

4% INTEREST ON SAVINGS 4%

NINE TENTHS BY CHECK.

It has been estimated that nine tenths of the business of the world is done by check. This is conclusive evidence of the wisdom of depositing money with a sound financial institution and meeting obligations by means of the checking plan—simply writing checks instead of keeping a supply of currency on hand. It is safe, systematic, and assures economy.

THE PEOPLES BANK
NEW BERN, N. C.
STRONG, COURTEOUS, PROGRESSIVE

Delightful Short Sea Trips To OLD DOMINION LINE
NEW YORK AND ALL POINTS NORTH AND EAST
Affording Pleasure and Rest.

Norfolk to New York and Return (30 Days) $14.00

First class tickets include Meals and Berth on elegantly appointed express steamers.
Hot or Cold Sea Water Baths can be procured on Steamer without charge.
Steamers are all equipped with the United Wireless Telegraph System.
STEAMERS SAIL FROM NORFOLK EVERY WEEK DAY AT 7 P. M.
Tickets and Stateroom Reservations, Company's Wharf, Foot of Church St., Norfolk, Va. Ask your local ticket agent regarding through tickets. Send for Illustrated Pamphlet Desk J.

W. H. LONDON, General Agent, Norfolk, Va. J. J. BROWN, Gen. Pass. Agent, New York.

STOCK CLEARING

As a rule at the closing of each season there is usually a surplus amount of stock left over from the season. So to make room for Fall goods later on we are now offering special cut prices on our entire stock of Clothing, Shoes etc. It will be a saving to you to COME AND TAKE A LOOK.

SAM LIPMAN
Cor. Middle and S. F. Sts. Bryan Block.

IN THE PROPORTION OF SURPLUS AND UNDIVIDED PROFITS TO CAPITAL

THE NATIONAL BANK

OF NEW BERNE, N. C.

STANDS

FIRST among the banks of the City
THIRD among the National Banks of the State

And as it has Surplus and Undivided Profits amounting to $106,000 and Capital amounting to $100,000, it has a place on the National Bank Roll of Honor, which includes only banks having Surplus and Undivided Profits equal to or exceeding their Capital stock.

4 PER CENT INTEREST PAID ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS
SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

MEAL

It has just bent forward to suggest this to her when I saw she was going to speak. So I waited, smiling at her tenderly.

"And about Arthur—" she began, and I cut myself a painful stab with my nails—right in the pain—"now there is a case where I think you find"—she nodded toward the house again—"where you find one of his super qualities, the one quality that, of all, I admire in a man the most."

"By Jove!" I said, leaning forward. I wondered what it was—and then, dear H., I asked her.

"Just trust!" she said simply, and her face grew luminous. "Faith, perhaps I should say. My father has it larger than any man I ever knew; it is something that goes out from him with his friendship, with his love, making a dual gift—his voice dropped thoughtfully—his eyes studied his

J. A. MEADOWS

The GLOW of the RUBIES
By FRANCIS PERRY ELLIOTT
Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

And, by Jove, I was! Knew if there had been any change, some newspaper-reading chap at the club would have mentioned it—that was safe; especially one silly ass who was always reading of some jolly comet that was coming. He would know about the nights.

"Yes—Oh, yes, there are just as many!" I affirmed positively, and added quickly: "More, you know! For suddenly I remembered it was leap-year, and I knew there was some jolly rhyme about leap-year gives us one day more—so, of course, there'd be another night!"

"You don't know how glad I am to hear you say that," she said musingly. "There are just as many knights, you mean, but the conditions have changed—the man is changed—in that it!"

I should say the man was changed—"Oh, dash it, yes!" I bridled. "By Jove, I hoped there wouldn't be another change."

"You mean"—with a little, challenging, puzzled smile, she leaned forward, her elbow resting upon her knee like a sculptured, Grecian pillar; her flower-like curving fingers supporting her chin like a Corinthian what's-its-name, you know, the sort of thing the ancient what-you-call-'ems always added to top off their stunning marble columns—you know—well, like that—"you mean we may find knights, not only in the field, but in the shops, upon the streets—even in the stables; or in the hospitals, in the church of upon the bench—that is your idea?"

It wasn't my idea at all—I should say no! Who wanted to spend nights prowling around that way? Why, why, it wasn't respectable, dash it! Besides, that sort of thing—excursioning about seeing things—was devilish tiresome, if you asked me. I never did do it, even abroad, where you meet Americans, jolly bored and tired, doing all sorts of rump places no one else ever thinks of, don't you know.

