WARRANT OFFICERS.

Their Grade in the Naval Service and the Pay They Draw.

The grade of warrant officer in the navy forms one of those naval castes which are puzzling to the civilian, says Searchlight Philosophy.

The warrant officer holds his position by virtue of a warrant issued by the secretary of the navy.

The warrant rank is next below that of midshipman and consists of boatswains, gunners, carpenters, warrant machinists, sailmakers and pharmacists. The pay is graded according to the length of service and nature of the assignment.

During the first three years the pay on sea duty is $1,500, on shore duty $1,125 and on leave or waiting orders $875 a year. The pay rises with each three years of service until the time of service exceeds twelve years, after which period the pay reaches $2,250 while on sea duty, $2,000 on shore duty or detached assignments and $1,500 when on waiting orders or when on leave.

All gunners are not warrant officers, but when a gunner has attained a warrant officer's rank he has, under the commissioned ordnance officer, charge of the ordnance magazines, etc. The warrant officer gunner is usually an apprentice with a good record, appointed after examination upon the recommendation of the commanding officers.

When the ship's carpenter is a warrant officer he is chief of all the artificers and mechanics. This office is called the carpenter's gang and consists of shipwrights, plumbers, pipefitters, blacksmiths, painters and carpenter's mates. After ten years' service the carpenter was formerly commissioned chief carpenter, with the rank of ensign.

The boatswain is one of the most important of the warrant officers. He has, under the executive officer, charge of the rigging, anchors, cable, cordage, etc. He summons the crew of all general evolutions and acts as assistant to the executive in carrying on the general business of the ship. The badge of office of the boatswain is his call or whistle.

COLORS AND NERVES.

Red and Yellow Are Said to Have a Stimulating Effect.

That colors have a profound psychological effect on human beings is a fact that should be emphasized. Used in small quantities, either in the clothing or in household decoration, the color red, for instance, is most stimulating, both in the way of helping to overcome depression and quickening the intellectual processes. But when used in any amount it tends to over-stimulation, with resultant nerve strain. According to a leading English authority who has made a careful study of the psychology of colors, there are some people so constituted that they become violently excited, fall into convulsions or faint if obliged even for a short time to look at anything vividly red.

The same effect has been noted from yellow. In one instance, the case of a man operated on at the age of thirty years for congenital cataract, it is recorded that "the first time he saw yellow he became so sick that he thought he would vomit." And that yellow has a nerve stimulating effect, fully comparable with that of red is curiously evidenced by the statement of a friend of mine, a shrewd observer, who says:

"Whenever the day is overcast or I have to do a piece of work calling for unusual mental exertion I always wear a red or yellow necktie. I find that either color has a beneficial effect on my thinking apparatus."—H. Addington Bruce in Ainslee's.

Bursting Steel.

An experiment that demonstrated the capacity of steel to endure greater pressure than the hardest stone was made in Germany. Corundum was chosen for the stone, and small cubes of both substances were placed under pressure. A weight of six tons smashed the corundum, but forty-two tons were required to crush the steel. When the steel did give way the effects are described as remarkable. With a loud explosion the metal flew into powder, and its sparks are said to have bored minute holes in the crushing machine. —New York Tribune.

Plenty of Stability.

A western mining prospector was paying his first visit to New York.

"What do you think of it?" asked the proud Gothamite, as he pointed out the skyscrapers.

"Waah," replied the miner, "it looks like a permanent camp all right." —Success Magazine.

Object Unobjected To.

Doctor: You are now convalescent and all you need, is exercise. You should walk ten or twenty miles a day, sir, but your walking should have an object. Patient:—All right, doctor; I'll travel around trying to borrow enough to pay your bill. —Boston Transcript.

His Preference.

Magistrate: You say this man stole your coat. Do I understand that you prefer the charge against him?

Pat:—Well, no, your worship. I prefer the coat, if it's all the same to you! —London Telegraph.

The Better Way.

"I expect to wake up some day and find myself famous."

"Better keep on dreaming, old man!" —Exchange.

WIFE GOT TIP TOP ADVICE.

"My wife wanted me to take out my key to the doctor to cure an ugly boil," writes D. Frankel, of Stone, Okla. "I said 'put Eben's Aroclor Salve on it. She did so, and it cured the boil in a short time.' Quickest healer of Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Corns, Bruises, Sprains, Swellings. Best Pile cure on earth. Try it. Only 25c at all druggists."

The blackbirds on the White House grounds seem to wonder if the premises have been sold. —Washington Times.

A Clause in Napoleon's Will.

Peter the Great is said to have made a will in which he exhorted his heirs to approach as nearly as possible to Constantinople and toward India, but the authenticity of this document has been disputed, and it is shrewdly suspected to have been forged late in the eighteenth century by August von Kotzebue.

Of the genuineness, however, of the last will and testament of Napoleon I. there can be no manner of doubt. One of its clauses was so vindictive as the testamentary injunction of Queen Astrid to her husband to have her two doctors killed and hurled with her. The exile of Louise absolutely bequeathed 10,000 francs to a fellow called Cantillon, who had been tried in Paris for an attempt to murder the Duke of Wellington. The man was still surviving in Brussels when Napoleon III. came to the throne, and Cantillon was duly paid his legacy.

A Scientific Question.

"Nothing is ever totally lost or destroyed," said the professor of physics. "In that case," said the simple and frank person, "how do you explain the fact that everybody loses umbrellas and you never meet anybody who has found one?" —Washington Star.

Public Baths Abroad.

London probably possesses more private baths than any other city, but in the matter of public baths it cannot claim first or even second place, says the London Chronicle. Tokyo, Japan, has over 500 public baths, where 300,000 persons bathe daily at a cost of about one halfpenny each. Constantinople probably ranks second; then comes St. Petersburg, famous for the vast vapor baths to which the Russian flock in thousands every Saturday evening. The finest public bath in the world is at Vienna. It has a basin 678 feet long by 175 feet wide and can accommodate 1,500 persons. The water is changed three daily.

The Building of Homes.

Dwelling houses may be constructed of anything from paper to iron safe.

When built of paper they consist of ground plans, front elevations and mortgages. When they progress to something more substantial they do not resemble in any way the front elevation or the ground plan of the paper stage and are therefore disappointing in these particulars. The mortgage, however, always comes up to expectations. The houses of the elect may be distinguished by the better pantry, the middle classes by the reception hall and those of the hot blood by the parlor. Houses are useful to eat in, sleep in, bathe in, dress in, hide in, be seen in, die in, store junk in, insure and burn down. Dignity in houses is typified by a parking in closed English country place, romance by a southern planter's mansion, poetry by a rose embowered cottage and humor by a modern flat.—Life.
