

JONES COUNTY MAN FIRES LOAD OF SHOT INTO NEGRO'S BODY

James O'Neal Used Shotgun on Zack Chadwick

INJURY PAINFUL

Not Thought That There Will Be Any Fatal Result

A shooting affray which came near proving serious occurred yesterday morning near Pollockville in Jones county, when James O'Neal, white, emptied the contents of a shotgun into the body of Zack Chadwick, colored.

According to the information received here in regard to the affair, O'Neal was walking down a tram road when a lokey with Chadwick on board acting in the capacity of fireman, drew up near him. Chadwick reached over and turned on a stream of live steam and this struck the white man.

The two men then engaged in some warm words and O'Neal went off. A few minutes later he returned with a shotgun and opened fire, the entire load struck the negro in the hip. He was given medical attention as soon as possible and a small handful of No. 8 shot were picked out of his body.

A warrant was issued for O'Neal, but he had departed for some other locality and had not been found late last night.

NORFOLK POLICE SEARCH FOR THIEF

Hot on Trail of Man Who Tried to Murder Woman

Norfolk, July 21.—The alleged assailant of Mrs. J. S. Grub, who was assaulted and robbed of $900 in currency and jewelry valued at $750 yesterday morning at her home, No. 305 Bank street, was Gus Collins, according to the police, and they are now making every effort to apprehend him.

First reports gave his name as Rochelle. The woman who accompanied him, said to have passed as his wife, is known as Mildred Rochelle, the detectives say, and came here last week from Baltimore.

Reporters learned today that shortly after 9 a. m. yesterday, the time the assault is said to have occurred, Collins and the Rochelle woman were making strenuous efforts to leave the city, with an old trunk that almost caused their detention and subsequent apprehension.

The pair finally succeeded in getting away on an out-going train.

A negro teamster, driving a white horse and a dray, called at the Grub home for the trunk containing their belongings about 8:30 a. m. The trunk was carried to one train, which the couple missed, and under instructions from Collins it was carried to a second station.

There the stationmaster rejected the trunk as baggage because it was not roped or strapped according to the regulations of the road. The party accordingly went to a third station, where the couple caught the train out of the city.

It was ascertained that the drayman who carried the trunk has his stand on Washington street, between Brewer and Bank, just around the corner from the house in which Mrs. Grub was assaulted.

None of the teamsters at this stand would give any information as they had been given instructions by the police not to talk about the matter according to their statements.

Mrs. Grub, the victim of the assault, is an odd character. Money-mad, according to neighbors, she was afraid to allow her valuables out of her sight and carried them in a wallet strapped over her shoulder. It was this wallet which her assailant is said to have snatched from her after striking her with the axe. The sight of it continually upon Mrs. Grub's person possibly prompted the man to commit the crime.

Mrs. Grub, a little woman a few years over 50, lived in almost abject poverty that she might save and hoard up her earnings. The room in which she lived at her boarding house, 305 Bank street, presented a dingy and untidy appearance and looked as if it were never swept or dusted. A small couch with dirty covers served as a bed and in one corner of the room stood a small stove upon which she cooked her own meals.

On the table this morning were dishes containing the remnants of meals for several days past, which had never been washed.

She did not complain of her injuries, according to roomers in the house, but continually bemoaned the loss of her pocketbook when they went to her assistance.

It is said that Mrs. Grub came of a prominent Norfolk family and is an accomplished musician. She taught it is said, classes of negroes in music, charging them twelve cents an hour.

While there were two women boarded in the house at the time of the alleged assault none of them heard a sound, and workmen in a vacant lot next door did not know that anything unusual had occurred. The first information came from Grub, who found his wife in the kitchen with a blanket over her head when he returned to the house after an absence of about an hour, and, going upstairs, informed the roomers of the attack.

GREENVILLE MAN TO SEA IN TUB

Arthur Warren Makes a Rather Unusual Voyage

The three wise men of Gotham who, according to mythological lore, went to sea in a bowl, didn't have a thing on Arthur Warren, a well known citizen of Greenville, N. C., who used an ordinary bath tub in making the voyage from his home city to Washington, N. C. The trip was made as the result of a bet and in consequence the bold mariner is fifty dollars ahead. He set sail Monday morning attired in a bathing suit which, if it had been worn by some fair aspirant for the fame of Venus de Milo, would have attracted every native along the line of the journey. Down the river Tar sailed the tub and its occupants. Into the broad expanse of the Pamlico river it floated and then to Washington the redoubtable mariner disembarked and donned his street clothing which had been forwarded there by express. There were several spills on the way down but Mr. Warren is some swimmer and a little thing like that didn't faze him.

