ENGINE ARRIVES

If you hear something similar to a Elizabeth City Inde- baby cyclone coming down the street Wednesday, don't get excited. It will not be a cyclone or a tornado but will be the new motor driven fire engine purchased by the city several weeks ago and which arrived yesterday.

Along with the big machine came E. L. Weyant who is thoroughly familiar with the critter's innards and he will give some demonstrations with it among which will be a few-loop-the-loop tricks, a dance or two, and last but not least, throw a stream of water of such great streagth that the firemen will soon be using it to scale buildings with.

Seriously speaking, Mr. Wevan intends to show that this machine, which is the second purchased by the city, is all that is claimed for it and that it can deliver the goods. After the demonstration has been made the machine will be turned over to the Atlantic Steam Fire Engine Company who will have charge of

According to the young woman's narrative to Chief of Police Moore yesterday, she left the home of her parents Saturday night to spend the night with a neighbor, and did so. Yesterday morning about 8:30 o'clock she left the residence of the neighbor ostensibly to return home, but by prearrangement met Mike. They boarded the northbound train for Charlotte and reached this city a few minutes after noon. But alas and alaekaday for all their fond imaginings. Hardly had the train been brought to a full stop before they found themselves interrogated and detained by two minions of the law, to wit, Officers Walter Orr and Wilson.

The conductor of the train had become suspicious owing to the apparent youth of the girl and telegraphed the Charlotte stationmaster, suggesting that he notify the police.

Chief Moore got in communication by telephone with a Mr. Gregory at Laneaster, S. C., near Elgin. John Morehead City, April 26-A most Hinson lives on Gregory's farm. It

Miss Keith has charge of the intermediate classes and she is an excellent ady, highly educated, preeminently fitted for her vocation, a natural tact for teaching and a charming entertainer.

Mrs. Weatherly is in charge of the primary department. She is only filling out Miss Morton's term, who, on account of her health, had to give up teaching and return to her home in Beaufort. Miss Morton, as is Mrs. Weatherly, are adept at teaching the young the art to shoot high in the intellectual, moral and religious sphere of life.

AN EXPERT WRITES

Be Worth Thousands of Dollars

When the Craven county Board of Commissioners meet in this city next month in regular session they will be asked to call an election for the section south of Neuse river in Craven county and give the citizens there an opportunity to vote on the stock law question.

This matter has been given wide publicity and everyone who is interested in the advancement of Craven ounty are awaiting the results with much anticipation. The government has promised to give all possible aid if the law is secured and the following letter to J. B. Blades from Thomas M. Owen, Inspector in Charge of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry of the United States, will prove of

Mr. Owens' Letter Mr. J. B. Blades, New Bern, N. C.

I am in receipt of a clipping from the News and Observer to the effect that the Board of Commissioners of Craven county will be requested to call a stock law election for that section of Craven county located on the south side of the Neuse river. This very imteresting news and if the stock law election is carried I will assure you that both the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and this bureau will gladly co-operate with your county's authorities in getting rid of the ticks and removing all quarantine restrictions. Our plan would be as follows: As soon as the stock law becomes effective that part of the county would be placed under what is known as provisional quarantine. This would enforce all free range territory adjoining to either build a fence or else adopt the stock law. In other words by taking up the work of tick eradication your stock law district would not be placed to any expense whatever in regard to maintaining or constructing fences. Great Advertisement Stock law would be a great advertisement to that part of the county and especially when it is freed from ticks and released from quarantine. at present prospective buyers, and especially those from other states, will not invest in land in the free range territory and the result is that they buy and settle before they reach that part of the state. The real estate dealers north of the quarantine line use this as their strongest arguections are not aware of this fact.

Under the present conditions it is bred cattle or maintain the best of dairies on account of the infectious ticks. In the counties in which we worked last year and released from quarantine (Greene, Lenoir, Wayne, Harnett and Cumberland) we have received over forty applications for pure bred bulls. No doubt the same interest would be shown in your county provided the free range was discontinued and the tick eradicated.

Wishing you success, I remain. a Yours truly, THOMAS M. OWEN Inspector in Charge.

GREAT UNION REVIVAL IN STOCK LAW BEGINS ANOTHER WEEK

AMAZING VERDICT IS SET ASILE

Judge Frank Daniels Decides Against Raleigh Boy

Raleigh, April 26.-Judge Frank Daniels today set aside that amazing verdict of a Wake jury a few weeks ago whereby Sydney Davis, a lad, was given $5,000 for the loss of a

The award of damages for such a loss was not unheard of, but the testimony upon which it was given beggared precedent, according to the view of the lawyers who do not smart under the action of His Honor. Davis testified that he was standing near the Southern Railway track a short distance above Boylan Bridge, about three blocks from the passenger station when a freight train running at a fierce rate passed him and knocked him down. And while flat and helpless he says the train sucked him under and cut off his leg.

The jury gave the verdict upon this evidence and Judge Daniels took it under advisement. Today he announced that in no aspect of the law was the plaintiff boy of about 16 entitled to recover Attorneys representing the young fellow appealed to the Supreme Court. They hope for better luck there. They would very likely have been willing to accept a reduction of the verdict The affection in which railroads are held by juries is declared to be responsible for the keeping of the verdict within the four figures.

Judge Daniels this morning began anew the historic Scarboro vs Wilson case which has twice been to the Supreme Court and is now on its fourth way to trial.

The case was taken up four weeks ago when something like smallpox was discovered on a juror and after three days the trial was stopped. It is an ancient controversy over a timber contract Scarboro resisting judgment in Wilson's favor on the ground that Wilson allowed a fire to get out and consume about 300,-000 feet of timber. The suit involves nearly $10,000.
