The war in Mexico, like the poor, we have with us always.

High Point's fire companies have gone on a strike on account of some differences between the officials of the city and the members of the companies. However, there is every probability that the firemen will have settled their differences before the State Firemen's tournament is held in New Bern, and that the fire laddies of that city will be here in full force.

The first two statements of the trio which the great and only Bill Bryan was to issue have come forth and the last was even more senseless than the first and the third will probably be worse. William Jennings is a failure when it comes down to a question of making statements that are worth the time required in reading them.

Failing to work up any other sensational disclosures against "Billy" Sunday, his enemies now come forth with the announcement that his staff of assistants is the biggest bunch of grafters alive and that they cleaned up thousands of dollars while in Philadelphia. In making such "disclosures" the anti-Sunday crowd is only giving him more publicity and making the public even more anxious to see and hear him.

For the past week an investigation has been in progress for the purpose of learning whether or not the Lusitania carried munitions of war for the Allies. It has been conclusively proven that such was not the case but we notice that this finding has had no effect on the Germans. The Teutons didn't give a rap whether or not there was ammunition aboard the ship, all that they cared about was sinking the boat and killing the crew and passengers and they well accomplished this.

The credit system is one of the greatest things in the world and business could not be done without it. However, credit is based on the assumption that bills will be paid when they are due. Collections all over the country are slow and the reason for this is that the people are holding on to all the money that they can rake and scrape together and are not turning it loose. You owe someone and someone owes you. If you will pay the man you owe, he will be able to pay his debts and finally the man that owes you will be in a position to liquidate his obligations to you.

Newspapers rarely ever get any praise. Most of the time they get their full share of the knocks and kicks and when a little ray of praise does come along it is like a ray of sunshine peeping through an angry cloud. Over in Washington there is a paper that has had more than its share of ups and downs, and that paper is the Daily News. Of late there has been a marked improvement in the paper and it is now among the best in Eastern North Carolina and the citizens there should support it. We notice that it is getting but little advertising patronage and this is regrettable. No newspaper can make a success unless it has advertising, and as we believe the people of Washington are desirous of a good, newsy daily, they should help bring this about by assisting it financially.

In the selection of Prof. H. B. Smith, of Tarboro, as superintendent of the New Bern public schools, the Board of Trustees of that institution have acted most wisely. Prof. Smith is looked upon as being one of the most able educators in the State and there is every reason to believe that his work here will be most satisfactory.

BOY IS DROWNED WHEN HUNTING BULLFROGS.

Columbia, Mo., June 19.—Hunting bullfrogs along Hinkson Creek was the undoing of Lyman J. Gage, 15 years old, who fell into a 15-foot pool and was drowned this morning before men working at the Edwards Brick Company could reach him. Two boys with young Gage could not swim. He was the son of William H. Gage of Columbia.

CITY MADE HIMCROOK.

"Moral" Burglar Blames Fall on New York.

Chicago, Ill., June 19.—Nathan Steinberg, the burglar, who says he does not smoke, drink and dissipate, and prays daily, and who admits that in ten years he stole and disposed of $1,000,000 worth of property, underwent cross-examination in the so-called "graft case."

"When I was honest, I was honest," said the witness. "When I came from Austria I was just a clean-handed kid, with no other ambition than to live an honest life."

"What made you change?" asked the attorney for the three former police officers on trial.

"New York, just old New York," replied the witness. "It is easier to be crooked than straight there and a great deal more profitable. I got in with a bad gang, and here I am, am a real crook."

The cross-examination was directed largely to the purpose of trying to show that Steinberg and other offenders, who will appear for the state, conspired while in prison to get into the good graces of State Attorney Hoyne by giving evidence against the police.

"Do you intend to commit more burglaries when you get that release from prison Mr. Hoyne has promised you?" asked the attorney.

"No, I think I'll reform."

