Why not a better babies contest at this Fair?

We've went broke on the Giants the last time.

The Old Master, Matty, was the hero in defeat just as he was last year.

Well, now that the world's series are all over we can get down to work once more.

"The same old bill" we are afraid, is going to turn out to be counterfeited.

If Mexico, Thaw and Sulzer were to be suddenly blotted from existence this would be a dull old world, indeed.

A legislator has a very poor opinion of his constituents when he refuses to submit a proposition to them for their acceptance or rejection; the initiative and referendum, for instance.

You are specially invited to be here bright and early on the morn of October 28, and see the biggest Fair ever held in these parts.

It seems it is against the law to keep Thaw in New Hampshire and also against the Law to deport him; this makes you think of the irresistible force hitting the immovable object.

If old Balboa could come back today and see the waters of the Pacific and the Atlantic mingling with each other through the Panama Canal the chances are that he would be like the old farmer, who, on seeing the giraffes declared, "there ain't no sich things."

If the Kitchin and Simmon's forces unite, as it is rumored, the lamb and the lion will indeed have lain down together. But, why not? What is the use of harboring up old scores forever.

Our heartiest congratulations to the esteemed News and Observer upon entering its new home. May that great paper continue to reap success in the same full measure in the future as it has in the past. Its rise from the ashes has been truly remarkable.

A fellow like Clarence Poe, Julian Carr, the Pages and others who are busily engaged in building up the State are worth a carload of "tin horn" politicians who come around every year or two telling the people how good they love them and what they will do if only the dear people will give them an office.

It begins to look like Uncle Sam will be forced, after all, to take a hand in the matter. The idea seems to be rooted into these Mexicans that the United States is only bluffing and that if things came to a showdown this government would back down. Under such circumstances it might be a good idea to show them that we mean business and that at not a late date.

The five hundred people who were saved when the steamer Volturmo burned to the water's edge in mid-ocean, a few days ago, owe their lives to Marconi and the wireless. Had it not been for the mysterious current that flashed through the air in all directions, summoning aid, all would have gone down with the ship. Each and every one of the survivors have great cause to be thankful to the great inventor and to science that have made travel by sea less perilous.

No, that call bill passed by the legislature is not directed at the slit skirt.

No such things as melancholy autumn days in New Bern.

Tom Dixon should know that the way to solve the race question is not by stirring up race prejudice.

Strength to the arm of the State Journal in its fight against the fire insurance trust.

Now that Messrs Underwood and Hobson have locked horns Alabama will be furnished a rare brand of amusement for the next few months.

But if you are not satisfied that the new currency bill is safe you can go back to the old sock; the law doesn't affect that bank.

Now that the medical Journal has found out how to lie when asleep some people will lie twenty-four hours a day.

Not knowing anything about the currency question we refrain from advising congress on the subject which is better than some others will do.

Sulzer ought to have turned good before election and not have waited till after he became Governor to denounce Tammany.

In our judgment the session of the legislature just closed was fruitful of more good legislation than any other session of the past decade.

The old hen is not to be despised by any means; last year this country exported 21 million dozen eggs. Twenty years ago the number exported was only 143,000 dozen. This is a remarkable increase and shows how the industry is growing.

Bion H. Butler writing in the News and Observer hits the nail on the head when he says that the great need of the South is more labor. Mr. Butler points out that the tobacco industry is greatly crippled because enough labor cannot be obtained to carry on the work. The same thing is true of the cotton industry also.

Speaking of the proposed steamship line and of the value to North Carolina of a rate basing port of her own instead of depending on Norfolk, the Wilmington Star correctly outlines the situation in the following:

"There's the run, however, for with two steamship companies competing for the business and a third ready to come if the business will warrant it, the question is whether North Carolina products can be gotten to a North Carolina port at a rate that will enable it to compete with Norfolk. However, with the Legislature's entering into a rate compromise that has heretofore "bottled up" the port, as The Observer once contended, it is now left to the tender mercies of the railroads as to the future policy that they will pursue towards the port. They may see the opportunity to build up their business here, but North Carolina has lost hers to open her port for the carriage of the products of her cotton mills, tobacco factories, furniture factories, cottonseed oil mills and other products for export either coastwise or foreign.