"And as for a bench! Well, it was like her, in her innocence of the world, not to know how downright vulgar that would be. I had seen couples sitting evenings in the park—and I knew!"

But I answered tactfully: "I don't mean those places so much, don't you know—I think we can find lots jollier and better nights elsewhere." And I closed my free eye and beamed at her through my glass.

"Don't have to go so far, you know; under one's own roof, or—some one else's roof, for instance—why not here?" I jerked my head toward the old stone pile behind us.

"Oh!"—her eyebrows lifted at me—"so you've thought of that, too?"

she nodded gravely—"you mean in the library there?"

I winked assent.

The library suited me all right!

"Just now," she said in an odd, sobered voice, "I looked in as I passed through, and he was looking so crushed, so worn and tired, you know—he had just come from upstairs; and yet he faced me so bravely and smilingly—she shook her head—"poor fellow!"

I stared—puzzled, don't you know. Offhand, dash it, if I could see what the judge had to do with our evenings together—why, I had his own approval of my suit. Then I remembered that she, of course, didn't know that—yet. Probably what she had in her dear little mind was that he might be holding the library—and he would, if he continued to think he was busy; for I had heard him say he expected to work all night. But then, there were dozens and dozens of other places we could go—well, I should just say!

I had just bent forward to suggest this to her when I saw she was going to speak. So I waited, smiling at her tenderly.

"And about Arthur—" she began, and I cut myself a painful stab with my nails—right in the pain—"now there is a case where I think you find"—she nodded toward the house again—"where you find one of his super qualities, the one quality that, of all, I admire in a man the most."

"By Jove!" I said, leaning forward. I wondered what it was—and then, dear H., I asked her.

"Just trust!" she said simply, and her face grew luminous. "Faith, perhaps I should say. My father has it larger than any man I ever knew; it is something that goes out from him with his friendship, with his love, making a dual gift—his voice dropped thoughtfully—his eyes studied his

And, by Jove, I was! Knew if there had been any change, some newspaper-reading chap at the club would have mentioned it—that was safe; especially one silly ass who was always reading of some jolly comet that was coming. He would know about the nights.

"Yes—Oh, yes, there are just as many!" I affirmed positively, and added quickly: "More, you know! For suddenly I remembered it was leap-year, and I knew there was some jolly rhyme about leap-year gives us one day more—so, of course, there'd be another night!"

"You don't know how glad I am to hear you say that," she said musingly. "There are just as many knights, you mean, but the conditions have changed—the man is changed—in that it!"

I should say the man was changed—"Oh, dash it, yes!" I bridled. "By Jove, I hoped there wouldn't be another change."

"You mean"—with a little, challenging, puzzled smile, she leaned forward, her elbow resting upon her knee like a sculptured, Grecian pillar; her flower-like curving fingers supporting her chin like a Corinthian what's-its-name, you know, the sort of thing the ancient what-you-call-'ems always added to top off their stunning marble columns—you know—well, like that—"you mean we may find knights, not only in the field, but in the shops, upon the streets—even in the stables; or in the hospitals, in the church of upon the bench—that is your idea?"

It wasn't my idea at all—I should say no! Who wanted to spend nights prowling around that way? Why, why, it wasn't respectable, dash it! Besides, that sort of thing—excursioning about seeing things—was devilish tiresome, if you asked me. I never did do it, even abroad, where you meet Americans, jolly bored and tired, doing all sorts of rump places no one else ever thinks of, don't you know.

"And as for a bench! Well, it was like her, in her innocence of the world, not to know how downright vulgar that would be. I had seen couples sitting evenings in the park—and I knew!"

But I answered tactfully: "I don't mean those places so much, don't you know—I think we can find lots jollier and better nights elsewhere." And I closed my free eye and beamed at her through my glass.

"Don't have to go so far, you know; under one's own roof, or—some one else's roof, for instance—why not here?" I jerked my head toward the old stone pile behind us.

"Oh!"—her eyebrows lifted at me—"so you've thought of that, too?"

And, by Jove, I was! Knew if there had been any change, some newspaper-reading chap at the club would have mentioned it—that was safe; especially one silly ass who was always reading of some jolly comet that was coming. He would know about the nights.

