

FACING TORTURES.

The Sublime Courage Shown by an American Indian.

WILLING TO DIE FOR ANOTHER.

Story of a Dramatic Episode in Which the Iowas and Musquakie Tribes Figured—Heraldism That Won the Admiration of the Enemy.

A striking story of the courage and self-sacrifice of which the American Indian is capable is given by O. H. Mills in the Des Moines Register and Leader. It was told to the white men by the famous Sac chief, Black Hawk, who himself saw the incident.

It all began with an unfortunate quarrel between an Iowan and a Musquakie in which the latter killed the former and then in a moment of frenzy scalped his victim. The two tribes were at peace, and this act, allowable only in time of war, was in Indian eyes, an intolerable breach of good faith.

The Musquakies offered all sorts of reparation, but the Iowas would accept nothing but the person of the offender, to be tortured and put to death in propitiation of the outraged spirit of the dead man. To this the Musquakies agreed on condition that the culprit be given a month to fortify himself for his terrible ordeal. But just as the month was about to expire he fell ill with a raging fever. In that condition he could not be carried across the prairie, but a failure to produce him at the appointed place would arouse the suspicions and perhaps the hostility of the Iowas.

A council was called to debate the matter, before which appeared Cono, a brother of the sick man. "There are no squaw men in our family," he declared. "I will go in his place."

The others tried to dissuade him and described to him the tortures he would have to undergo, but he insisted upon making the sacrifice. Accordingly an escort was selected to accompany him, at the head of which Black Hawk, then a young but widely respected chief, was placed.

"I never saw a more pathetic scene," said Black Hawk, "than the parting of Cono and his father and mother and other relatives. The whole tribe was overwhelmed with gloom."

In the middle of the afternoon the party arrived at the Iowan's village. Cono had asked that his identity should not be disclosed, but one of the Iowas who was present at the time the young Indian was slain saw that the guilty party was not being delivered, and Black Hawk told the whole story. The Iowas accepted it as true and, after a brief council, consented to the arrangement. The death circle was staked out and patrolled with armed guards, and Cono was placed in its center, while his escort was entertained in the tepee of the chief. It was a chilly November day, and the sun was just sinking behind the cliffs of the Des Moines river when the escort left the camp.

They paused on a hill about a half mile distant from the camp. They could see that the fire had been lighted round the death circle, and in the hush of the evening came the plaintive sound of Cono chanting his death song.

Having traveled some two hours, they halted and made camp. About midnight they heard the clatter of horses' feet, and in a moment more a single horseman rode up. It was Cono! This was his remarkable story:

The fire of the death circle were burning brightly, and the squaws with their burning sticks were preparing to make the first attempt to extort a cry of pain and agony, when an old man, the father of the dead Indian, raised his voice:

"Stop!" he said. "Let me speak. I am the one that has suffered. My son was killed and scalped by a Musquakie. I was hungry for revenge, and were the one that killed and scalped him here I would shout with joy at his torture. But this young man is brave. Never have I seen such bravery before. He is too good a man to torture and kill. Release him and let him return to his own people."

Although the entire village a few hours before had been eager for revenge, there was a murmur of approval as the old man gathered his blanket about him and took his seat. Without any one's making a single objection, Cono was removed from the circle and given food and drink. A few hours later he was led from the camp, allowed to mount his own pony and depart in peace.

He was taken to convey a profound lesson. "You must forgive your enemies, boys," she said, "and then your enemies will forgive you. I want you all to try it."

The next morning Johnny Jones came to school with a very black eye. "Why, Johnny, what's the matter?" "Aw," replied Johnny, "I've been fornicating with a girl named Helen." "Scrapie Green an' make 'im forgive me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SNAKES AS THEY FEED.

When They Start Swallowing They Never Know When to Stop.

The swallowing process is a serious matter for any serpent, which must draw itself painfully over its prey by biting its jaws, armed with backward curving teeth, forward, on one side and then the other, and by similar movements of the neck, ribs and skin, until the whole mass has finally reached the prolonged stomach. The snake's jaws are attached to the skull, and the bones of the head and neck are connected by elastic ligaments which may be so stretched that an object considerably larger than the head itself may be swallowed if rightly seized; hence prey is usually turned about after killing it, until its nose is foremost when the undertaking begins. A copious flow of saliva assists deglutition.