SUMMARY OF THE WAR

The German campaign against the Russians is developing another phase, a violent attack in Russian Poland. At the same time the Germans are pushing back the Russians in the Baltic provinces and, with the help of the Austrians, in Galicia.

An official communication from Petrograd admits that the Germans have occupied additional villages near Shavli in the Baltic region, but says the Russians regained lost ground near Przasnysz. It is in the vicinity of Przasnysz which lies north of Warsaw that the Germans apparently are making their most determined effort on the Polish front, although the fortress of Ossowetz again is being attacked.

The Galicia campaign has reached a critical stage, in view of the continued successes of the Austrians and Germans. The Petrograd communication says little of the battle along the San, but states the Russians have won some advantage in the fighting further south, in the Danubian region.

Official advices from the Italian army headquarters represent the Italians as gaining advantages all along the front, particularly in the Adige Valley, which leads to Trent. On the Isonzo front, where centers the battle for possession of Trieste, Italian successes also are claimed.

The Turkish forces on Gallipoli peninsula have taken the offensive. An official statement from Constantinople says heavy losses were inflicted on the French and British, but a London announcement declares the Turks were repulsed in an attempt to recapture lost trenches.

According to a Constantinople report, a Turkish aviator has seen a British warship of the type of the Agamemnon aground near the entrance of the Dardanelles, her deck almost submerged. Official denial was made at London yesterday of reports that the Agamemnon had been sunk.

TALL, DARK DAMSEL CAUSES TROUBLE

Ran Away With the Husband of Another Woman

Winston-Salem, June 17.—One of the most pathetic cases that has ever come to the attention of the Travelers' Aid in this city, which is under the charge of Mrs. R. M. Payne, was that of Mrs. J. N. Waddell, of North Wilkesboro, who thinks that her husband deserted her for a tall brunette, who was boarding with her at the time, taking all the money she had in the world.

Mrs. Waddell arrived in the city yesterday in search of her missing husband, but was so prostrated with grief over the affair that she could not give any information which might lead to his capture other than he was a "heavy set man with a heavy mustache" and that she has every reason to believe that he left home with the woman. Mrs. Payne came to her assistance, and, after a thorough investigation, believes that they left here for Asheville, going by the way of Greensboro. Mrs. Waddell left last night for Greensboro in an effort to find a more definite trace of her husband. In case her search is fruitless, she will leave for her daughter's home in Buncombe county.

Mrs. Waddell ran a boarding house in North Wilkesboro, and was perfectly happy, her husband being most attentive to her, until a few weeks ago when a tall, dark complected, dark haired woman, who "dressed handsomely" secured room and board with her. Her husband became quite infatuated with the woman, it is said. Mrs. Waddell thinks she is originally from Philadelphia, and a short time after both disappeared. Mrs. Waddell saying that they had departed with all the money she had made and had gone to parts unknown. As a consequence, Mrs. Waddell was forced to close her boarding house and was obliged to leave North Wilkesboro with her bills unpaid. Her husband wrote her one letter after leaving, but the address could not be discerned, and she has received none since. She will make her home with her daughter until she can locate her husband.

TURKISH TROOPS ARE REPULSED

Forces of the Sultan Lose Ground in the Dardanelles

London, June 17.—Turkish troops in the Dardanelles have been repulsed in their attempt to recapture the trenches lost by them to the British June 12, according to an official statement on the situation in the Dardanelles made public here today.

The announcement follows: "On the night of June 15 a party of the enemy, led by a German officer, made a gallant attack on the trenches occupied by one of the British brigades. A few of the enemy were killed on the parapet, but a majority of them fell before reaching our trenches. Fifty dead were counted, including the German leader and his Turkish subordinate. "These trenches were captured by us on the night of June 12. After a strong attack the Turkish positions were enveloped by our machine guns from right to left. The Dublin fusiliers attacked with the bayonet. When the trenches were occupied they were found to contain 200 dead Turks. Twelve prisoners also were taken. Our casualties were very slight."