"Yes—Oh, yes, there are just as many!" I affirmed positively, and added quickly: "More, you know! For suddenly I remembered it was leap-year, and I knew there was some jolly rhyme about leap-year gives us one day more—so, of course, there'd be another night!"

"You don't know how glad I am to hear you say that," she said musingly. "There are just as many knights, you mean, but the conditions have changed—the man is changed—in that it!"

I should say the man was changed—"Oh, dash it, yes!" I bridled. "By Jove, I hoped there wouldn't be another change."

"You mean"—with a little, challenging, puzzled smile, she leaned forward, her elbow resting upon her knee like a sculptured, Grecian pillar; her flower-like curving fingers supporting her chin like a Corinthian what's-its-name, you know, the sort of thing the ancient what-you-call-'ems always added to top off their stunning marble columns—you know—well, like that—"you mean we may find knights, not only in the field, but in the shops, upon the streets—even in the stables; or in the hospitals, in the church of upon the bench—that is your idea?"

It wasn't my idea at all—I should say no! Who wanted to spend nights prowling around that way? Why, why, it wasn't respectable, dash it! Besides, that sort of thing—excursioning about seeing things—was devilish tiresome, if you asked me. I never did do it, even abroad, where you meet Americans, jolly bored and tired, doing all sorts of rump places no one else ever thinks of, don't you know.

"And as for a bench! Well, it was like her, in her innocence of the world, not to know how downright vulgar that would be. I had seen couples sitting evenings in the park—and I knew!"

But I answered tactfully: "I don't mean those places so much, don't you know—I think we can find lots jollier and better nights elsewhere." And I closed my free eye and beamed at her through my glass.

"Don't have to go so far, you know; under one's own roof, or—some one else's roof, for instance—why not here?" I jerked my head toward the old stone pile behind us.

"Oh!"—her eyebrows lifted at me—"so you've thought of that, too?"

she nodded gravely—"you mean in the library there?"

I winked assent.

The library suited me all right!

"Just now," she said in an odd, sobered voice, "I looked in as I passed through, and he was looking so crushed, so worn and tired, you know—he had just come from upstairs; and yet he faced me so bravely and smilingly—she shook her head—"poor fellow!"

I stared—puzzled, don't you know. Offhand, dash it, if I could see what the judge had to do with our evenings together—why, I had his own approval of my suit. Then I remembered that she, of course, didn't know that—yet. Probably what she had in her dear little mind was that he might be holding the library—and he would, if he continued to think he was busy; for I had heard him say he expected to work all night. But then, there were dozens and dozens of other places we could go—well, I should just say!

I had just bent forward to suggest this to her when I saw she was going to speak. So I waited, smiling at her tenderly.

"And about Arthur—" she began, and I cut myself a painful stab with my nails—right in the pain—"now there is a case where I think you find"—she nodded toward the house again—"where you find one of his super qualities, the one quality that, of all, I admire in a man the most."

"By Jove!" I said, leaning forward. I wondered what it was—and then, dear H., I asked her.

"Just trust!" she said simply, and her face grew luminous. "Faith, perhaps I should say. My father has it larger than any man I ever knew; it is something that goes out from him with his friendship, with his love, making a dual gift—his voice dropped thoughtfully—his eyes studied his

And, by Jove, I was! Knew if there had been any change, some newspaper-reading chap at the club would have mentioned it—that was safe; especially one silly ass who was always reading of some jolly comet that was coming. He would know about the nights.

"Yes—Oh, yes, there are just as many!" I affirmed positively, and added quickly: "More, you know! For suddenly I remembered it was leap-year, and I knew there was some jolly rhyme about leap-year gives us one day more—so, of course, there'd be another night!"

"You don't know how glad I am to hear you say that," she said musingly. "There are just as many knights, you mean, but the conditions have changed—the man is changed—in that it!"

I should say the man was changed—"Oh, dash it, yes!" I bridled. "By Jove, I hoped there wouldn't be another change."

"You mean"—with a little, challenging, puzzled smile, she leaned forward, her elbow resting upon her knee like a sculptured, Grecian pillar; her flower-like curving fingers supporting her chin like a Corinthian what's-its-name, you know, the sort of thing the ancient what-you-call-'ems always added to top off their stunning marble columns—you know—well, like that—"you mean we may find knights, not only in the field, but in the shops, upon the streets—even in the stables; or in the hospitals, in the church of upon the bench—that is your idea?"

