WHERE THE OCEAN BOILS.

Upheavals That May Be Caused by Submarine Earthquakes. Mariners say that in the midst of the Atlantic, about where the twenty-fifth meridian crosses the equator, there lies a region of mystery. It is on the line that ships take from Madeira to Brazil. Only within the past half century has it been sounded and its strange phenomena reported. One investigator declared that he saw the sea about half a mile from his vessel suddenly disturbed. For about two minutes it boiled up violently as from a subterranean spring. "Throughout the day there were observed great patches of discolored water which had exactly the appearance of extensive shoals. These and similar phenomena are frequently observed in this part of the ocean. Often a ship reports that she has experienced a violent shock similar to that which is felt when a rock is struck. Sometimes a great rumbling is heard, like that of a heavy chain rattling through the hawse pipes, and the vessel quivers like a leaf in the wind. At another time, in smooth water, a vessel has been known to heel over suddenly, as if she had run on a sand bank. Before this part of the ocean was thoroughly sounded and surveyed as it is now these phenomena were attributed to the presence of unmarked sand banks and rocky shoals, and the old charts were marked accordingly. But it must have astonished the mariner somewhat to find that he got no soundings with his deep sea lead immediately after experiencing one of these shocks. It is now generally believed that submarine earthquakes are the true cause of these convulsions.—Youth's Companion.

A FIRE HOUSE ROMANCE. The Old Horse Did His Part, but the Old Chief Weakened. Not long ago a fire horse was brought in from the farm, a horse thirty-six years old, that had not had a harness on his back for eleven years. This horse used to pull the chief's wagon. He had the faculty of getting under the shafts quicker than ever any horse did that stood on four feet. He never made a mistake, never a false move. By the time the driver was in the wagon the horse was ready to go, and when he went he went on the high speed. So beheld the old horse brought in from the country witnessing again the trials and frivols of the city. The horse was barefooted, his mane, tail and fetlocks grown out long and shaggy. The fire ladders went to work cleaning him up with loving care. The old red wagon of the chief was brought out. The shafts were lifted in the air with the harness hanging. The horse was standing, loose, 200 feet away. At a signal the gong was sounded, and like a flash of light the old veteran leaped for the shafts. A fireman snapped the harness into place. The old fire chief watched the whole performance, intending to spring into the wagon, provided the horse had not forgotten his cue. The horse knew how to do it; but alas, the venerable chief, now grown gray, merely stumbled and tumbled forward, threw his arms around the old horse's neck, burst into tears and cried like a baby.—Blacksmith and Wheelwright.

ROMANCES OF PORCELAIN.

The Climax to Pailley's Sixteen Years of Misery. The maker of porcelain and pottery has decidedly the most exciting and romantic trade in the world. The great factories of Sevres and Dresden were founded by Bernard Pailley. This man invented white enamel, but it took him sixteen years to make the invention—sixteen years of hunger, misery and persecution, which culminated in the episode, used in H. A. Jones' play of "The Middleman," wherein Pailley maintained his furnace fire by burning all the furniture in his house and finally opened the furnace door to find within the glaze which he had sought throughout the best years of his life. Bottiger invented hard porcelain. He was an alchemist, and one day, chancing to discover that his powdered mix was unusually heavy, he investigated the cause and found that the weight was due to the knoll with which the mix was powdered. This knoll was the substance for lack of which Bottiger's investigations had for years failed. When Elers, opened a porcelain factory at Burslem, England, he employed the most stupid and illiterate workmen, so that his secret processes might not become known. But Samuel Astbury resolved to tempt the Elers' stupidity, he got a place in the factory, mastered all of Elers' secrets and eventually opened a plant of his own, wherein he duplicated in every detail the work of Elers.

Terms of Venery.

There are terms of venery which a good sportsman will still observe in his speech. Thus he finds a "cock" or a "covey" of grouse and likewise a "covey" of partridges, but a "nild" of pheasants, a "bevy" of quail, a "wisp" or a "walk" of snipe and a "fall" of woodcock. Having found them, he "springs" the grouse and the pheasants, but "flushes" the woodcock, snipe and partridges. Further, he will tell you that grouse are "challenged" and pheasants "chuckered," that partridges "jug," quails "pipe," woodcocks are "fillers" and snipe are "at walk." So the bishop was strictly correct who spoke of "some who jug themselves like partridges into small coveys."—London Chronicle.

High Priced Copy.

