New York.—Four persons were injured when a $12,000 automobile known as one of the three finest cars in New York city crashed into a telegraph pole on Jerome avenue, the Bronz. The machine was owned by Mrs. J. Maxwell of Fifth avenue, and occupied by her chauffeur and three of his friends.

The voltes say it was a "few ride"

MRS. WOODROW WILSON

Wife of the Democratic Presidential Nomines. Honorary President of the Woman's National Democratic League.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the new leader of Democracy and prob able next mistress of the White House, is perhaps the most interesting woman in the United States today. This is inevitable—not because she wishes it, for she does not—and is as firm as a rock in her conviction that being the wife of a public man does not necessitate nor call for a woman's becoming a publicity seeker. She successfully resisted all appeals of photographers and interviewers until Mr. Wilson's nomination as Democratic candidate for the presidency was un fait accompli. This modesty is easily traced to her southern ancestry and training and is characteristic also of her distinguished husband.

She was born Ellen Louise Axson, daughter of a Presbyterian divine of Savannah, Ga., whose family, so far as he knows, is the only one of the name in America.

Like Mr. Wilson, she has one brother and one sister living, all in the same literary circle as the doctor and herself.

In this atmosphere of learning Mrs. Wilson could hardly be expected to be other than she is-widely read, broad-minded and charitable, devoted to her home and the principles for which it stands.

She has marked ability as an artist, and it is said that a portrait painter of ability was spoiled when she married the young barrister who had then given up the practice of his profession to specialize on the subject that has made him a presidential nominee.

Mrs. Wilson's three daughters-Misses Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Jes sie Woodrow Wilson and Eleanor Randolph Wilson—possess the mental characteristics of their father and their mother's artistic temperament, combined in such a way as to give sest to every moment of their lives and pro-tection from the folbles of the world. They form, indeed, an ideal family circle, one that it would be well for every American household to emulate

The incident is interesting. Mrs. Meyer, widow of the partner of C. M. Simon, had saved about $4,000.00 from her allowance for housekeeping. At the time of her hus-, band's death, he was in debt and the creditors asked to have her money applied to her husband's debts. The Judge decided that the wife's money was not subject to being taken by the creditors.