It wasn't my idea at all—I should say no! Who wanted to spend nights prowling around that way? Why, why, it wasn't respectable, dash it! Besides, that sort of thing—excursioning about seeing things—was devilish tiresome, if you asked me. I never did do it, even abroad, where you meet Americans, jolly bored and tired, doing all sorts of rump places no one else ever thinks of, don't you know.

"And as for a bench! Well, it was like her, in her innocence of the world, not to know how downright vulgar that would be. I had seen couples sitting evenings in the park—and I knew!"

But I answered tactfully: "I don't mean those places so much, don't you know—I think we can find lots jollier and better nights elsewhere." And I closed my free eye and beamed at her through my glass.

"Don't have to go so far, you know; under one's own roof, or—some one else's roof, for instance—why not here?" I jerked my head toward the old stone pile behind us.

"Oh!"—her eyebrows lifted at me—"so you've thought of that, too?"

Our Colored Subscribers

DOTS FROM DEBRUHLIS.
Craven County, June 11.—We are having it very cool for the time of the year. Our farmers are all hustling and the grass is growing. Corn is very promising, but cotton looks bad.

The first Sunday in this month the Christian Aid Society had its celebration with about 70 members in rank. Rev. Oden filled the stand, after a fine sermon a liberal collection was raised. All in attendance enjoyed themselves.

Since the heavy rain Friday, the water has nearly cut a canal across the road near St. James church. Unless something is done, it will soon be impossible to pass that way.

A mad dog was seen passing through here the other day.

Last Sunday the 9th, Miss Hattie White, the daughter of Mrs. and Rev. J. D. White and Miss Rebecca J. Matlocks took a trip in Carteret county to attend Children's Day at Davis' Chapel, they were accompanied by Miss W. W. White and her little sister, Janie, the little daughter of Mrs. Lucy Dillahout, Mary Francis and Miss Mildred White, from Wilmington. They reported a fine time.

Rev. J. D. White filled the stand and preached a fine sermon. A fine essay by Miss Hattie White and Miss Rebecca Matlock made a fine speech also. After the program a gospel hymn was sung by the audience and a liberal collection was raised, amounting to $23.50.

A grand rally took place at St. James church Sunday afternoon with Rev. Oden in the stand. He preached a fine sermon. After singing a short song $11.25 was raised.

At 8 o'clock the program opened with some fine singing and recitations. Miss Dowson of New Bern sang a solo. Miss Lena McWilliams and her sister, Mrs. Bettie Staten made fine talks talks also. Miss Frazzelle made an address. Miss Leona Harris, the popular teacher of our district, but now of New Bern sang a fine solo. We were all very glad to have so many visiting friends from New Bern. The total amount taken up was $16.85.

Come again one and all, we will be glad to have you.

THE BROWN SKIN GIRL.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

No matter how good people are, and how sure they are of going to heaven, they are nearly always anxious to worry along on earth as long as they can.

HELPED TO KEEP DOWN EXPENSES.

Mrs. J. E. Henry, Akron, Mich., tells how she did: "I was bothered with my kidneys and had to go nearly double. I tried a sample of Foley K. Pills and they did me so much good that I bought a bottle, and feel that they saved me a big doctor's bill."—For sale by all Dealers.

Remarkable Series of Crimes.

A one-armed native, according to the Pretoria (South Africa) newspapers, has surrendered to the police, after a series of Finnish crimes. Quarrelling with his fellows, he set about two dozen butts alight and fled to the hills, pursued by hundreds of men from his own district. They could not capture him, and he returned by stealth to his kraal, seized two children of the man with whom he had first quarreled, and dashed their heads against a rock in the sight of two other children, whom he had returned to their father and relate what they had seen.

The world does not want to hear your troubles unless you can tell them to try and make it laugh.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS
FOR BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM, AND BLADDER TROUBLE.

There is no real need of anyone being troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets will cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any unpleasant effect. Give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

A young man seldom kisses a girl against her will, but it's up to her to make him think that he does.

Legal Notices

MORTGAGE SALE.

Pursuant to the power of sale contained in a Mortgage from Stepmay White and Ella White to L. H. Cannon, recorded in the records of deeds in Craven County, N. C., in Book No. 170 on page 288, the land therein described will be sold at public outcry for cash at 12 o'clock N. on June 15th, 1913 at the Court House in New Bern on the corner of lot No. 2, then with said line of lot No. 1, W. N. 100 poles to a stake, then N. 11, W. 105 poles, then N. 7, W. 130 poles, second with the line of said lot No. one to the beginning.

