KING GEORGE'S INDIA TRIP

Wagers Against His Majesty's Safe Return. Extra Police and Guard Precautions.

London, Nov. 6.—Gambling on the life of King George is actually going on in connection with his trip to the Durbar at Delhi. The greatest unbusinesslike wagers among British officials in India and communicated here is said to have been several bets to be made that the king does not return to London alive.

Investigation shows that extraordinary arrangements have been made by the Metropolitan Police for the King's safety. It is the fact that he will be surrounded by entire regiments of English not to mention troops almost constantly while in India. Scotland Yard, while chiefly confining its activities to the metropolitan district of London, really stretches its long arms to the utmost confines of the empire, acting as the nation's secret service, and it has taken matters in hand to exercise a more rigid surveillance over His Majesty than ever a coronation time, when every suspicious person was summarily hauled from London or arrested.

The reason for the alarmist reports from India is the activity of the Progressive Hindu party, which is bitterly anti-English, and which has been recently and rapidly enlarged until it includes many members of most of the prominent Indian families. It is reported here that several plots have already been discovered for attempts to harm the King when granting audience to the Indian princes. Consequently the old medieval custom of examining the food for the royal table and of appointing guards to the bed chamber will be observed throughout the trip. While those in charge candidly admit that they will not be as freely untroubled as they were in the past, they believe the ruler is safe back in Buckingham Palace.

In charge of the King's personal escort will be Sir Edward Henry, recently made a knight by His Majesty. Sir Edward's other position is that of commissioner of Scotland Yard, being leader of the 20,000 men comprising that organization. With him will be Superintendent Patrick Quinn, head of the political department of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, who for weeks has been in touch with Indian affairs through the foreign office.

Already legends of plain clothes men have been spread ahead, who will go over the entire route which the royal party will take to Delhi after landing. In addition men have been posted in every European capital in touch with the royal party, keeping watch on Orientals and every Oriental in London has been shadowed. Also is every sailing list to India ports sent direct to Scotland Yard, so that nothing may be left undetected to insure the King's safety.

A Handsome Home.

Among the many improvements in the residences of this city, is that of the home of Hon. Charles R. Thomas on East Front street. The house is one of the old substantial brick structures and has a fine colonial doorway, and the interior wood-work is of a kind not often seen now. Mr. Thomas has made a brick addition and some interior changes, and the entire house is being renovated, with heat and electric lights put in. The large entrance hall will be in white wood work, and all the walls papered. After a long residence in Washington City, Mr. Thomas finds it pleasant to be settled among the home folks again.

ACROSS CONTINENT BY AIRSHIP

Aviator Rodgers Makes Journey New York To Pasadena, Cal., 4,231 Miles.

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 6.—Calbraith P. Rodgers, approaching a successful completion of his ocean-to-ocean jaunt, soared into Pasadena at 4:04 P. M., yesterday on the last spur of 30 miles from Pomona, and from an altitude of several thousand feet landed at Tournament Park.

Official figures of Rodgers' flight given by his manager show that the distance to have been 4,231 miles and the flying time 49 1/2 minutes.

Rodgers set out from Sheepshead Bay, New York, on September 17 at 4:25 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rodgers appeared in the sky line shortly after 3 o'clock. He was sighted first by telescope from the solar observatory on Mount Wilson and word flashed down the mountains by telephone brought 20,000 persons to Tournament Park. Flying at a height of about 5,000 feet, Rodgers hovered over the city for a few minutes, then circled in a wide spiral and volplaned down. His landing was a signal for a rush and Rodgers literally was mobbed. Rodgers started on the last dash of his flight from Banning, Cal., a little town out in the desert, where his arrival had interrupted the only diversion of the year—the funeral dance of the Mojave Indians.

Taking the air at noon, Rodgers arrived gracefully in the face of a twenty mile wind until he had reached an altitude of 400 feet. Then he set his course directly west and sparked his motor up to a thirty-mile gait.

The flier arrived over Colt at 1:37 p. m., with his altitude increased to 1,000 feet, and he kept his height until he neared Pomona. He remained there until after 3 o'clock, renewing his supply of gasoline and refilling the tank of the leaking radiator that brought him near disaster yesterday.

