On the heels of numerous other sensational disclosures made during the past few weeks come the following from the editorial columns of the Greensboro News:

The International Anti-Vivisection and Animal Protection congress, in session in Washington, was told that Dr. Karl von Ruck, of Asheville, has acknowledged having used 338 children, 262 of them from the Baptist orphanage, at Thomasville, furnished by "courtesy" of the house physician there, to experiment upon.

Of the millions of people who read that story, a good many will be horrified. Mr. Stephens, whoever he is, is but an incomplete witness. He should have gone on to tell that among the children under 'experiment' was the doctor's grandchild. The seeming monstrosity of this fact is somewhat modified by the circumstances that exhaustive experiment upon quadrupeds had demonstrated that it would not injure the grandchild or any other person.

We have a notion that the eruptions of the vivisectionists are about of equal value and veracity. If the charges against the Asheville physician are true, and we suppose that they are, it seems to us that it is time to call a halt. When innocent children who are unable to care for themselves and who are alone in the world, are taken and "butchered" by some surgeon for "experimental purposes" the world sits up and takes notice.

A few men in this country think "Roosevelt is the man that does what ever he wills to do." Not quite that he hasn't done yet, but he has never tried to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel. This shows that there are some things he won't even try to do.

Over in Nebraska a few days ago some crank turned loose his artillery on an editor who had offended him. Strange to say, the scribe happened to have a silver dollar in his pocket and the bullet from the would-be assassin struck the coin and glanced off without inflicting any serious injury.

New Bern can boast of the fact that she has but few "knockers," and that fully ninety-nine per cent of her citizens are "boosters."

WRAPPED GIFT IN RED CROSS SEALS.

A big-hearted purchaser of Red Seals in a Southern City recently complained because the seals did not come in sheets larger than 100. He had prepared a Christmas package and had conceived the idea that he wrap it entirely in Christmas seals.

"GIMME A PAPER."

Thoughtless Request That Entails Money to the Publisher.

How many people who are in the habit of rushing glibly into the counting room of the average newspaper and yelling at the clerk behind the counter, "gimme a paper," receiving the aforementioned copy of the publication and rushing out with it—sometimes without even the formality of a "thank ye!"—would think of rushing into their favorite drug store and asking for a glass of soda or to their accustomed cigar stand and asking for a cigar, taking leave of the place without even offering to pay for it.

Yet the principle and the act are one and the same. It costs money to print a paper—the first cost is even as much or more than the cigar or the glass of soda—and the newspaper has only two things to sell—copies of the publication at a mere nominal figure and advertising space.

Over in Raleigh the executive heads of the Chamber of Commerce are interesting the boys of the city in the work of that organization. Commenting on this the News and Observer says: "The Chamber of Commerce managers are wise in getting the boys of Raleigh interested in the work of the Chamber. Boyish enthusiasm is one of the very finest and most effective forces at all."

The better element of the colored population of New Bern are making a vigorous fight against the practice of some of the women of that race in "lugging" whiskey through the streets. The movement was started several weeks ago and has already resulted in much good and if continued will, without any doubt, result in the abolishment of the practice.

The Times has received an invitation to attend the annual banquet of the New Bern Chamber of Commerce on the evening of December 30th. There are few sections in the South that have greater possibilities than Eastern North Carolina, and a live chamber of commerce, such as New Bern has, is what is needed to bring any section to the front.

New Bern's Chamber of Commerce is a live wire and has done much for New Bern and vicinity in past years. The organization is composed of men who do things and there is little wonder that it is one of the prime factors in the development of the city.

IN MEMORIAM—JOHN BIDDLE.

John Biddle was born at the old Colonial home of his father at Fort Barnwell, Craven county, North Carolina, on the 31st day of March, 1849, being in his 65th year at the time of his death.

His father, Col. Samuel Simpson Biddle and Mary Powell, his wife, were the owners of this beautiful country place and dispensed hospitality with a lavish hand. No man was ever a more affectionate husband, a kinder or more indulgent father, he counted his own pleasures as nothing so he could gratify his family. He left a wife who has been his devoted companion for forty-three years, seldom indeed have there been a more congenial couple.

commanding beauty of feature with grace of carriage. The last months of life, which ended on December 1, 1913, were passed in bodily pain which he bore with great patience.

What a happy passing away! What a sweet comfort to those left behind! He was buried in the dear old country grave yard, within sight of the home where his happy childhood was passed. The oaks around his grave are filled with grey moss that sighs gently as the wind whistles through them.

A FRIEND.

Urging sanitation for girls and boys in the schools, the Wilmington Star says: "Sanitation is vitally important in schools where the rising generation of a community is gathered and becomes subject to conditions in the schools, whether they are good or bad."

The National Board of Censorship of the motion picture industry has just let slip by it a picture entitled "The Traffic in Souls." This picture has for its plot the manoeuvres of the white slavers and is said to be about as suggestive as it could possibly be.

We have been looking for that old joke about a husband giving his wife a box of cigars and in return receiving a hundred dollar muff for a Christmas present, to appear in the columns of some of our exchanges. Perhaps the story has become too old to travel around.

Over in Raleigh the executive heads of the Chamber of Commerce are interesting the boys of the city in the work of that organization. Commenting on this the News and Observer says: "The Chamber of Commerce managers are wise in getting the boys of Raleigh interested in the work of the Chamber.
