But horse steak will probably not be any tougher than what we have been used to.

It is the fellow that has failed to do his part that generally does the knocking.

The big show to-morrow. Drink a glass of red lemonade, buy a bag of peanuts and have a time.

About half of Mexico has seceded which confirms Huerta's statement that he had the situation well under control.

Eight hundred and twenty-three seekers after knowledge the first schoolday is going some. May their number reach a thousand.

Governor Hooper, of Tennessee, should call out the militia the same time he calls for the extra session of the legislature.

Felix Diaz and Senora Gamboa are running against each other for the Presidency of Mexico, which means that the undertaker will get the loser, as usual.

President Tate did himself little credit in singling out the Asheville paper for denunciation when other papers carried the same story about him.

According to the Los Angeles Times Caesar had a wonderful appetite; he et two brutes.

Sulzer's defense that those contributions were personal gifts is mighty weak. It seems strange that Sulzer's friends should pick out campaign times to make him gifts if those gifts were not intended to be used to defray the expenses of the campaign. The government will have to put up a better defense than that, it would seem.

Chasman Simons, of the Finance Committee, estimates that at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1914, the first under the new tariff, there will be a surplus of $18,000,000 in the Treasury. $18,000,000, sounds big but when it is taken into consideration that the expenditures in a year's amount to the enormous sum of $1,000,000,000 and more, it will be seen that in the eyes of the government, it is really a very small amount.

The Washington Post which, by the way, is not too friendly to the present administration, is of the opinion that Simons is mistaken and that really there will be a deficit instead of a surplus. The Post figures it out very nicely and what it says sounds very plausible, but we are of the opinion that Simons knows about what he is talking about. It would do no good to make statements not based on facts even if he were inclined to do so.

RAISE MORE CATTLE.

"If the Southeast is to become the great cattle growing section that it should in view of its natural advantages and the present and growing demand for cattle with commensurate prices, farmers must quit selling their female and immature stock," declares Dr. C. M. Morgan, dairy agent of the Southern Railway, who sounds a warning against a continuation of the wholesale depredation of cattle from the South.

"Farmers should keep their heifers and build up the quality of their stock by the use of pure bred bulls of dairy or beef type as desired," says Dr. Morgan. "This is the only way to increase the number or the quality of cattle in the Southeast. The scarcity of cattle is world wide and it will never be possible to secure enough pure bred cattle to develop the industry in the southeast unless these precautions are taken."

"Farmers who sell calves are simply giving the dealer a good part of the profit they should have themselves. If calves were fattened on the farm, using cotton seed meal as a concentrate, a higher price per pound would be received and the farmer would but only profit by this and the additional weight, but would have in the mature 85 per cent. of the fertilizing value of the cotton seed meal."

With the prediction of dollar steak confronting us these views of Dr. Morgan become pertinent and interesting. To prevent the price of beef reaching such extreme heights we must raise more cattle right here in the South. So long as we neglect this and import a large part of our meat, just so long will we have to pay these high prices. That is a good cattle growing section in this day and age. Thousands of head of beef cattle can be raised right here in Craven county. A great many are raised but nothing near the number that could be. Our farmers, if they were so disposed, could make the profits that are now going to Armour and other big packing houses. It is to be hoped that our farmers will see the opportunities that are before them and put more time and money into cattle raising. In this way we may be saved the high prices, keep the money at home and benefit both producer and consumer.

Some individuals are born "boosters" of themselves.

"The best town in the State" says a visitor. Just an echo of the thousands of similar remarks that are being uttered about New Bern every day.

A boat line from New Bern to Northern ports would be a great thing and would naturally take a great deal of business from the railroads. However, what would New Bern be without the railroads?

A plan is being formulated to reduce representation in republican conventions. This seems proper as the voting strength of that organization has been reduced greatly of late.

"The American public loves to be buncoed," said P. T. Barnum when he whitewashed the elephant. However, P. T.'s successors believe the real thing is the best after all.

With one of the finest parks in the State to be opened next summer with a new casino, pavilions, etc., and probably a baseball team in the Eastern Carolina League, the other cities in the State will have nothing on "New Bern New Bern."

A bill has been introduced in the legislature to compel keepers of public resorts, such as hotels, theatres, etc., to open their doors to members of the national guard. Such a law should never pass. Hotel keepers and others like money too well to turn out a soldier or anybody else if he is decent and behaves himself. The fact that they refuse to entertain them shows that these pseudo-soldiers have not met these requirements in the past. No keeper of a public resort should be compelled to open the doors to a class of people, who, in the past, have made themselves objectionable, until this particular class show signs of reformation from within. When they deserve to be admitted along with decent, respectable citizens, they will be admitted without the passing of a law to that effect. Of course this works hardship on a great part of the guard who are respectable citizens and who are not fools from the minute they don a khaki suit; but they must share the fate of the rest until the better element prevails and the guard ceases to be, in some respects, little better than a mob at times.

