By the time the voluminous correspondence between Secretary Bryan and the Japanese authorities has been completed both Japs and Americans will have had abundant time for their anger to cool. Some leading Japanese on a visit to this country say the talk of war between the two countries is hush. That is the way it has been regarded all the while here except by the jingoes who were responsible for it.

Some of the newspapers of the State are contending that the Constitutional Commission will not get the best results by holding its meetings at Morehead City. From a knowledge of the personnel of a considerable proportion of the Commission we would say that the diversions of the seashore will not prevent the body from doing good work. The Commission is charged with a difficult and important task and in the discharge of its duties it cannot fairly be criticized for making itself reasonably comfortable.

Senator Cummins states that he will insist on President Wilson giving the facts and information on which he based his charge that an insidious lobby is operating in Washington. Mr. Cummins is hard to convince if the testimony of his colleagues has not in the last week demonstrated the truthfulness of the accuracy of the President's conclusions. The fact is that the Republicans Senators are anxious to have almost anything considered except the tariff. They are for muddying the waters if there is any way to do it.

PATRONIZE THE HOOK WORM DISPENSARIES

We want to urge our readers particularly those living in the country, where the danger of hookworm infection is greatest, to take advantage of the hookworm treatment now being offered by the State dispensary operating in New Bern.

Competent scientists point out the fact that many children are suffering from this malady and it would hardly be good judgment to conclude that these scientists are wrong and that there is nothing the matter with those children of our country who look anemic and lacking in vitality.

Parents owe it to their children to make use of every possible opportunity to enable them to grow well and strong, and the free treatment for hookworm now being offered here, it seems to us, too good an opportunity to be overlooked.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL, THERE'S A WAY.

Big business has been clamoring for a prompt settlement of the tariff question, pointing out that uncertainty is one of the worst handicaps of business. The New York World points out that it is only business that is holding up action on the tariff. "Call off your dogs," it enjoins, "and tariff uncertainty will be ended." The World well says: "There was smooth sailing in the House of Representatives where the Democratic majority is so large that opposition is useless. There are rocks and torpedoes and sand-bars in the Senate, every one of them representing the hope, greed or desperation of some business man, and they are there simply because the Democratic majority is small. If business is in a hurry for tariff certainty instead of tariff uncertainty, why doesn't it help the President instead of hindering him? Where there's a will, there's a way, but there are good reasons to believe that in this instance the will is lacking despite the great amount of noise that is being made."

WOMEN AND BUSINESS.

An article copied from the Goldsboro Argus and reprinted in the Journal today tells of the promotion of a young Goldsboro woman to the position of secretary of the Whiteville Lumber Company. This is only one of many instances to show that competent and industrious women can make good in the business world. The possession of executive ability and sound judgment is by no means a peculiarity of the sexes. The ability to win success depends on something quite apart from the accident of sex. More and more women are entering the business world and establishing herself there. Some go from choice and some from necessity but by whatever cause impelled they have abundantly demonstrated that there is nothing in their mental or temperamental make-up that disqualifies them from succeeding.

PROMINENT NEW WAR ON HIRE.

Two of the most prominent citizens of Greensboro have been appointed assistant health officers. One of them, E. P. Wharton, a wealthy promoter and real estate owner, will carry on a campaign for the extermination of the fly. The other, Dr. J. T. J. Battle, one of the leading physicians of the Gate City, will devote his attention to mosquitoes. These men presumably are working without compensation or at least with only nominal compensation. A city is fortunate to have such citizens in its borders. Their efforts in behalf of the health of Greensboro will bring results that can never be estimated for it is always impossible to say what might have been had conditions been different, but that much sickness and suffering and many deaths will be obviated is as certain as anything in the future can be.

SHALL THESE OPPORTUNITIES BE LEFT FOR OTHERS?

A Wyoming man interviewed in Washington after a trip through the Atlantic Coast States South of the Potomac said that the people of those States are not up-to-date in the matter of stock-raising. "There has been," he said, "no keen application of effort to use the soil. I saw hundreds of acres of land which today would solve the problem of the high price of meat if men would quit raising a few acres of some choice product and give everything over to cattle and sheep. Indeed I am quite sure you will find before many years Western cattlemen with great herds on the Eastern slope of the Appalachian range."