After leaving Pomona, Rodgers kept his ship aloft until he had cleared the highest peaks of the Sierra Madre Mountains. As he sped on to the finish at Tournament Park, he was on a level with the Mount Wilson Observatory and flying close to the ragged sides of the mountains.

His machine, a baby Wright that has only an eighteen foot spread of wings, seemed to hesitate for an instant as the aviator carried it into the perilous though spectacular spiral glide. At this time he was directly over the park, but as he came down the flier described a very widening curve until he was within a few hundred feet of the ground. Then Rodgers performed one of the dips Arch Hoxsey was taking when he was killed at Dominguez Field within sight of Mount Wilson last December.

Rodgers, in planning the flight, had intended to complete the W. R. Hearst $50,000 prize for a coast-to-coast flight. He found out before starting that he would not be able to complete the trip in the time limit stated in the conditions. He had understood that the start of the flight would have to be made by October 10 and the finish within 30 days. Later information gave October 10 as the finishing time limit. Although the aviator recognized that it would be utterly impossible for him to attain his goal under the latter conditions, yet he decided to continue the trip as a personal undertaking in the interests of aviation. Moreover, he had already spent nearly $25,000 in preparation.

TO FLY ACROSS THE OCEAN

Vauiman Says That His Big Balloon Can Make The Trip.

Atlantic City, Nov. 6.—Melvin Vaniman is certain that he was the happiest man in America today because he had saved from destruction his balloon Akron. "I'm mighty lucky," were the words he repeated to the thousands of visitors who visited his hangar all day to congratulate him and take a peep at the rescued airship.

Mr. Vaniman said tonight that he had not given up his plan for flight across the ocean.

"There is no truth in that report," he said. "At the proper time and after a number of test flights have been made I shall properly groom the balloon for the trip across the sea.

"You can imagine my feeling yesterday while we were stuck in the mud. For a time there I was afraid that my ship was a goner. I thought I'd never get my ship back to its hangar. I can safely predict that this airship will do everything it has been built for.

There is a likelihood that the trans-Atlantic trip will not be made before spring, but the delay will not be due to lack of lifting power of the balloon, which is capable of carrying a dead weight of 25,000 pounds.

We Tuesday there will be a conference between Mr. Vaniman and Mr. Sieberling, who is backing the balloon expedition financially. At this meeting it will be decided if an attempt to cross the ocean in mid winter shall be made. The repairs to the balloon will occupy two days.

SUCCESSFUL HEARING AT BEAUFORT

On Matter Establishing Harbor of Refuge at Cape Lookout. Large Attendance.

Tuesday at 11 o'clock at the court house at Beaufort the U. S. Board of Review of Harbors and Rivers, gave a public hearing on the question as to whether the government should spend several million dollars in making a harbor of refuge at Cape Lookout. New Bern was largely represented by members of its Chamber of Commerce, most of the party making the trip down and back on the Elfrida. Oriental was represented, while Morehead City and Beaufort had large delegations. A number of ladies attended the session, and there was great interest taken as the board of four, Col. Rossell, Chm. Col. Lyngfelt and Majrs Barton and DeKieme, with maps before them, heard those who came before the board, on the advantages of a harbor of refuge at Cape Lookout, and the necessity of the establishment of such a harbor on the North Carolina coast. Accompanying the government board were Capt. Crowley, Representative Boston, S. S. Limes, Capt. Brewster for the New York Steamship Lines, also Old Dominion Co., was represented. Petitions were before the board from practically every steamship line on the coast, favoring Lookout. The Norfolk Southern railroad was represented, also among those present was Mr. A. R. Raven, president Baltimore Marine Underwriters.

There were also Senator Simmons, to whom the securing of the hearing was largely due, Congressman J. H. Small, ex-Congressman Thomas who had worked for years on this matter, these gentlemen all having worked energetically for a harbor of refuge on the coast.