The port of Wilmington cannot live off itself, and as the State through its Legislature has done its best to make it a mere local water point, we don't see how the esteemed Observer can hope for Wilmington's ocean trade to be "augmented by freight traffic from the interior." That traffic already goes to Norfolk and as the State has concluded a deal that ratifies that policy of the railroads, it is hardly possible that they will do for this port what North Carolina would not do herself.

We are not pessimistic, mind you, but we speak the truth when we say we profoundly regret that North Carolina has never appreciated her opportunity at her port. The port is now about to get the additional steamship service that would enable Charlotte and other commercial centers to utilize it to advantage, but with the port bottled up against Charlotte and the whole of North Carolina, by the consent of North Carolina, it takes an optimist to believe that Charlotte will ever import or export anything by way of any ocean gateway of the State—that is for a long time to come."

Come on, shell out, and help the band boys along.

Now, all together everybody and let's take one last swat at the flies.

A man will not borrow trouble as long as you will loan him anything else.

No man needs a town who doesn't think he is living in the best place on earth.

In delaying its decision, the court may be just playing with Sulzer in cat and mouse fashion.

An exchange puts it correctly when it says that the bankers have approved all of the currency bill except the main features.

Taft has endorsed the administration and we are now confidently expecting it to turn out a failure.

And to make the Fair all the more pleasant the good ladies are going to serve all kinds of refreshments.

So long as we export 20 million dozen eggs to other countries it might be said that we are hen-dependent on the egg question.

Tom Dixon seems to be obsessed with the idea that Northern capitalists are going to buy our schools and turn them over to the negroes.

Why do we continue to send our money West for hay when we could raise all we need right here at home?

Suppose we annex Mexico and make a sort of Siberia of it and send out Thaws and Sulzers' etc., down there?

Ty Cobb is visiting in Goldsboro. It is reported that the entire 243 population of that place met him at the train.

It is a dull day when our friend, Saunders, is not indicted. It looks like it is about time to cut it out; it seems to be more of a persecution than prosecution.

With the vessel on fire on one side and a stormy sea on the other, it might be said without levity, that the passengers of the Volturmo were between the devil and the deep blue sea.

"Fifteen years ago Hobson was a hero and he has been a nuisance ever since," is the neat way the New York World puts it.

If Alabama selects Hobson instead of Underwood, says the Charlotte Observer, she has proven herself to be a State of yaps. The Observer is exactly right.

The chances are than somebody was to blame for the Volturmo disaster; it would hardly have occurred if every one had done his duty. Any how the matter should be thoroughly investigated.

A Washington girl was arrested the other day for wearing a red garter so that it could be seen through the slit skirt. These policemen must all be from Missouri; they certainly see a lot of things.

BAD WEATHER CAUSES DELAY

JONES COUNTY FARMERS HINDERED IN HARVESTING VARIOUS CROPS.

(Special to the Journal.)
Pollockville, N. C., Oct. 14.—Last week's bad weather set the farmers back quite a lot in the harvesting of their various crops, cotton is rotting in the fields so is corn and hay.

The cotton business is pretty well represented here on the local market every Saturday by Messrs. Taylor, Elliott and Ball, of New Bern, and Bender of this place who make quite a lively fight for the fleecy staple.

There was about 40 bales sold here last Saturday at about 13.30 per pound, which was very satisfactory to the farmers. It was predicted at the beginning of 1913 that this year would be the most disastrous of any in the history of the last century, so far this prediction seems not to have come true.

The sportsmen of this community report a scarcity of game this season of varieties, the wet spring and summer seems to have been bad on young birds.

Samuel Lilly is a busy man. He is ever on the alert for the law breaker, last week he made an arrest here of a blind tiger, and it is predicted that there are others soon to be made.

We regret to learn that we are soon to loose one of our progressive farmers, in the person of Mr. John J. Pritchett, who has for several years conducted the Model farm of Mr. C. E. Foy near here to the entire satisfaction of the owner. He will in the future have charge of the very five farm recently purchased by The Atlantic Coast Realty Co., of Mr. William F. Foy, down Trent River in this county.

Mr. Pritchett will cultivate Corn, Cotton, Tobacco and Peanuts on this farm and will be in a position to employ a great many hands and accommodate fifteen or twenty tenants on this place, so he tells us.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Eney, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work."

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16. Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.