L. H. CANNON, Mortgagee.

This May 29th, 1913.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of New Bern Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood in the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Help the kidneys do their work. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of severe cases.

Proof in the following: J. B. Pead, E. Second St., Washington, N. C., says:

"I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a remedy of merit. Backache bothered me and there were pains across my loins. These symptoms of kidney trouble showed that something must be done. The kidney secretions were also irregular in passage and contained sediment. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills as directed, and they entirely relieved me. There has never been any recurrence of my complaint.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

IN MEMORIAM.

On Monday night the third of June at 10:30 o'clock the death angel called and took from Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Riggs their only son Herman.

He had been in ill health for a long time. While at work in New Bern about eighteen months ago he had the misfortune to get one of his feet cut off. But after staying in the hospital and at home together for three or four months he left home again to take another position.

About a year ago he was stricken with that dreadful disease consumption of which he never recovered. At times he would seem to be improving and say he was getting all right and would soon be well which every one hoped that he was. He kept lingering on in this condition until about a week before he died when he was taken worse and we all knew that death would soon come with out a great change. He then gave up all hopes of ever getting well and told several that he was going to die and was ready to go when ever he was called. It did us all good to hear him talk that way, for we knew that he was prepared to die, and would be at rest.

Herman was a good boy and was loved by all who knew him, he was in the prime of life being only twenty-four years of age.

It seems hard for us to part with our loved ones but the Lord knows best and His will must be done. The Lord maketh and he also taketh away.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wm. Stanford at Tabernacle church and he was laid to rest beneath the sodding clay at 6 o'clock in the afternoon on the day following.

He leaves a father mother, five sisters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

The bereaved family have our heartfelt sympathy.

He is resting in Heaven let us all strive to meet him there.

We all loved him. But angels loved him more, And he is now at rest. On the happy golden shore. Written by a SINCERE FRIEND.

WHEN BUYING, BUY ONLY THE BEST.

Costs no more but gives the best results. H. L. Bomquist, Escalier, Wis., says his wife considers Foley's Honey and Tar Compound the best cough cure on the market. She has tried various kinds but Foley's gives the best results of all.—For Sale by all Dealers.

EXCURSION TO NORFOLK, VA.
Tuesday, June 18th. Very Cheap Fares via Norfolk Southern Railroad.

From	Schedule	Fares
Lv. Goldsboro	7:05 a. m.	$ 3 00
" Kinston	8:00	3 00
" Beaufort	7:00	3 50
" Morehead City	7:30	3 50
" Oriental	7:30	3 00
" New Bern	9:40	2 50
Ar. Norfolk	3:45 p. m.

Tickets good to leave Norfolk until 7:00 p m June 19th.
For particulars apply to nearest ticket agent Norfolk Southern Railroad or W. W. CROXSON, G. P. A., Norfolk, Va.

A sprained ankle may as a rule be cured in from three to four days by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle. For sale by all dealers.

Main Stand-By.
Mrs. Gramercy—if we have to economize I suppose you'll proceed to give up the motor car?
Gramercy—I should say not. We'll have to do it in some way that our neighbors can't see.—Puck.

Most fresh people consider themselves the salt of the earth.

FAMILY OF EIGHT MURDERED

The Bodies of Joseph Moore, Five Members of His Family and Two Guests Were Mutilated Beyond Recognition.

Villisie, Iowa, June 11.—Eight bodies—all mutilated almost beyond recognition—were found murdered in the home yesterday of Joseph Moore, a prominent business man of this place. The dead are: Joseph Moore and wife; Herman Moore, aged 11; Catherine Moore, aged 9; Boyd Moore, aged 7; Paul Moore, aged 6; Misses Lena and Ida Spillinger, aged 15 and 9, respectively.

The bodies of all with their heads terribly smashed with an axe were found murdered in their beds. There is no definite clue to the murderer, although the authorities are searching for a suspect. A desire for revenge is believed to have prompted the murder.

Only one of the bodies showed indications of a struggle. One of the Spillinger girls lay with one arm thrown out as though she had awakened and tried to ward off the murderer's blow. A lighted kerosene lamp was found on the floor in the middle of the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

The only clue to the slayer so far discovered are bloody finger-prints in different parts of the house.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of

An idler is a watch that wants both hands. As useless if it goes as if it stands.—Cowper.