DOVER MAN BUYS REAL ESTATE HERE

Fifteen Houses and Lots Have Changed Hands

This property was owned by M. C. Williams and Helen Huff and fronts on George and Bell streets. The consideration paid for the property was not made public.

Mr. Richardson intends to erect a store on the corner and will make improvements to the remainder of the property.

BAPTIST YOUNG LADIES TO SAIL

With Members of Baraca Class They Will Voyage Down the Neuse

The Berean class of the First Baptist Sunday school will give a party this evening to the members of the class and the Baraca class of the same Sunday school.

There will be quite a large crowd who will enjoy the hospitality of this large class of ladies, in fact so large that it will require the service of three gas boats to accommodate them. Those who are going to take advantage of this opportunity of spending a pleasant evening will meet at the foot of Pollock street from which the boats will leave at 6:30 o'clock. The trip will be made to Glenburnie park where refreshments will be served after which the main sail will take place.

The Berean class is divided into two sections, the "Reds" and the "Blues." Some months ago it was agreed by the two sections that the one making the best average in attendance, was to be given a sail by the other section. The "Reds" made the best average and they will be entertained, with the Baracas, by the "Blues."

ROMANCE UP-TO-DATE

Amite City, La., June 19.—Her photograph, with her name and a copy request that the purchaser write to her inscribed upon its back, placed in the bottom of a box of luscious strawberries which she had packed, has brought seventeen proposals of marriage to Miss Lillian Aven Avenzo, a petite brunette, who resides near Independence, La.

The car containing the crate in which was the box with the girl's photograph left Independence, May 5, for Milwaukee. A college located at Superior, Wis., purchased several crates from this shipment, and when the young men of the institution discovered the photograph of the Louisiana lassie there was a rush for writing materials, and Miss Avenzo's mail has been quite heavy during the past two weeks.

Three of the suitors for the "strawberry maid's hand" declare they will proceed to Independence at once to claim her if she gives them the slightest encouragement.

Rev. Euclid McWhorter returned last night to Goldsboro where he is conducting a revival meeting. Rev. McWhorter returned to New Bern Friday night to conduct the funeral of the late W. T. Hader yesterday afternoon. He will be in Goldsboro all of 1st week.

DARING SATANET CLIMBER FALLS

Harry Gardner Breaks Self Up At Columbia, S. C.

Columbia, S. C., June 17.—Harry Gardner, daring steepclimber known by the sobriquet of "Satanet," fell from the coping of the dome of the capitol yesterday afternoon to the slate roof, 30 to 40 feet below, when he was trying to ascend to the flag staff of the building. Four ribs on the man's right side are broken and it is possible that he is seriously injured internally. The accident was witnessed by several hundred persons. "I will be climbing again in a week," he told his physician at the hospital last night, but added, "I'll never climb, though, when the building is wet."

Gardner had crawled up one of the large front columns, wriggling along with the ease of a squirrel, bracing his hands and knees in the fluting, after dragging himself over the broad overhanging ledge of the portico eaves, he raced briskly along the ridge pole to the dome base. Having mounted this to the conical metal work near the summit, he writhed and twisted his little body there possibly 15 minutes. Then he lost his grip and dropped to the slate roof below. The falling man rebounded from the force of the impact, then dropped back with arms outstretched, blood flowing from his nostrils.

A. F. Stainbach, who travels with him, was one of the first to reach his side. Gardner fell at 5:15 o'clock, but it was 5:45 o'clock before he was brought to the ground and rushed in an ambulance to the hospital.

The home of the injured man is at Newport News, Va., where he has a wife and three small children. He is said to have been practicing the dangerous art of scaling tall buildings for 18 years. Yesterday's was his first fall. The only scar he ever got from climbing was from staggering into a man hole near the base of a building he was leaving after having mounted its walls. Just now Gardner climbs to advertise a new soft drink.

