FOES OF LIQUOR HARD AT WORK

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SENDING OUT LARGE QUANTITIES OF LITERATURE.

Raleigh, July 23.—The Anti-Saloon League has rarely done more missionary work than it is doing right now, 2,500 pieces of important matter going out yesterday and the day before.

The league has gotten together the history of the Davis case and presented it through the newspaper reports largely. The news stories and editorials of both Raleigh papers, which had men on the ground, are used to show the conditions in the capital. The superintendent, Rev. R. L. Davis, who was convicted of an assault which Judge Cooke did not believe that he committed, and for which another man pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs, is making no appeal for himself but simply presenting the newspaper stories.

The action of the Wake jury is making in the State and people throughout North Carolina realize what it means to fight whiskey even in a dry State. Liquor folks have rarely done anything that is going to be given the publicity that the Davis conviction will be given.

Salisbury will have five pulpits open Sunday for prohibition sermons and addresses. Rev. R. L. Davis will preach at the First Presbyterian church, Editor Archibald Johnson will speak the Johnsonian sentiment from another, Mr. O. L. Stringfield will fill yet another, and Dr. Livingston Johnson will occupy one of the big pulpits. Raleigh will have three men fighting whiskey in the town which was once the political property of the organized whiskey forces and finally became prohibition because its own horrible example turned well-meaning friends against it.

The Anti-Saloon League is making a great campaign over the State for the purpose of arousing the people. And they will find Salisbury a place wonderfully improved since its saloons went out of the governing business.

location on the Norfolk Southern Railroad, ten miles north of Belhaven. This post office was opened for business on July 10th, with George Rice as postmaster.

The locality served by the new office has been heretofore getting its mail service through the post office at Pungo. The people at Wenona have been greatly inconvenienced in the way of mail service, in the past, owing to the long distance to the Pungo office. All trains stop at Wenona and with the newly established postoffice located directly at this point patrons of the new territory will have quick and efficient service.

This new location will serve not only Wenona farm and the new State experiment station operation, but will also afford quick service to all parties who are interested in the large development work now being carried on by the John L. Roper Lumber Company in the Wenona district.

It is expected that several new families will soon settle in the locality and the new post office will be of inestimable value to all concerned.

Readers of the Journal, and all others interested in mail for the Wenona district can hereafter use the new post office address of Wenona, N. C.

JACKSONVILLE YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE DELIGHTFUL TIME AT NEW RIVER BEACH.

The following article was clipped from the Jacksonville Progress of July 23:

"On last Thursday a large party of young people from here with their guests, went to New River Beach, where the sea breezes and the sea-food are being consumed. The party was under the chaperonage of Mrs. Henry Henderson, of New Bern, who arrived here Thursday."

"The Jacksonville people who enjoy the beach have recently had a building constructed that adds greatly to the enjoyment of such a party. It is no longer a camping party, but a house party. The building is a rather long, single story, simple construction affair. The porch, which is well shaded, is twelve feet wide, affording room for hammocks and the enjoyment of sea breezes, while the bed rooms are screened so as to exclude the sting and music of the mosquito. The party that went down last Thursday reports little inconvenience on the part of the small pests.

"Mesdames Lena May, Henry Henderson, Misses Maye Gilman, Lizzie Reed, Sybil Cox, Etta Smith, Lucile Page, Marguerite Thompson, Garland Thompson, Olivia Petteway, Mary Fonville and Messrs. Walter Sabiston, Jno. Warlick, Leslie Ketchum, Dave Henderson, Tom Gilman, Hughes, Cyrus Thompson, Jr., Lorimer Thompson, Louie Fonville, Ray Koonce, Guy Lockamy and George Hardison composed the party."
