

NOTED PHYSICIAN DIES OF WOUNDS

Father of Miss Rosalie Jones, The Suffragette Hiker, Probably Committed Suicide.

HAD AN INTERESTING CAREER

Unbalanced Mentally For Some Years On Account Of Son's Being In Sanatorium.

New York, Aug. 9.—Dr. Oliver Livingston Jones, a wealthy retired physician and real estate owner and father of Miss Rosalie Jones, the suffragette "hiker" who led the march of the suffragettes into Washington at the time of President Wilson's inauguration, died today from a wound believed to have been self-inflicted.

He was removed from his home, 116 Seventy-second street yesterday to the Polytechnic Hospital with a bullet wound in his head.

A policeman was assigned to duty at the hospital where Dr. Jones was kept a prisoner on a charge of attempting suicide. An operation was performed later in the day, but it was said at the hospital that the physician probably would die.

Dr. Jones who was wealthy, owning real estate in almost every State in the Union had never practiced medicine, although he is an accredited physician. Until two years ago he owned a summer home at Cold Spring Harbor, built 50 years before by Charles H. Jones, and containing more than 100 rooms, with all its trimmings of solid hand-hewn oak.

Grieving over the condition of a son, Oliver Livingston Jones, Jr., who was confined in a sanatorium, Dr. Jones disappeared from the Cold Spring Harbor house on August 25, 1909. He was found by a searching party of his neighbors late that night, wandering aimlessly about the country roads, and was taken home. The next morning the big house was discovered in flames. The fire did damage of between $100,000 and $125,000. The house was rebuilt later, and is one of the finest residences on Long Island, but the shock of the experience and the continued worry about the state of his son preyed on the physician's mind and made him almost a nervous wreck.

Just before noon yesterday a citizen rushed up to a policeman patrolling Columbus avenue and told him that he had heard revolver shots while passing 116 West Seventy-second street. Hastening there, the policeman found the house in an uproar, and upon making his way upstairs, found Dr. Jones lying, fully clothed, on the tiled floor of the bathroom in front of the mirror with blood flowing from a gash in his head and a bullet wound above the right ear. Mrs. Jones was hysterical in the next room. Dr. Jones was removed to the hospital on a stretcher and an operation was performed by Dr. William Sharpe.

Both Dr. Jones and his wife are of old New York families. Part of their land was obtained by royal grant from Great Britain.

Dr. Jones was 63 years old and was a graduate of Bellevue Medical College.

WOMAN TOOK FRIEND'S ADVICE

And Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Windom, Kansas.—"I had a displacement which caused bladder trouble and I was so miserable I didn't know what to do. I suffered from bearing down pains, my eyes hurt me, I was nervous, dizzy and irregular and had female weakness. I spent money on doctors but got worse all the time. A friend told me about the Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured. I cannot praise your remedies enough for I know I never would have been well if I had not taken it."—Miss MARY A. HORN, Route No. 2, Box 41, Windom, Kansas.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

On July 10, 1913, our Master took from our ranks Bro. Jno. S. Caton, a member of our Farmers' Union, at Grantsboro. He died at the home of his daughter in Middlesex. At the time of his death he was about the age of seventy-five. Bro. Caton was a member of the Free Will Baptist church, and from early manhood had lived a consistent Christian life. It was easy for him to shun the fascinating worldliness of our day, for heaven was before him. His burial was in the cemetery of his old home near Grantsboro, where a great host of friends and relatives gathered to see the last of his remains on earth. He leaves a wife, three daughters, one son and one sister to mourn their loss. To the strict ones the sympathy of our Union is extended as they sit in the dark shadows of their great sorrow.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE.

Prof. T. E. Whitaker, of Oak Ridge Institute, was a visitor in the city Friday. He has been in this section for some days in the interest of the well known institution which he represents. New Bern has sent a large number of boys to Oak Ridge and as a result of his visit Prof. Whitaker is expecting some additional pupils from hereabouts this season. Craven, Jones, Pamlico and other counties have been and are loyal patrons of Oak Ridge.

Oak Ridge opens on September 3 and Prof. Whitaker states that the best opening in the history of the school is anticipated as each succeeding year finds a larger number of students at Oak Ridge than ever before. "Oak Ridge," said Prof. Whitaker, "is ideally located for a school. It is in a quiet village where the boys are free from the temptations of city life. The location, too, is as healthful as can be found in any section of the State, bar none. The boys live around in groups in the homes largely of members of the faculty so that much of the atmosphere of home surrounds them. The moral conditions of the locality are wholesome and helpful." ROMANCE OF A DRAMATIST.