It would be a thousand pities if the people in the Atlantic Coast States should wait for Westerners to come here and use the fine opportunities here existing for the raising of stock. Every one knows that the cattle growers of the West have made big money out of cattle raising and expert opinion as well as a limited degree of practical experience shows that the same thing could be done in the South.

The South wants to wake up and make the most of its advantages before outsiders come in and reap the benefits of the thousands of acres of fine grazing lands which can be had at comparatively low prices.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY LAW IS UPHHELD.

The validity of the newspaper publicity law having been sustained by an undivided Supreme Court, the average person would feel justified in believing it valid. Without of course knowing anything about the legal points involved, we have always thought the law desirable and no more than reasonable. While not a quasi-public institution like the railroad, the newspaper is different from most other business enterprises in that it gets a very low postage rate and is also intimately connected with the moulding of public sentiment and the best interests of the country seem to demand that the influences that mould public sentiment should work in the open and not behind the mask of concealed newspaper control. The publicity law is all right. Certainly an institution which make its livelihood from the purveying of information should not object to making public such facts about itself as the identity of its owner, extent of its circulation and the reading matter in its columns that is paid for. In fact, the better class of papers make all these facts known without compulsion.

Several years ago Porter Charlton, an American, was charged with the murder of his wife while the two were residing in Italy. Only this week was an opinion secured from the Supreme Court of the United States declaring it to be the judgment of the Court that Charlton had to go back to Italy to stand trial. Had Charlton been a poor and friendless man he would have been hustled back to Italy long ago. One of the most needed reforms in this country is the procuring of a system of law enforcement that will bear as rigorously on the rich and powerful as on the poor and friendless.

WELCOME TO DRUGGISTS.

The druggists of the State are very warmly welcomed to New Bern for their annual meeting. The Journal joins the rest of the city in wishing them a harmonious and profitable occasion. All must recognize the important place in the life of a community held by the druggists and must honor and respect them accordingly. They have very important and exacting duties to perform, duties which require a clear brain and a steady hand. May their annual meetings and the valuable suggestions and inspiration which they draw from one another at these meetings result in a constantly increasing efficiency in the discharge of their duty to themselves and to the communities which they serve. Again we say, welcome to the druggists.

Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch says that bathers are disposed to take more chances than any other kind of people. No more, we should say, than automobile and motorcycle speeders or even than aeroplane chaffeurs.

The weather man always has some surprises in store. Since the Weather Bureau was established some forty of fifty years ago, we do not attempt to say precisely how many there have been of course all varieties of weather. But never during all that time have such low temperatures for June been recorded as during the last few days. Some of these days, since it seems that there is no limit to the odd stunts that the weather can do, we may expect to see snow in August.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

OPEN CANAL ON SCHEDULE TIME

GOETHALS SAYS BATTLESHIP COULD BE SENT THROUGH IN OCTOBER.

New York, June 11.—Despite the many slides which have been vexing the work of those digging the Panama Canal, Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer says that the waterway will be opened on schedule time.

Col. Goethals was a passenger by the United Fruit Company's steamship Pastores, which arrived from Colon last evening. He is here in compliance with a request from the Secretary of War to attend a meeting of the directors of the Panama railroad, which is to be held in Washington. He went on to that city and will return to the Isthmus as soon as the meeting is over.

"The canal," he said, "will be opened to commerce Jan. 1, 1915. There is no question about that. If we begin letting water into the basin by July of the present year, there should be enough impounded by October to float a battleship through."

"In case of emergency, could any be sent through earlier?"

"That would depend upon how great the emergency is," the Colonel replied.

Col. Goethals said that there are only three places where slides have been occurring—one on the east bank of Culebra Cut, one opposite the village and one at Cucarache, which has been the most difficult of all to handle.

"I am going to put a vessel through the canal next Oct. 15," Col. Goethals said. "The vessel has not yet been selected, but it will probably be one of those employed by the commission. There will not be any sentiment about the selection; possibly it may be a flat-bottomed boat."

The Colonel said that he had promised the addition to the Fram, the vessel that Amundsen used in his Antarctic journeyings, would be one of the first to go through the canal, but not the first.

Have you ever thought of the difference between the butterfly and bee? The bee during the summer drovides for the winter. The butterfly saves nothing. Some people are like the butterfly; others are like the bee. People who consume all of their earnings as they go and make no provision for the future come to want some day. There is a time of need for the spendthrift just as sure as there is a winter for the butterfly. The prudent man or woman saves a portion of all the money coming into their possession and thus they lay up a store for the future
