The Washington Post is urging that New York State send William Randolph Hearst to the United States Senate. The friends of the New York editor seem determined to keep him in the also-ran class.

This week in Washington the Daughters of the American Revolution will occupy the center of the stage along with Congress. And with this body there is always a possibility of something decidedly entertaining taking place.

We acknowledge receipt of the March bulletin of the Asheville Health Department. It is full of useful hints on health and sanitation. How many city health departments in North Carolina are sufficiently supported and managed with sufficient enterprise to publish a health bulletin each month? As far as we know, Asheville, is the only one.

Observation of Asheville's activity in this matter, which is of prime importance to all cities, should be suggestive to other cities of the wisdom of putting on a little more steam in this department.

THE COSTLINESS OF VEAL.

Patrick Cudahy, one of the group of meat-packers more or less known to fame, advises the cessation of the slaughter of calves as one of the means of solving the beef problem. It is said that a single year will add surprisingly to the weight of a calf and that it is therefore, so far as the quantity of meat is concerned, waste and extravagance to kill young calves.

Tariff free meats under the new tariff will go far toward bringing about cheaper beef, but it would be well for all of the States, as some have already done, to consider the feasibility of laws intended to prevent the wholesale slaughter of calves.

A plentiful supply of beef of good quality at reasonable prices would be a desirable thing for every community in the country. It is the most wholesome and nourishing, and to many the most palatable of the meats in general use.

They that dance must pay the fiddler, and it was a fearful price that that Hillsboro couple paid.

Swatting the fly is good, but starving him is still better. Here again an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

It is reported that Governor Foss of Massachusetts may bid the Democratic party. Well, that is the way some folks adopt of showing gratitude.

The inheritance tax on the estate of J. Pierpont Morgan will yield the State of New York between three and four million dollars. This is collecting tax from the right source—from those who are able to pay. The Morgan heirs will be fabulously rich even after the inheritance tax has been deducted from what the financier left.

Tariff speaker is the fact that the Argentine Republic with a population of only nine million people exports five times as much beef and meat products generally as the United States, with its ninety-two million people. Nothing strange about that. If the Argentine Republic had as many people to feed as the United States it would not have so much beef to export. But this is no argument against the raising of more stock by the people of the South.

IRONICAL

Secretary of State Bryan in his address before the Daughters of the Revolution, holding their annual session in Washington, told them that they must throw their influence on the side of the people in their struggle for Liberty. We suspect that the Secretary was a bit ironical in his advice to the Daughters. If the truth were known it is likely that a good sized majority of the ladies who take their society name from one of the greatest struggles in our nation's history are strongly reactionary in sentiment. The enjoyment of wealth and distinction makes talk about liberty seem tiresome.

HEWING TO THE LINE.

In all the tumult and the shouting over the tariff, Wilson is keeping a clear head. Neither those who want to wipe out the tariff on every thing that one fell swoop nor those who would devise a tariff that would lay the Democratic party open to the accusation made famous by Cleveland—the charge of "perfidy and dishonor"—can influence him. He is standing for a tariff that is satisfactory neither to the free traders nor the protectionists and what it takes to stand for his convictions he has got it.

PREVENTING DISEASE.

The Bulletin of the Stat Board of Health for April has an article on "Preventive Medicine", copied from the Youth's Companion. Prevention has never received the attention that it deserves, says the writer of the article, Dr. M. J. Rosenau, Professor of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene at Harvard University, and the reason why cure of disease gets so much more praise and notice than prevention is set forth in this paragraph: "The results of cure are positive—the results of prevention seem negative. Cure is real, active, evident; prevention seems mysterious, quiet, uncertain. For instance, the fact that the effects of prevention are not plain enough for every one to see is one of the obstacles against which vaccination has always had to contend. If Jenner had discovered a cure for smallpox instead of a preventive, and if that cure had been half as effective as vaccination, every civilized nation in the world would do him homage."

Really prevention of sickness is a matter of energy more than anything else. The thrifty, hustling family will usually be found to be the family afflicted with the least sickness, that is if the heads of the household are progressive people who keep informed as to the methods of prevention. Lazy, shiftless families are the ones in which disease makes its greatest inroads. A stitch in time saves nine but it will not do it for the fellow who won't take the trouble to take the stitch.

The Wilmington Star calls 'em Arncanians. We respectfully suggest Arncanite and hereby call for the 'ere.

By its long-drawn out qualities winter is making up for what it lacks in concentration. It's a rare thing when the weather fails to come back.

Daniels is something of a precedent-breaker, too. No more "port" and "starboard" in the navy, but just plain, old-fashioned "right," and "left."

If the new captains at Washington will just keep up the lick they will eventually get this government down to brass tacks, from which it has long since stayed sufficiently far.

The new administration is finding many hard nuts to crack, not the least difficult of which is the problem created by California's anti-Japanese legislation. It is an exceedingly awkward question and one in which Southern people are especially prepared to sympathize with the Californians through perhaps not approving of the extreme measures which the latter are about to apply.

The Democrats are not going to get by with that new tariff as easily as they supposed. The talk about getting the bill enacted into law by May 1 is already seen to have been ill-advised. When you are fixing to touch a man's pocket nerve, he is going to insist on being given plenty of time in which to seek to how that it is some other fellow you should be going after.

Dr. Wilson is taking care of the South and North Carolina in particular in his political appointments. Col. William H. Osborn of Greensboro has been given the very lucrative and responsible position of Commissioner of Internal Revenue. This with the appointment of Walter Page as Ambassador to Great Britain and Josephus Daniels as Secretary of the Navy is more probably than has ever come North Carolina way and there is no doubt more yet to come.