Mr. C. L. Abernethy, president of the meeting being quite informal, citizens, fishermen, Captains from Life Saving Stations and coast-wise pilots, being called, questioned or asked to tell of Hatteras and Lookout, the advantages or disadvantages of each. Everything showed, first, that Lookout might be made a harbor of refuge in preference to Hatteras, second, that there was need of such a place on the Carolina coast. Mr. Jule Duncan's statement as to Beaufort and Lookout, was the clearest presentation made.

The first hearing was on deepening the waterway to the eastern section via Carrot sound or Taylor's creek. The engineers report had been unfavorable and the matter was up on appeal.

The hearing on the harbor of refuge matter was given a most careful investigation, those presenting their views being closely questioned, many times being requested to give reasons why Lookout was so much better than Hatteras for the harbor of refuge, and so far as the audience filling the court house went, the sentiment appeared that the hearing was strongly favorable for Lookout.

After the public hearing, the board and a number of invited guests took the trip on the Elfrida to Cape Lookout, to see the place for themselves, and so learn from personal observation a confirmation, if such was needed, as to what had been told in the hearing.

This matter of a harbor of refuge for the coast has been before Congress for ten years. The district U. S. Engineer has reported favorably, the division U. S. Engineer unfavorably, which has caused the continual investigations and hearings. It is thought that definite action will be taken on this matter in the next Congress.

STILL WERE NOT CONVINCED

Marvelous Healings Reported by New Advocate of Mental Suggestion.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Bishop Oliver Sabir, of the Evangelical Christian Science church was overwhelmed with people desiring to be healed at Rauscher's Hall in Connecticut avenue. More than one hundred persons begged him to touch them with his hands or pray for them. Bishop Sabir "cures by mental suggestion and the laying on of hands" his followers say.

"I healed all that I tried to heal," said Mr. Sabir tonight, six hours after the meeting was over. "Out of a great throng of sick applicants I treated six. The mental suggestion and the laying on of hands, as I do it, is very trying on one's powers. I was completely exhausted when my work was over."

Bishop Sabir devoted the first quarter of an hour of the meeting to criticizing the new-making methods of Mrs. Eldy, Prophet Dowie and others. "I am not holding people up for money," said he, "like Mrs. Eddie and Mr. Dowie. We pass around the basket and let you give if you want to, but we do not insist on it."

The Bishop is credited by some with a remarkable cure in the case of Mrs. J. F. Maney. She went to the meeting with eyes bandaged and apparently blind.

She was led to a window, the bandage lifted and asked to make an effort to see. She declared that she could not tell whether it was day or night. Mr. Sabir then ran his hands over her face and head and she asserts, she opened her eyes and saw. Again she was led to the window and asked to point out certain things. She called the name of everything in sight.

The crowd was sceptical. Some of those present declared quietly that Sabir had put up a job on them.

An elderly woman, came to the meeting leaning on a stick. She had been a sufferer from rheumatism for years and asserted she was a hopeless cripple. But after Mr. Sabir ran his hands up and down her back and over her head a number of times she threw her cane away and walked to the street car without it.

The other patients treated would not give their full names. Bishop Sabir told them that the first names would suffice to get the benefit of his prayers and treatment. Nannie and Leonora were two other women, and John and Charles, two men. One of the women suffered from a nagging and persistent headache. She had it then, she said. Bishop Sabir cured her, according to her statement. Charles had rheumatism in one foot. He too, claimed he was cured.

Despite these statements many people went away still sceptical.

THRIVED ON MISFORTUNE.

A German Peddler Who Insulted the Kaiser and Got Rich.

A German peddler, Hans Bauermeister, retired from business, having amassed a little fortune. According to a Paris contemporary, misfortune was the foundation of his success. The peddler's specialty was the sale of portraits of the imperial family.

His mode of haranguing his audience was something like this: "Buy a portrait of William I, whose motto was, 'I have no time to be worried.' 'Who'll buy this Frederick II, whose prayer was, 'Teach me to suffer without complaining?' 'Do not fail to complete your collection and buy this portrait of our great emperor, William II, whose favorite phrase is, 'Augusta, you pack your trunks.'"