During the siege of Kimberley the editor of the only daily paper there was often hard put to find enough news. One day in a clubhouse he found Cecil Rhodes reading a fairly new paper from Cape Town. He borrowed it and rushed to his own office, where it was prepared as a special edition. When he met Rhodes, who inquired, "What's my Cape Town paper?" "Oh, I cut it up for the printers," was the reply. "Please don't do that again," said Rhodes mildly. "That paper came through by native runners and cost me $1,000." Ignored the Hint. The midnight stillness of the darkened parlor was punctuated by a crash just overhead. "What-a-what was that, dud-dud darling?" exclaimed the young man. "Merely father dropping a hint," he replied as she snuggled a little closer.—Philadelphia Record.

SWEET REVENGE.

Mark Twain Proved That His Old Times Chum Was a Liar. When the great man "arrives" the associates of his boyhood days who need to laugh at the idea of his ever "amounting to anything" retire unobtrusively to the background. But when the opportunity arises to make an example of some such skeptical old friend surely no one could rise to the occasion more effectively than did Mark Twain on the occasion described by Albert Bigelow Laine in Harper's Magazine.

He came to Keokuk to visit and was offered a week and board to remain. He accepted. In the same building was a book store in which a young man named Edward Brownell clerked. He and Sam Clemens became great chums. Sam read at odd moments, at night, in bed, voluminously—until very late sometimes. One night Ed Brownell, passing upstairs to his room on the fourth floor, poked his head in at the door.

"What are you reading, Sam?" he asked. "Oh, nothing much—a so called funny book. One of these days I'll write a funnier book than that myself." Brownell laughed.

"No, you won't, Sam," he said. "You are too lazy ever to write a book." A good many years later, when the name Mark Twain had begun to stand for American humor, the owner of it gave his "Sandwich Islands" lecture to Keokuk. Speaking of the unreluctability of the islanders, he said: "The king is, I believe, the greatest liar on the face of the earth except one, and I am very sorry to locate that one right here in the city of Keokuk in the person of Ed Brownell."

According to a statement made yesterday by one of the leading cotton brokers of this city, there are at least one thousand bales of cotton in this section which have not been brought to market. In addition to this there are about fifteen hundred bales in storage in this city. This cotton is being held for higher prices than are now being quoted. Labor-Saving Cole Planters and Distributors THAT EVERY FARMER NEEDS. Every farmer in this section should own one of these Cole Planters and Distributors. They positively pay for themselves after a few days in the field. The planter plants better and cheaper than any other planter ever built. The distributor makes one trip do for two—doubles the good from guano. Cole Planters and Distributors are the "Farmer's Friend." They were "born and raised" on North Carolina farms. You'll find them so downright useful and reliable that you'll wonder how you ever got along without them—why you were ever content to put up with out-of-date machines, when you could own a Cole! The Cole Planter SAVES Labor of 1 Man and Mule Seed. Plants Cotton, Corn, Peas, Beans, Potatoes and other Seed. At one trip the Cole Planter smooths the bed, opens a furrow, mixes guano with the soil, covers it, opens again, plants the seed and covers them in the most accurate manner. The guano being mixed with the soil directly under the seed, feeds the plants as soon as the seed sprout. You get a quick start, get two chances at a big crop. The Cole Planter plants the seed in a straight line at the same depth. The depth is easily regulated. Cotton comes up in a straight line—without benches. It can be chopped to a stand cheaper, cost of cultivation is less. The seed falls in plain sight. The wind can't blow them away—none are wasted at the end of the rows. Doesn't skip or bunch the seed—as far ahead of the old style planters—as the old style way is ahead of hand planting. Works perfectly on any kind of land, where other planters are unsatisfactory. The Cole SINGLE FOOT Distributor Opens a Furrow and Sows Guano in One Trip. Here's a Cole Distributor with opening plow in front, which many farmers prefer. With one, you can run off rows, open a furrow, and sow guano at the same time. It'll save the work of one man and mule every planting day. Especially good for side-dressing—can be run right up alongside plant. Strongly made through, large hopper, strong plow wheel with steel spikes. Convenient lever, cuts off flow of guano. Has the reliable Cole fence foot, makes as a bicycle. Swivel red holds distributor rigid while you fill the hopper. Other Styles of Planters and Distributors to Meet Every Need. Besides these machines we have the Universal Single Foot (either fence foot or Knocker), Universal Double Foot, Knocker, and other styles suited to different uses. Discard your old out-of-date trouble making planter or distributor, hitch up one of these labor saving Cokes! Come and see them now. Guaranteed By Us and By The Cole Mfg. Co.