SORE NIPPLES.

Any mother who has had experience with this distressing ailment will be pleased to know that a cure may be effected by applying Chamberlain's Salve as soon as the child is done nursing. Wipe it off with a soft cloth before allowing the babe to nurse. Many trained nurses use this salve with best results. For sale by all Dealers.

A girl will trust her love letters under her pillow at night, but for her rings she wants an absolutely safe place like an old shoe.

GLIMPSSES OF LITTLE HELL.

Jones County, June 11th.—We have had some very unseasonable weather lately, rainy and cold. Cotton has suffered.

Mr. Stephen Howard, of Loco, with Miss Cassie Eubanks, of this place, spent a few days in New Bern visiting relatives.

Mr. Bryce Riggs, of New Bern, visited at Rev. B. F. Eubanks' Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Nannie Higgins, of Loco, is a welcome guest in our neighborhood this week.

Misses Lila Oliver and Laura Jones of Lees Chapel, were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. Curtis Howard and Miss Parr Howard and Miss Cassie Eubanks attended church at Brick Kiln Sunday.

Mr. Buck Wilcox with Miss Mollie Jones spent Sunday with friends at Cove City.

Mrs. James Higgins, of Loco, was here last week visiting her son, Mr. Manly Higgins.

Mrs. Calvin Jones spent last week at Cove City with her son, Mr. W. A. Jones.

Best wishes for the Journal.

Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co.
Lake Drummond Transportation Co.

Lake Drummond Towing Co.
Dismal Swamp Canal

An Inland Route, Protected from Storm. Nine Feet of Water Minimum Depth Always.

Quick Transit for Traffic. Prompt Towing and Freight Movement.
For tolls, towing and freight rates apply at office in Seaboard Bank Building and at Deep Creek Lock, Va.
M. K. King, Pres. J. A. Milton, Secy.
J. B. Baxter, Supr.
J. T. Whitehurst, Traffic Manager. Norfolk Office: Bell Phone 521.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

H. W. SIMPSON
FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER

Day Phone 167, Night Phone 829
D. G. SMAW, AS'T.

F. M. Simmons, A. D. Ward
SIMPSON AND WARD
ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELLORS AT LAW
NEW BERN, N. C.

Office Rooms 401-2-3 Elks Building
Practice in the counties of Craven, Duplin, Jones, Lenoir, Onslow, Carteret, Pamlico and Wake, in the Supreme and Federal Courts, and where ever services are desired.

R. A. NUNN
ATTORNEY AT LAW

Practices in the counties of Craven, Carteret, Pamlico, Jones and Onslow and in the State Supreme and Federal Courts.

Office No. 50 Craven Street.
Telephone No. 97. New Bern, N. C.

DR. H. M. BONNER
DISEASES OF THE
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat
AND
General Surgery

Office in Elks Temple Next, Dr. G. A. Caton, New Bern, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SCHEDULES
N. C.—These figures are published for information and are not guaranteed.

O. 11—Leave Goldsboro, N. C., 6:24 a. m., through train, with chair car to Asheville, connecting at East Durham, for Oxford, Henderson, Keyville and Richmond—at University for Chapel Hill; at Greensboro for Charlotte and all points south, also for Davidsville, Lynchburg, Charlottesville, Washington, and all points north.

O. 13—Leaves Goldsboro, 2:05 p. m. for Greensboro, handles to Fullman Raleigh to Atlanta, connects at Greensboro for all points north, south and west.

NO. 111—Leaves Goldsboro 10:45 p m for Greensboro, handles to Raleigh to Greensboro, connects at Greensboro for Charlotte, Atlanta, New Orleans, Asheville, Knoxville, also for Danville, Lynchburg, Charlottesville, Washington, and all points north.

For further information ask any northern ticket agent or address the undersigned.

H. F. CARY,
General Passenger Agent,
Washington, D. C.

W. H. PARNELL,
Traveling Passenger Agent,
Raleigh, N. C.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY
FOR COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, AND ALL THROAT AND LUNG TROUBLES.
GUARANTEED SATISFACTORY OR MONEY REFUNDED.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best. Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, you'll please try Pastine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed. Pastine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more soothing than anything you ever used.

Pastine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth; remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep partial teeth and bridge-work clean and odorless. To remove lint from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.