

ELFRIDA STUCK HARD AND FAST

IT MAY BE NECESSARY TO USE DREDGE IN GETTING TRAINING SHIP FREE.

From reports received in this city yesterday afternoon it was learned that the North Carolina Naval Militia's training ship with the Washington Division of Reserves on board and which ran aground in Albemarle sound Monday morning while enroute to Washington, D. C., to participate in the inaugural ceremonies, was stuck so fast that it may be necessary to use a dredge in getting her free.

At the time the vessel ran aground the wind was blowing at a velocity of about forty miles an hour. This caused the water in Albemarle sound to rise several feet and as soon as the wind abated and the tide began to fall the vessel was left stranded in water only six feet deep when it requires at least ten feet of water for navigation.

The revenue cutter Pamlico left this city Tuesday from the point at which the boat was aground and rendered all possible assistance but according to reports received here yesterday she had not been able to get the boat in deep water. It is found that this cannot be done, the crew will be taken on board the Pamlico and carried to Washington.

FOR CROUP.

Make the air of bedroom moist by means of steam and rub Savoline on little sufferer's throat and chest. Then cover with warm flannel cloth. (Adv.)

Even the girl who has a steak-and-onions appetite can rave over the way the stage hero kisses the heroine's hand.

REASON ENTHRONED.

Because meats are so tasty they are consumed in great excess. This leads to stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation. Revive your diet, let reason and not a pampered appetite control, then take a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets and you will soon be well again. Try it. For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

MASK PARTY LAST EVENING

Enjoyable Event at Baptist Parsonage.

The members of the Philathea and Baraca classes of the First Baptist church enjoyed a delightful Mask Party last evening from 8 until 11 o'clock at the home of Dr. E. T. Carter the pastor of the church, on Johnson street. More than sixty guests were present and during the evening a number of interesting games were played and there were several instrumental and vocal solos rendered. Before the guests departed delicious refreshments were served.

FOR THAT TERRIBLE ITCHING.

Eczema, tetter and salt rheum keep their victims in perpetual torment. The application of Chamberlain's Salve will instantly allay this itching and many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

Americans should not scoff too much at the London suffragists. There was Carrie Nation, you know.

FOR ASTHMA.

The successful treatment for all cases is indeed hard to name. Those who are subject to frequent and severe attacks of asthma should be careful as to the selection of their diet and the regulation of their bowels. A change of climate is often helpful and the quick relief given by savoline should always be remembered. (Adv.)

We have in America men brave enough to seek the bubble reputation at the cannon's mouth, but no lawmakers courageous enough to cut the graft out of a $180,000,000 Pension bill.

Picking a Peckish.
A youth from the country was paying his first visit to Manhattan and, accompanied by his uncle, a New York banker, went to the theater. While waiting in the lobby before the performance the country boy hung back his coat and with hands in his pockets displayed a heavy gold watch chain. The uncle observed the act and resolved to teach him a lesson. While his attention was directed the uncle slipped the watch and chain from the boy's vest, and they entered the theater. "What time is it?" he asked when they were seated. The country youth felt for his timepiece and found that it was gone. Allowing him to tell the uncle he had taken it, the uncle told him he had taken it and read him a sharp lecture. "You are not in the country now, you know, where you can display valuables with impunity. You should be more careful. Let this be a lesson to you." So saying, he slipped his hand into his coat pocket where he had put the watch. To his utter dismay, he found it was gone. And when he looked to see if his own was safe he found that also had taken wings.—New York Tribune.

Tea Drinking as an Art.
Hot China tea, neither too strong nor stewed, should be drunk slowly. Some people put a clove or two in their cup of hot tea. Sugar candy is often used instead of lump sugar, and there are sugar bonbons that dissolve quickly in tea and are popular.

Some hostesses have their own sugar lumps made with special coloring and flavoring to suit their individual tastes. There are balls of white fondant strongly flavored with lemon or orange juice, others pink, flavored with rose; violet, flavored with violets, and green balls that have a maraschino cherry inside.

Tea to be used should be made rather stronger than for drinking hot. When it has infused seven minutes pour it from the leaves and sweeten to taste and then stand it in a refrigerator for seven hours. Serve in dainty glasses with a spoonful of vanilla cream on the top or else drop a small lemon water ice into the glass.—London Mail.

Where the Dogs Work.
Life is a vastly different thing to the Alaskan dog from what it is to his more fortunate brother with us. He is the hardest working member of the community and the most important social and commercial factor in the frozen country, for without him travel and intercommunication would be impossible during a great part of the year. Almost every man in this country owns from one to five dogs. They are his constant companions, aiding him in nearly all his work. When a pup is three or four months old he is given a course of training in the harness. At the age of seven or eight months he must start in with light work and must understand and obey "whoa," "gee," "haw" and "march," which latter means "go on" and is commonly pronounced "mush" by Alaskan drivers.—Country Life in America.

A Very Frank Lawyer.
Joseph W. Folk said that while governor of Missouri he received the following application from a young attorney for computation of sentence of death from Penitentiary county:

"This was my first case as a lawyer and I admit that I didn't know very much about defending a man for murder. I believe that if this negro had had a real lawyer to defend him he would have been acquitted. I don't believe you ought to let him hang for my ignorance."