Jean Richepin's Flight From a Life of Drudgery to Fame.

The story of how Jean Richepin came to adopt a literary career is picturesque. For some time he had picked up a precarious livelihood by doing "odd jobs," including such prosaic occupations as that of bootblack and casual porter on the Quai Marsellais. One day he was engaged by a gentleman to carry to the railway station a heavy trunk. Arrived at the station, there was an instant mutual recognition. "They were old college chums."
"What are you doing here?" asked his friend.
"Carrying your trunk, I believe," said Jean.
"Why do you do this?"
"Because I must."
"Where do you live?"
"Come and see," replied Richepin. The future dramatist took his friend to his dwelling—a miserable room in an attic in the poorest quarter of the town. Upon the table lay scattered heaps of manuscripts—Jean's incursions in the realms of poetry when the more prosaic duties of the day were over. Looking through them, his friend was astounded at their quality.

"Why do you carry trunks and blacken boots when you can do work like this?" he asked. Richepin had never given the matter a thought. He had never deemed these products of idle hours worthy of publication. Published they were, however, in a very few weeks and created an immense sensation. From that moment Jean Richepin never looked back.—Westminster Gazette.

SPLIT ON A TOOTHBRUSH.

Their Points of View Couldn't Agree— Hence the Clash.

When the tall girl found the mistress of the six room flat washing dishes she asked what had happened to Mary.
"Mary has left," said the housekeeper. "I insulted her yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and at 11 she packed her trunk and skipped."
"We had a row over toothbrushes. Mary exhibited an unparalleled interest in toothbrushes. Every brush she came to was taken up and turned over and over and commented on admirably or the reverse."
"Finally she came to mine. I could see at once that she liked it."
"Whose is it?" she asked.
"Mine, I said."
"She poured out a glass of water and dipped the brush in."
"Oh, well," she said, "I won't be afraid to use it, then."
"For a moment I stood there literally stupefied, but soon I saw that prompt action was necessary, and I caught Mary's arm in a painful grasp."
"Put it down this instant," I commanded. "Put it down!"
"Mary drew back and withered me out of the corner of her eye."
"Dear me," she said, "how touchy some folks are! I never work for touchy folks."
"And so we parted. She seemed unable to get my point of view on toothbrush etiquette, and I seemed unable to get hers, so we thought it best to sever our relations."—New York Times.

Wren's Bomb For St. Paul's.

St. Paul's—old St. Paul's—once knew the effect of a bomb that actually exploded. After the great fire it was at first thought that the ruins might be repaired, but too much damage having been done it was decided to pull the fabric down—a task in which many lives were lost. To put an end to the tedious work Wren hit upon the idea of inclosing eighteen pounds of gunpowder in a wooden box and exploding it under the central tower. The result was to lift the arches some nine inches, so that the ruins "suddenly jumping down made a great heap of ruin in the place without scattering." The architect proudly boasted that his powder box had lifted 3,000 tons and saved the labor of 1,000 men.—London Graphic.

"Celestial" as Applied to China.

Every one knows the epithet "Celestial" applied to China, but few know its origin. According to a very old legend, Tibet is a fragment of a planet, once peopled by a yellow race, which in some way became detached and fell on the earth. The dazed inhabitants of the fragment were unfeared and cold and hungry, they made their way toward China, which they peopled. This origin of the Chinese race led to their calling themselves "Celestials," and it is for this reason that the emperor calls himself Son of Heaven. Such, at least, is the legend.—Toronto Globe.

Grandma's Old Friend.

An old lady laughed immoderately at a story told at a dinner in Chicago. The story teller looked at her inquiringly.
"Oh," she gasped, "it's a great favorite of mine. The first time I heard it I laughed so hard I almost kicked the footboard off my crib!"—Saturday Evening Post.

NEAR DEATH BY SMOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death. Medicines pitched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken."

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving women's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others.

NO SPECIAL TRAIN TO THE FIRE- MEN'S TOURNAMENT.

There will be no special train operated between New Bern and Wilmington next Wednesday on account of the horse horse wagon races to be held there on that day. There was a movement on foot to get the Atlantic Coast line Railway Company to operate this special train but while in conversation with the general superintendent of the road yesterday afternoon H. E. Royall, who was engaged in getting up a list of those who would patronize the train on this trip, was informed that the train could not be furnished.