Once started, a snake never knows when to stop; has little ability to do so, indeed, and the prey rarely kicks loose. It has happened frequently in zoological collections that a large snake has swallowed a smaller one mechanically, as it were, when each has seized the same food animal. Both swallowed at it until the larger reached the nose of the smaller diner and then kept right on as long as there was anything in its mouth, unless the victim of this discourtesy managed quickly to let go of the fare and escape.

Bartlett tells us, in his book on the care of animals in the London zoo, of one case where a box constrictor devoured a cage mate nine feet long who did not feel disposed to let go of his half of a pigeon. Next morning this box could not curl up, but had to lie straight out for several days, and a month was spent in the digestion of this inopportune meal. Snakes will keep pushing their jaws over a string of frogs or mice tied together until they have got outside the whole chain. These animals have little, if any, sense of taste and when they get their teeth into anything soft try to eat it.

BULLET PHOTOGRAPHY.

Curious Effect of Shooting Through a Thin Stick of Wood.

Moving pictures have been made at the rate of 100,000 a second in contrast with the rate of fifteen or twenty a second, which is enough when reproduced on a screen to give the eye the impression of a continuous picture. The only thing that moves fast enough to make such tremendous speed worth using is a bullet, and some extraordinary pictures of bullets have been taken at this rate, seventy-two pictures being taken of a revolver bullet as it moved ten inches from the muzzle.

Pictures of a bullet passing through a stick of wood showed a queer condition. The bullet passed completely through the thin stick and was well on its way beyond before the wood gave any sign of distress. Then some tiny splinters started out, following the bullet, the stick began to split, and after the bullet had proceeded some distance the stick suddenly fell to pieces. No camera shutters are fast enough to take pictures at anything like this speed, so no shutter was used.

Instead, a series of electric sparks was flashed, the sparks following on another at the rate of 100,000 a second each spark making a picture. The film was mounted on a wheel about three feet in circumference, and the wheel was revolved at the rate of 900 revolutions a minute. When all was ready the bullet was shot, the spiral flashed and the wheel revolved, the actual exposure being limited to a fraction of a second so as not to pile up pictures one over the other.—Saturday Evening Post.

Not in His Line. A motor stopped in front of the photographer, and a woman lacking none of the artificial accessories deemed necessary to "looka" entered the studio. A couple of days later the photographer submitted proofs for her approval.

"Not one of these pictures looks any thing like me," the woman insisted. The photographer tried in every way to pacify her, but, finding this an impossibility, lost control of his temper. "Madam," he exclaimed, "did you read my sign?" "Yes," "Well, it does not say 'cleaning, dyeing and remodeling. It says 'portraits.'"—New York Times.

The Sequel to the Joke. Many years ago a visitor to Edinburgh was being shown over the high court of judicary. He made some remark concerning the dock and its duties, and in reply the official jokingly said the visitor might one day be sentenced to be hanged in that very room.

The sightseer was the notorious Dr. Pritchard. Two years later in the dock he had so closely inspected he was doomed to death for poisoning his wife and mother-in-law.

Free Circus. "They are the most popular couple in our flat. We'd all hate to see them move out."

"Why are they so popular?" "They always have the windows open when they quarrel."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Surprising Information. "So your little boy is in the hospital?"

"Yes; the doctor said he would have to have his asteroids taken out."

"My aster—" Baltimore American.

PICNIC WAS ENJOYED.

Polkville Young People Participate in Delightful Event.

(Special to the Journal.)

Polkville, N. C., July 18.—The Polkville Presbyterian Sunday school had its annual picnic Wednesday.

A jolly crowd of picnickers left the wharf of the Steamer Howard promptly at 9:30 on the boat under the supervision of Superintendent George W. White for a sail down Trent River—a happier, jollier crowd never sailed on the Trent. After about 3 hours sailing we landed at the dock in New Bern for a few minutes, then we set sail for the beautiful Glenburnie Park, up the Neuse, there we landed and spread a bountiful dinner, after which a stroll over and around the park was enjoyed by all. Games were played by the children for an hour or two, the signal to leave was sounded and all embarked for the return home, singing, drinking, eating, flirting and courting was all engaged in on the home-coming trip. This was voted the greatest success of the picnic season by all. Not one thing happened to mar the pleasure of one of the picnickers.