This last always brought down the audience, and in time the police, in another sense. Bauermeister was sentenced to sixty days for lese majesty. He did his time and on release restarted his business. He sold his portraits with the old formula until he came to that of the Kaiser, and then he said, "I have learned to my cost that it is not lawful to repeat what he says so often." The people were just as well pleased, and the portraits sold splendidly.

Committee Report President Taft As Right On Panama Canal Estimated Finish.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Congressional committee that went to the Isthmus of Panama last month, returned on the steamer Ancon yesterday satisfied that President Taft's prediction would be fulfilled and that the canal would be finished and open for business by 1913. As a result of their visit Congress probably will be urged to pass at the earliest possible moment legislation regulating the government of the canal and setting the question of tolls.

The party included Senator Brandegee, chairman of the Inter-Oceanic Canal Committee; Bristow, Cummins, Page and Overman, and Representatives Higgins, Senators Westmore and Thurston were on the Isthmus with the party, but the former remained there to nurse an attack of bronchitis, while Senator Thurston returned to New Orleans by another steamer Senator Brandegee said.

"The progress of the work since my last visit two years ago is remarkable. So far as it is possible to see into the future it looks as though the canal would be finished and opened for business in 1913.

"It will be finished within the estimated cost of $375,000,000. As the so-called miles of material into the prism, concerning which alarming reports are printed at intervals, I think little apprehension need be felt. The economy resulting from better organization, greater efficiency in operation, and better knowledge of methods of treating the slides have enabled the operating force to excavate the material without increasing the estimated cost of the completed canal."

BURIAL OF THE MAINE AT SEA

End of Wreck of Battleship. The Cause of Explosion Will Remain Unknown.

Washington, Nov. 8th.—The stern of the wreck of the Maine will be floated out to sea and buried; the bow will be hacked to pieces and hauled out on barges and dumped in the sea. Gen. Bixby, chief of the army engineers in charge of removing the tangled wreck from Havana harbor, has decided upon this course.

The aft section of the wreck is uncovered and is in excellent condition. The bow of the ship, where the explosion occurred, is a tangled wreck of boilers and girders and will not be completely uncovered for at least 3 months, probably longer, the time depending on whether or not Congress appropriates $25,000 for the work next month.

"In about three weeks we will start to trip the stern section free from the bow," Gen. Bixby said. "We have got enough money out of the last appropriation to sever the wreck into two portions, but we have not enough to remove the cofferdam and tow the stern out to sea.

"A great part of the bow is covered with mud and we will not know just how to handle that portion until we have removed the mud. It is a slow tedious job, but when it is removed finally the bow will be in very small pieces. The further we get along in the work the more work we find to be done.

"All these new theories about the destruction of the ship are mere guess work. We know just as much about the cause of the wreck today as we did thirteen years ago. The original explosion was so small in comparison to the explosions that followed from the magazines that the first cause probably left no definite clue."

Some Returns From Tuesday's Election.

In New Jersey the indications point to the election of a State Republican majority of the State legislature.

In Maryland Chairman John B. Hanna, of the Republican State Central Committee, claim the election of Mr. Goldsborough by 19,000. He said that Baltimore would give him 5,000 and the counties the other 5,000.

In Massachusetts Governor Foss, Democrat, claims his re-election by a reduced plurality of about 12,000, but the election is not close yet.

In Rhode Island various returns indicated the re-election of Governor Potter, Republican.

New York State elected a Republican Assembly, thus depriving Governor Dix, Democrat, of the support he has heretofore had from a Legislature Democratic in both branches.

Mississippi is Democratic.

The municipal election in Ohio resulted in the election of Henry T. Hunt, Democrat, as Mayor of Cincinnati; Newton D. Baker, Democrat as Mayor of Cleveland; and George J. Karb, Democrat, as Mayor of Columbus.

In Kentucky James B. McCreary, Democrat, was elected Governor.

The first election held in the new State of New Mexico is still in doubt. Inications point to a Republican Legislature, which will elect two Republican United States Senators.

United States Senator Penrose claims the election of George H. Earle, Jr., as Mayor of Philadelphia by 13,000.