Folk looked over the record in the case, thoroughly agreed with the lawyer regarding the manner in which the case had been handled and commented the sentence.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Crude Cannon.
Of the early cannon, the larger ones were made by taking bars of iron and binding them together with hoops leaving a hole in the middle. The hoops consisted of scraps of iron and other small stones. If they got too much powder in the gun the barrel would explode, and there would be the deuce to pay. The enemy were not the only ones that were in danger in those days. The gunner took his life in his hand every time he applied a match to the touchhole. But, with all that many fatalities in early times were decided by cannon.—Exchange.

Chamberlain's Tablets are sold everywhere at 25c a box.

BONI WOULD WED AGAIN.

Said to Be Trying to Have 'Cough Marriage' Declared Void.
New York, March 3.—Word has been received in this city through persons familiar with affairs in the Catholic Church that Count Boni de Castellins, the former husband of Mrs. Anna C. Boni, now the Princess de Sagan, has been pending lent near the Vatican in an endeavor to get through personal influence and the influence of prominent friends, the Congregation of the Rota to declare his marriage into the Gould family null and void.

The reason for this is said to be the desire of the French count to marry another American.

It is said that at the American woman's bidding to marry the Count at the time will do so only according to the rites of the Catholic Church. Such a decision cannot be obtained except on the official decision that the former marriage was not legal.

The case has been before the Congregation of the Rota once and was diversely decided. It is now said that all the facts were not put in.

This is the season of the year when mothers feel very much concerned over their frequent colds contracted by their children, and have abundant reason or it is every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality and paves the way for the more serious diseases that so often follow. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cure, a safe and pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

FOR COLDS AND COUGHS.

Who Invented Bonds?
No one knows who invented bonds, but whoever he was he was one of the great benefactors of the human race. He made it possible for great loans, aggregating perhaps hundreds of millions of dollars, to be split up into bonds that could be sold to individual investors all over the world, furnishing the money to finance the needs of nations, to found great new industries and to open up vast tracts of territory. We may read in the newspapers that $100,000,000 has been loaned to Japan by an international banking syndicate, but at the same time comes the announcement of a $100,000,000 bond issue, the obligation of the Japanese government, secured perhaps by customs revenues and offered to investors in the financial capitals of three or four nations. The $100,000,000 as a matter of fact has been loaned by the bankers; it is loaned by the people.—S. W. Straus in National Magazine.

The Terrible Test.
"Darling," cried the young man as he sank at the maiden's feet. "I would do anything to prove my love for you."
"That's what every man says when he wants to win a girl," answered the young lady harshly.
"Can't I more you?" panted the desperate Romeo. "Prove me. Put me to the test. Test me, I pray you."
"I wonder," whispered the lady softly to herself, while a blush mantled her pale cheeks. "The suddenly bending over the almost swooning youth who crouched at her feet she exclaimed. 'I will put you to the test!'"
"Ah!" The youth sprang to his feet, exultant, triumphant, and cried aloud to the maiden at his side: "Your test? Your test?"
"This to marry some other girl," murmured the sweet young thing as she glided backward through the velvet curtains into the ballroom.—Baltimore American.

An Ugly Weapon.
When boxers and fighters came together in the old days of Greece they wore upon their hands the cestus, which was in itself a terrible adjunct to any fighter. But there was sometimes attached to the cestus a deadlier weapon, consisting of a three pronged fork of bronze, known as the myrmex. Classical literature has frequent references to the myrmex, which is described as the deadliest weapon of the ancient pugilist. The right hand was swathed in tough hide, bound in place with thongs and supplemented by small knobs of lead or iron. This was the cestus, to which was affixed the myrmex. Combats in those days were much more brutal and dangerous than those of the modern prize ring. It is easily seen that a single blow of the myrmex might cause death or permanent injury.

Corrected in Rims.
Thackeray's name is mentioned by the autograph hunter, says Holder in his "Recollections." He alluded above at things to write in an autograph album and often refused those who asked him to do so, sometimes rather brusquely. On one occasion the owner of an album, a young lady, was fortunate Thackeray took her book to his room in order to look it over. Written on a page he found these lines:

Mount Dianc is the monarch of mountains.
They crowned him long ago,
But who they were to put it on
Nobody seems to know.

ALBERT SMITH.
Under these lines Mr. Thackeray wrote:

A HUMBLE SUGGESTION.
I know that Albert wrote in hurry—
To criticize I scarce presume—
But yet methinks that Lindley Murray
Instead of "who" had written "whom."
W. M. THACKERAY.

Expanding the Inspiration.
"Isn't inspiration a queer thing?"
"I suppose so. What about it?"
"Why, a few weeks ago I had a red-hot squabble with my wife over a dressmaker's bill, and when I came down to the office I was mad enough to chew spikes. Then I sat down at my desk and wrote a little poem on 'Help the Erring Brother With a Single Kind Word.' And, say, those verses, born in bitterness and nourished by anger have been copied in the leading newspapers all over the country. How's that?"
"Fine. Why don't you improve on the idea?"
"How?"
"Why, got mad enough to beat up your wife, set fire to the house, shoot a policeman and then write an ode that will go thundering down the ages."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Parnell's Apology.
Mr. Parnell, on April 10, 1876, characterized a statement made by Henry James as "a legal quibble" worthy of the honorable and learned member from whom it proceeded.

"I must inform the honorable member," said the speaker, "that an expression of that kind is unwarrantable and must be withdrawn."

Mr. Parnell apologized for having used the expression. "I will say," he added, "that the statement was more worthy of the ingenuity of a petty sessions attorney than of a lawyer of the ability of the honorable and learned gentleman."
