men except experienced race goers have their suits supplied with. It is a breast pocket inside the waistcoat, and it should have a buttoned flap, for without the button even this hiding place is unsafe.

The second best place for carrying money is the trousers pocket, especially if the owner is rather stout. And the left hand pocket is better than the right. A skillful thief standing behind you may insinuate his right hand into your right hand pocket easily, but the left comes awkwardly to him.

For safety's sake the pickpocket seldom works single handed. He usually works with a couple of "acorns" who plant themselves in front of the intended victim. If the "job" is a difficult one they carefully jostle him at the critical moment in order to distract his attention. This jostling is usually called "working the ramp."

A favorite trick in a dense crowd is to tip a man's hat over, as though accidentally. His hands naturally fly up to set it right. Instead they should go straight to the watch and the money pocket. If your hat is knocked off in a crowd make sure your money pocket is safe before troubling about the hat. If you are quick enough you may catch a hand there.

The trained pickpocket's fingers are almost as delicate and sensitive as those of a skilled pianist. To become an expert demands long practice. But the expert could go with or without the shelter of a newspaper go through one by one, every one of a man's twelve or sixteen pockets except that one inside the waistcoat if he knew it to be worth his while. Three years ago a man was sentenced for training young pickpockets. He used clothes dumplings with bells so arranged that they rang when the picking was clumsily done.—Exchange.

Borrowed to Save. Uncle Reuben, the village white-washer and man of all work, was a frequent borrower of small sums from his neighbor, Colonel Arkwright, and as a rule he repaid these little debts at the appointed time. But on one occasion when he had been accompanied with a loan of $2.50, which he promised to return in a few days, he allowed two or three weeks to pass without making any mention of his indebtedness and, in fact, seemed to avoid his creditor. But one morning the colonel unexpectedly encountered him at the postoffice.

"Hello, Uncle Reuben! Didn't you borrow a little money from me several weeks ago?" "That's right, cunnel," said the old man. "I sholy did."

"You told me you'd pay it back in three or four days. Have you had bad luck?" "No, suh," responded Uncle Reuben. "I'll tell you how it was, cunnel. I lacked jes' two dollars an' a half of havin' ten dollars to put in de savin' bank, an' I used it fo' dat. It's all right, cunnel. I won't fo'git it."—Youth's Companion.