As unique as the drop was startling is the picture which W. L. Blanchard caught of the man as he fell. The photographer focused his lens when he saw the climber approaching the treacherous ledge and kept his instrument trained. He was so shocked when the man dropped that he didn't realize he had pressed the bulb. Mr. Blanchard regards this as the most remarkable piece of work he has ever done, and doesn't believe he will ever duplicate it.

Bound to Happen

Commenting on Gardner's fall the Columbia State has the following to say:

Yesterday afternoon a large crowd huddled in the rain and watched an athlete crawl like a spider up the sheer wall leading to the dome of the State capitol. It was evident from every action that the man was confident of his ability to perform the job, that he was sure of his trade. As he went higher and higher the crowd forgot to thrill, though it still looked on with fascination. After a while the spectacle became boring in its repetitions. But still the crowd looked—waiting! For what was the crowd waiting? For what it felt in its heart was impossible in the case of this man of skill and surety—but which still might happen.

On a sudden, it did happen! The steepclimber, perilously hung practically over a blank wall, lost that necessary grip which would have maintained his balance. He lost himself. He fell. For an instant he was etched in air, a whirling thing in red against the white background of masonry.

The crowd was mute. Here and there a woman gave a feeble shriek. The man, falling with the instinctive caution of a cat, landed on the roof. He remained still as wax—an outstretched figure, a touch of real tragedy in a trade comedy.

And the crowd questioned itself, each man asking his neighbor as the ambulance hurried up and excited rescuers rushed to the height of the building to find whether Jack were dead or alive: "Is this on the level, "

COL. BAILEY'S FORCES DID DO GOOD WORK

Justifies His Action In Retention of All of The Men In His Service--Renews Appeal To State Officers To Assist Him.

(BY W. T. BOST)

Raleigh, June 17.—Collector J. W. Bailey who issued a call to the people of the state recently to assist the Government in the destruction of the illicit distilleries talks today of the service that his men have rendered and justifies himself in the defense which he made recently in Washington resulting in the retention of all his deputies on the government payroll.

The interview refers to the recent federal court here which resulted in 28 penitentiary sentences and three jail terms. Besides these were almost innumerable smaller cases settled by fine. The records were all broken by this Atlanta prison jam. The vast majority of the convicts are old whiskey criminals, incorrigibles whom Bailey's deputies caught after hard work.

No Excess Deputies
When the department concluded that the Raleigh collector had an overplus, about five were in seats of anxiety. Collector Bailey convinced the commissioner that North Carolina had no excess of deputies. He was backed by a strong sentiment which readily testifies that Bailey's deputies are not furniture polishers and do more work than even the government exactors. The Raleigh office has no laxer Raleigh insists, and the restoration to the service of the several deputies, though temporary, will be made permanent if Raleigh people can make it so.

State Should Help
In the statement today the collector intimates what the former field deputies often said freely, and that is the relative lack of assistance that state officers give toward the enforcement of the state's criminal law. Deputy K. W. Merritt often said that sheriffs bearing the best of reputations, would telephone for him when he was 100 miles distant to come to their counties to break up a still about which the officer at home knew every detail. There were just four sheriffs who aided Merritt, he said, two Democrats and two Republicans. Collector Bailey complains of the small work done in the several counties.

Warning to Autoists
In the office of the Secretary of State today the chief clerk had received not more than one third of the new license applications by automobile owners and the month is well more than half gone.

These blanks have been sent out to all owners of machines, the office says, and the year begins anew July 1. Delay in applying for registration until the last few days of June will result in great congestion both in the postoffice and in the secretary of state's office.

More than that, it is said that applicants who figure in this vast delay and congestion will be without the use of their machines until the department can catch up with the work and restore the numbers. It will be the duty of all officers to arrest any person after July 1 who runs his machine without displaying the new number.

The department calls upon the 16,000 owners to send their applications in at once for the double protection and convenience that punctuality will give.

Chariman Travis of the Corporation commission today ruled for the attorney general upon the time for levying county taxes in North Carolina.

