The feast consisted of anadwiches, fruits of all varieties, soda water, and in fact almost everything good to eat that can be imagined. After the firemen and a number of citizens had assembled in the hall Mayor Albert H. Impert in behalf of the city tendered the firemen an invitation to "take the house" and also congratulated them in the highest terms of the excellent records made during the past week. Chief of the Fire Department Thomass Davis responded to Mayor Bangert's address with a few well chosen words and after J. politically by this state of affairs.

That such a scheme had been planned; that word of it had reached the President, and that it resulted in the firm resistance of the White House to the recess idea is the conviction of leading Democratic Senators. In fact, they discussed the whole matter among themselves in the cloak rooms. The action of the Senate caucus, therefore, in the opinion of many Democrats, not only completed a triumphant party organization, entirely responsive to the President, but checkmated a carefully conceived campaign on the part of reactionary Republicans to punish the people of the country for electing a Democratic President and Congress last fall.

As explained by a Senator who is known to be close to the administration the caucus action forestalled any effort on the part of the opposition to cursesses last fall, and the part of the opposition to cursesses last of the opposition to cursesses.