One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

And nearly every woman who has been a wife for at least three years is willing to bet that the devil is a married man.

Causes of Stomach Troubles. Sedentary habits, lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient mastication of food, constipation, a torpid liver, worry and anxiety, overeating, partaking of food and drink not suited to your age and occupation. Correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets and you will soon be well again. For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

With most of us it isn't a question of where to go this summer, but rather how we are going to raise the price.

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble. After doctoring for about twelve years, for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctor's fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

Nearly every man and woman you meet is looking for sympathy.

A Good Investment.

W. D. Magli, a well known merchant of Whitewater, Wis., brought a stock of Chamberlain's medicine so as to be able to supply them to his customers. After receiving them he was himself taken sick and says that one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was worth more to him than the cost of his entire stock of these medicines. For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

Twenty-five cents is the Price of Peace. The terrible itching and smarting, incident to certain skin diseases, is almost instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Salve. Price 25 cents. For sale by all dealers. (Adv.)

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess," says Mrs. Edna Mac Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the women's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight.

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the woman's constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.

NEW BERN'S REPLY.

New Bern Accepts the Evidence and Many Journal Readers Will Profit by It.

Which is the more weighty proof—a few words from a New Bern resident whom we know and respect, or voluminous stranger's distant testimonies? There can be only one reply.

Mrs. C. Pennington, 27 East Front St., New Bern, N. C., says: "I suffered intensely from backache, and sharp shooting pains across my loins. Often twice so lame that I could hardly straighten after stooping. I knew that my kidneys were disordered for the secretions were very unnatural. I used just one box of Doan's Kidney Pills that I got from the Bradham Drug Co., and this was sufficient to remove my aches and pains. Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me than any other kidney medicine I have ever taken." (Statement given January 24 1908.)

The BENEFIT LASTED. Mrs. Pennington was interviewed recently and she said: "I can still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for they gave me permanent relief. You may continue to publish my former endorsement of this remedy."

AUTOMOBILE THIEF TAKEN AT ROCKY MOUNT.

Rocky Mount, July 18.—Randolph Gibson, who stole J. B. Hale's automobile from in front of the Bank of Wayne at Goldsboro Wednesday, was captured at Plymouth last night, and the car recovered. Gibson did not run away with the car by itself, and had the daughter of a fortune teller, who is at present in Goldsboro, along with him. When arrested he claimed that he had married the girl at Tarboro, but the register of deeds there states that no license was issued to Gibson or the girl.

The young man, who has been adjudged a kleptomaniac by specialists, was not in the least perturbed when arrested and the officers started back to Goldsboro with him. He laughingly remarked that it would be as pleasant living in the penitentiary as anywhere else these hot days.

Gibson's parents, who are prominent in Rocky Mount, say that the boy fell in the fire when he was a small child and his head was badly burned. They attribute his mania for taking other people's property to some mental defect caused by this accident.

AMERICANS HURRY OUT OF MEXICO

LEAVING WAR-RENT COUNTRY IN NUMBERS SUGGESTIVE OF PANIC.

New York, July 19.—The exodus of Americans and other foreign residents of Mexico to zones of safety, according to passengers who arrived today from Vera Cruz by the Ward line Esperanza, has turned into a panic flight. There were more than 100 Americans on the Esperanza, and not only the first cabin space was filled, but all the officers quarters were occupied. Most of the passengers were women and there were thirty children. Fathers with interests in the disturbed republic demanding their attention, came up with their families merely to protect them on the way; later they will return to Mexico.

Elen F. Greenlaw, who has a big lumber mill near El Oro, a mining town in the State of Mexico, came back with his wife and two little children. He said women and children were in great peril in the country because of the activity of revolutionaries and bandits. Zapatistas had raided haciendas in his neighborhood. All the well-to-do foreigners and many wealthy Mexicans were fleeing the country, believing that the Huerta administration was doomed and that there might be a reign of anarchy pending the establishment of another government. Rail communication to the North had been cut off and the only way out of the country was by water. The Esperanza might have taken many more passengers if she had had room for them.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and I always said that if I ever had female trouble I would take it."

"I suffered from organic inflammation and would have spells when I would be in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends."—Mrs. FRED STONE, Route No. 3, Malone, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.