The following from the Greensboro News on this subject is interesting: "But the provisions inserted in the bill compelling keepers of public resorts, such as hotels, theatres, etc., to open their doors to men wearing the uniform if there is no other reason for barring them out is food for serious reflection. Why have these people barred out the soldiers to begin with? Certainly their money is as good as anybody else's, and, in the State of North Carolina at least there was no prejudice against the uniform to begin with.

"The plain truth is that the disgracing of the uniform has not all been on the side of the civilians. More than once the encampment of the National Guard at Morehead City has brought with it a horde of toughs, who have made life a burden to everybody in the vicinity. Many of the soldiers seem to consider that the wearing of the uniform gives them license to prey on the country around, whereas the exact reverse should be true. If anybody ought to behave himself it is the man wearing the uniform of the United States.

"Certainly there is disgrace to the uniform when a soldier wearing it is refused admittance to, say, a theatre. But is the man at the door to blame, or those soldiers whose conduct in the past has made the theatre manager afraid to trust uniformed men among his patrons? It strikes us that there is at least a question as to who disgraced the uniform.

"When the man who commits an offense in khaki or olive drab is punished more swiftly, more surely and more vigorously than the man who commits the same offense in civilian clothes, instead of less so, it will be time to inquire into the alleged disgrace of the uniform by those who are wearers of it out from among peaceful, law-abiding people."

We agree with the News that if anybody ought to behave it is the man who wears the uniform of the United States. When he does that he need have little fear of being discriminated against.

Moral suasion is a fine thing if it works. But what is the president going to do if it fails?

Messrs. Sulzer, Thaw and Schmidt will please step aside and make room for the world's series.

That amendment to the constitution relating to reading the Bible in the schools, should be left out. You can't legislate religion into people.

The Japs still seem to be looking for trouble. Sooner or later we are going to have to attend to that gang.

If Congress should declare war, Huerta would soon find out whether or not the people of this country are behind President Wilson.

There is an old saying that a dollar will only a hire a dollar man. We suppose that applies to legislators as well as any one else.

We know the methods of the gentleman from Wilkes, but you will have to admit that he is a slick duck.

Governor Craig has issued a call for everybody to go out and work the roads the fifth of November. But you know it is mighty hard for an editor to get off.

VA. POSTMASTER SKIPS WITH CASH

TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS DEPART WITH FLEEING OFFICIAL.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 2.—Two registered packages, one of $10,000 and another containing $1,100, are missing from the registered pouch of the post-office at Pochontas, Va. Coincident with the disappearance of the two packages a local detective agency has been asked by postoffice inspectors at Bluefield, W. Va., to locate Edwin M. Silberger, assistant postmaster at Pochontas for whose arrest Federal warrants have been issued charging Silberger with the robbery of the two packages.

It is known Silberger came east as far as Roanoke on an early morning train. The conductor described the wanted man as having boarded his train at Bluestone Junction, five miles from Pochontas, and to have paid him a cash fare to Roanoke.

The two registered packages were locked in the pouch and left in Silberger's charge to be sent East to depositaries, then ten thousand dollars package by a Pochontas bank to Lynchburg and Northern correspondents, the smaller package contained Postmaster M. L. Mustard's remittances.

WORK ON BRIDGE IS PROGRESSING

STRUCTURE DESTROYED DURING THE FLOOD IS BEING REBUILT.

Rapid progress is being made in the work of rebuilding the Neuse river county bridge, leading from New Bern to Bridgeton and which was destroyed during the storm and flood which visited this section on September 3.

Just a month ago yesterday morning this structure was torn away by the wind and water and in the few short weeks which have followed, wonderful progress has been made in its reconstruction. The County Commissioners lost no time in getting a force of men at work on the remains of the bridge a few days after the catastrophe and they have succeeded in relaying the flooring for about two thirds of its length.

Of course there is much work yet to be done, but there is not the least doubt but that the bridge will be open to traffic by November 1. In the meantime the ferry line is being operated between this city and Bridgeton.

GALLERY COLLAPSED AND MANY FELL.

New York, Oct. 3.—One hundred persons fell fifteen feet in a screaming mass in an uptown hall, being used as a synagogue, today, through collapse of the gallery. Four persons were seriously injured. Ambulances summoned were not needed.

A woman seldom hits anything she aims at—especially when she throws herself at a man's head.

HEADACHY, COSTIVE, BILIOUS—"CASCARETS."

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, mean Liver and Bowels are clogged—Cheer Up!

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When the poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.
