Wilson vacation remote, says a headline. Well, when you come to think about it, this would be rather a ticklish thing for an executive that wants to get results to be off the job.

North Carolina just now would probably be considered by any fair-minded person as being in the progressive class. At one and the same time it is striving to modernize its constitution and to throw off the railroad yoke of oppression. To let well enough alone is not North Carolina's way of doing things.

The veto that the Constitutional Commission proposes to give the Governor hasn't enough teeth to make it particularly objectionable. If it were the standard article there would be more objection to it on the part of the members of the commission. Current opinion at the present time is not favorable to the centralization of power or anything that tends in that direction.

No further comment was forthcoming from the White House on the statements of United States District Attorney John L. McNab, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by the President.—News Item.

The President is one of those men who when they have said a thing don't have to explain what they meant by the words that they used. Having done the best he could with the problem that McNab's resignation placed before him, he passed to the other innumerable tasks which demand the attention of the chief executive of the nation. One of the President's strong points is that he doesn't waste words.

APPEARANCES SOME TIMES DECEIVE.

An article in this week's Raleigh Christian Advocate reprinted elsewhere in the Journal will no doubt be read with interest by many New Bern people. Most people we think will agree with Editor Massey as to the possibility of drawing the wrong conclusions from the many small packages of liquor that are seen coming into New Bern by express. As Mr. Massey says, a dozen packages coming by express will make a greater impression than barrels by freight. For folks are around when the passenger train rolls in and express offices are often in public places while freight depots are generally located in out-of-the-way places where the merchandise that goes in and out of them is seen by only a few people. We have heard the opinion expressed that more liquor is coming into New Bern now than at any time since prohibition went into effect, but in our judgment that is a big mistake. We believe that the search and seizure law by making it necessary for liquor to be brought in small quantities has operated to reduce materially the quantity that is consumed.

A copy of the new catalogue of the A. & M. College at Raleigh has been received. During the last year this well known institution had an enrollment of 669, with 310 in the several courses in agriculture. The graduates numbered 59. That there is a demand for the graduates of the A. & M. College is shown by the fact that nearly all of the graduates had accepted positions before they graduated.

Special attention is directed to the article on the front page of the Journal this morning on the erection of an equestrian statue to Stonewall Jackson. There is no equestrian statue of this wonderful military genius in Richmond and there is little doubt that there are many Journal readers who will want to join in making the memorial thoroughly worthy of the splendid character in whose honor it is to be erected.

The June Bulletin of the North Carolina State Board of Health has a seven-page article on "Why Your County Needs a Whole Time Health Officer." It is not altogether what you might call a bulletin, but it is interesting. Besides, there are a great many folks in every county who don't have to be convinced that their county needs a whole time health officer.

The State statute that Child of Police Williams of Wilmington has issued instructions to his men to rigidly enforce the law forbidding the sale of cigarettes to minors. This law should be rigidly enforced everywhere. But what is signified by the fact that it was necessary for a chief of police to specially notify his men to enforce a statute which says that they should do so?

A PROFITABLE BUSINESS.

The State Journal is keeping up its fight on the fire insurance trust and the comparisons that it gives of rates in this and other States indicates that the State Journal is right in claiming that the insurance companies have been charging all the traffic will bear. We have been thinking for some time that capital invested in fire insurance companies was with any sort of management, surprisingly productive of profits, and in view of the prices that the State Journal says the companies have been charging, it is not surprising that men who have put their earnings in fire insurance have got handsome returns on their money.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS A NIGHT.

Mlle. Chenal of the Opera Comique of Paris will not have to worry about the high cost of living. A cable dispatch to the New York World says that she has been booked by the Hammersteins for five years in this country at the modest little stipend of fifteen hundred dollars a night. We wonder if the more equitable distribution of wealth which a revised tariff is going to bring about will not have the effect of reducing the patronage of opera in New York to such an extent that the Hammersteins will find their investment unprofitable. For of course, though the millions of people throughout the country have not stopped to think about it, they are the ones who pay of the Mlle. Chenals. Unwittingly they have been pouring their money into the swollen coffers of the protected manufacturers and they are the ones who make possible the fabulous salaries of the "artists" who furnish diversion for the millionaires and near-millionaires of the great cities.

SMALL POX AND THE QUARANTINE.

The presence of a case of small pox in the city and in a somewhat central location calls attention to the small pox regulations, or rather absence of regulation, since the practice now is not to quarantine cases of small pox. The State Board of Health ought to know its business but it is a fact nevertheless that there is lively opposition to the "no quarantine" plan of handling this loathsome disease. Its object, namely, to force everybody to get vaccinated, is commendable, but it does not accomplish its object. We doubt if the records would show, if there are any, that there have been as many people vaccinated for small pox under the new plan during the time that it has been in force as there were for the same period of time prior to the new regulation going into effect. And the sense of danger from the disease is much greater than it was under the plan by which cases were promptly and thoroughly quarantined. In the opinion of the writer the public would welcome a return to the old plan and we also believe that under it fully as good headway in the direction of universal vaccination would be made as is now being made.

A NATIONAL POLICE COURT.

The National White-Slave Law was designed to punish a well-understood traffic in young women who are decoyed, deprived of their liberty and misused for profit. A national law was necessary because in many cases the victims of this bondage are found in Europe and on arrival here are transferred like chattel from one State to another.

Nothing resembling white slavery appears in the proceedings against Diggs and Caminetti in California in which Attorney-General McReynolds has been disagreeably involved. Whatever the offense of these young men may have been, it was against State and not national law. It is true that they eloped with two women to Nevada, but this is not white slavery.

Why should the United States Government be asked to prosecute such offenses? If it must take cognizance of seduction it will soon be compelled to notice breach of promise.

It is conceivable even that a Pittsburgh millionaire who chances to have a disagreement with a Broadway chorus-girl may require the distinguished services of the President, the Cabinet and the Supreme Court, to say nothing of special commissions of Congress.

Senator Root recently pointed out that the gravest danger of centralization was not the destruction of home rule but the overloading of the National Government, foreshadowing its certain collapse. What will precipitate that breakdown more quickly than an attempt at Washington to adjust the social relations, to cure the social follies or to punish the social misdeeds of 95,000,000 of people spread over a continent.—New York World.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; now comes out—ten years ago caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my household work."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for special instructions on your case and 64 page book, "Treatment for Women," in plain wrapper. N.C. 124

MISS LAURA WILLIS TO BE BURIED TO-DAY.

The body of Miss Laura Willis who succumbed to an attack of pernicious malaria early yesterday morning at Morehead City where she had gone to spend the summer, was brought to the city yesterday, on the evening train. The funeral will be conducted from Centenary Methodist Church this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and the interment will be made in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The pall-bearers will be: Robert Richardson, H. M. Hanks, L. H. Cutler, Jr., J. J. McSorley, T. B. Kehoe, Fred Richardson, Lyle Smith and Mitchell Rountree.

COMPLICATION OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Yields to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Athens, Texas.—"I had a complication of diseases, some of them of long standing. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and some other things that I must confess that I am much better in every way and have been relieved of some of the worst troubles. My neighbors say I look younger now than I did fifteen years ago."—Mrs. SARAH R. WHITLEY, Athens, Texas, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 92.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 50 years.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many of them state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
