Hoity, tolty. Here comes the Kinston News and avers in wildeyed tones that Kinston officials need no outside help in running the affairs of that town. Of course that thing doing while the scribes are in town doesn't need any "help" in running its affairs but any fair-minded person is always open to suggestions that will tend to help and, despite the fact that the News says "not so." we, as is the Raleigh Times. are inclined to the belief that that they are taking too much responsibility upon themselves.

Old Man Huerta, that wily Mexican who raised so much trouble down in that country a few months ago, is again in hot water. This time he is charged with endeavoring to incite another revoultion and it looks as though his accusers have the goods on him. It would not be a bad idea to shut the old dictator up and keep him shut up until his ardor for raising the dickens sort of cools off.

"There is a movement here to bring the North Carolina Firement's Convention and Tournament of 1916 to Raleigh. The department here ranks as one of the best and it can give practical demonstrations of all the approved methods of fire-fighting. There are scores of fire departments in the state which attend these meetings, and to them come also firemen from South Carolina and Virginia. Raleigh, so centrally located, is the place for a great meeting and the best of the tournaments. The water supply here is fine, and, in fact, all the conditions are ideal. THE WAR IN BRIEF

The tide of battle again is flowing with the Teutonic allies in Galicia. German and Austrian claims of victory are substantial by Russian admissions of retirment south of Lemburg. Simultaneously comes the news of a Russian war council at the front, presided over by the emperor. In Petrograd the recent retirement of the war minister is to be followed by other ministerial changes, according to current reports.

Following recent intimations that the Germans were resuming activity with the possible intention of another attempt on Warsaw from near the east Prussian border come reports of a strong offensive movement by the Teutonic forces in the southern part of Russian Poland. The latest Russian official report mentions this, but declares that up to Saturday the new offensive met with no success. It's likewise said that German attacks in the Shavit and Narew river regions and across the Niemen have been repulsed.

Sixty-two of the most beaucase in the newspapers has got to tiful German trans-Atlantic boats, stop." He threatened with punishment for contempt of court any editor who published stories forecasting evidence yet to be presented.

> Thaw's counsel lost a point at the outset today when Justice Hendrick decided in favor of the State an argument as to whether the report of the Federal commission, headed by General Streeter, on Thaw's sanity, should be added in evidence. Upon this report Thaw was admitted to bail in New Hampshire.

The State contended that Federal udge Aldrich, in appointing the comnission had instructed the members to letermine only whether Thaw would be a dangerous person to the communty if admitted to bail. The State argued that the broad question of Thaw's sanity was not involved in the finding of the commission. The report was excluded and General Streetr was then called to the stand.

General Streeter described the comluctant at first to do so. Thaw then drew a rough sketch of Matteamatter, describing life at Matteawan and telling of the various exhim to determine his sanity. He stances that led up to it.

"Thaw said that immediately upon firing the pistol he realized he had done wrong," General Streeter testified, refreshing his memory frequently from the report that had been excluded.