Mr. Travis holds that there are two days upon which county commissioners may levy taxes, these dates being the first Monday in June and the first Monday in August. The acts of the last general assembly did not nullify this provision of the 1911 law.

STOLE MONEY FROM WOMEN

Stick Swindler Relieved Them of Thousands

Chillicothe, Mo., June 19.—Nearly $50,000 of the $100,000 which Oscar L. Smith, the Chillicothe real estate man and attorney is alleged to have embezzled, was taken from women, according to statements made to Prosecuting Attorney F. L. Marshall today.

Smith was arrested in Philadelphia last Friday on a warrant charging embezzlement of $8000 from Miss Sadie Ulmer, one of his clients.

Smith was held Saturday by Magistrate Beeson in Philadelphia to await requisition. He said he would fight requisition. His wife and his two children, Donald, 25 years old, and Helen, 14 were with him at the Broad Street Hotel when he was arrested.

Mrs. Luther Broadbuss, a widow, who formerly lived in Chillicothe, but for several years has made her home at San Bernardino, Cal., today declared she intrusted her entire fortune of $23,000 to Smith and received $110 a month interest. A few days ago she came here to see about collecting some of the principal. Smith got possession of some of her notes, promised her the money, and fled, she asserts. Now she has not enough money to return home and the $16,000 personal note that Smith mailed her she does not consider worth the price of a passage to the Pacific Coast.

Miss Helen Dodge of Chule, Mo., says she purchased worthless mortgage loans to the extent of more than $9,000 from Smith. She has a small farm left.

Mrs. John McBride is the wife of a city mail carrier, and 1903 was a large amount to them. They let Smith "invest" it for them.

Miss Mary Wall let Smith have $1100. Miss Ella Casey, a school-teacher, says she lost $1,200, and Misses Anna and Mary Broadbuss $2,300.

Prosecuting Attorney Marshall said:

"I believe there are many more who do not care to admit they were 'stung.'"

WALKS 500 MILES TO SELL HAIR

Heroic Effort to Save Husband, Stricken With Tuberculosis

Minneapolis, Minn., June 19.—Walking more than 500 miles, from Chicago to Minneapolis, carrying a heavy pack on her back, and leading by the hand her husband, who is affected with tuberculosis, Mrs. Sylvia Deelany, 24 years old, cut off her hair and sold it when the pair were stranded. From the sale of the hair she obtained $1.50 to buy food for her husband, both weak from the exertion, and again they trudged on to Excelsior, where she obtained employment as maid in the home of F. H. Meyer, and her husband, Claude W. Deelany, was given work as gardener.

Mr. Meyer had them taken into custody to explain the disappearance of five rings and some clothing from the Meyer home, but after thinking over all that the woman had gone through and the sad plight of the man he refused to prosecute, and the two were freed.

Sheriff Otto S. Langum said an effort would be made to have the Associated Charities obtain transportation for the couple to Colorado or some other mountain state.

"Claude was a chef in Chicago," said Mrs. Deelany, "and we were getting along nicely. Then he was stricken with tuberculosis. He lost his job. Then our landlord turned us out.

"We decided to come West. We started to walk and at first made only a few miles a day, but when we got into the country Claude gained strength. I carried the blankets and coffee pot. We camped by the roadside and slept on the ground.

"When we got here I looked for work, but couldn't find any. Then I was walking by a hair store one day, and the thought of selling my hair occurred to me.

"I went in and they clipped my hair. I got $1.50 for it. That gave us something to eat. The next morning we walked to Excelsior and both got work at the Meyer home."

A telegram addressed to C. I. P. M. Pearsall reached New Bern yesterday from Mrs. T. J. Jarvis requesting him to act as one of the pall bearers at the funeral of her husband, the late Ex-Gov. Jarvis. Col. Pearsall was out of the city and the telegram was answered to that effect by Mrs. Pearsall.

MARINE NEWS

The gas freight boat Brooklyn arrived in port yesterday morning from Baldo Coast with a cargo of beef and cotton.