BRIDGEPORT STRIKE SITUATION IS BAD

Gompers Confers with Officials of the Machinists' Union

Bridgeport, Conn., July 21.—Whether the strike of the machinists at the Remington arms and ammunition plant will develop according to the announced plans of labor leaders probably will be determined definitely by tonight. Although a strike call was issued yesterday, only 175 men obeyed the summons, according to the labor estimates. Today, leaders, assert, there will be no misunderstanding, and the strike will go forward as planned.

The Bridgeport Manufacturers' Association claims only twenty-eight employers instead of 175 actually quit work yesterday. Labor leaders claimed that pickets at the main Remington plant stopped eighty skilled machinists from going to work this morning. The pickets went to the plant soon after day-break and every machinist that appeared ready for work was taken aside and talked to. The labor men admitted that not all of the men approached had stayed away from work.

An attempt to get a statement from Major W. G. Penfield, works manager of the Remington Company, as to how many men had struck, was unsuccessful. John W. French, publicity agent of the company, said: "We are not at liberty to say how many machinists, if any, are on strike. We can give no figures."

The labor leaders declared the men who agreed to go to work today brought the total machinists out to 250. They predicted a complete tie-up by Saturday.

Mrs. R. J. Russell, an aunt of the deceased, yesterday received a message telling of the death at Carrolton, Ga., of Miss Marie Spence, a daughter of the late Dr. Spence of that city. Miss Spence has on several occasions visited in New Bern and has a large number of friends here who will regret to learn of her demise. Pulmonary trouble was the direct cause of her death.

WIFE SLAYER IS HELD FOR COURT

Cooper Hill Given a Hearing Yesterday at Kinston

Kinston, July 21.—Cooper Hill the Deep Run wife slayer, was this morning remanded to jail without bail by Magistrate H. C. V. Peebles.

Nearly the entire Deep Run male population came here for the preliminary hearing before the magistrate. A number of 117 neighbors were jammed in the rear doorway of the Court House when he was brought over from the jail at 10 o'clock. They shut their mouths, turning their backs upon the accused man.

Hill was apparently weak and nervous. He walked like a drunken man. In the courtroom he looked frequently at the Deep Run people, but spoke to none of them. He has not shaved since he was locked up.

The State has but two witnesses against Hill yet. There may be one other, unless he should be examined by physicians for a test of his sanity.

ITALIAN CAPTAIN WANTS HIS MONEY

Wants the Owners of Ship-Wrecked Boat to Reimburse Him

It may be a long way to Tipperary, but the distance between New Bern and Picadilly Square is nothing compared with the number of miles that intervene between Craven's capital and Turin, Italy, at least so thinks Captain Victor Buchina, who has been employed with the company constructing the breakwater at Cape Lookout and who is now in the city consulting Federal authorities in regard to securing about three hundred dollars in coin of the realm and pay for a gold watch and some clothing which he lost a few days ago when a barge on which he was located overturned. The Captain claims that the accident was caused by negligence on the part of the owners of the vessel and hence wants them to reimburse him in the amount of four hundred dollars. This they refused to do and he has secured the services of an attorney and will take the case to court.

ON ROBBERS' TRAIL

Three Believed To Be Citizens of Statesville

Statesville, July 21.—It is said here tonight that three of the burglars who robbed a Mount Airy bank Sunday night, are residents of Statesville. Two of the men, it is charged are Tom and Vernon Saunders, sons of Superintendent Saunders of the Bloomfield Cotton Mills, and the third, Will Moore, night watchman at the above mills.

The two Saunders boys who are yet in their teens, were arrested this morning at Elkin and are in jail there and are said to have confessed.

It was learned early tonight that Moore, who, it is charged, planned the robbery and who has the loot, was in Statesville tonight and would make an effort to get away before morning on one of the night trains. Police and deputy sheriffs with a blood hound are on his trail and it is expected that his capture will be effected in the next few hours.

It was stated that he arrived in town about dark tonight in an automobile. It could not be learned how much was secured from the Mount Airy bank.

The police have been ordered not to fire on the strikers.

HIS DREAM DID NOT COME TRUE

Deputy Sheriff Thought He Had a Vision—Was Not So

Sheriff R. B. Lane, Deputy Sheriffs S. J. Ballis and John Huff, United States Deputy Marshal C. H. Anger and C. T. Midgett scoured the country above Vanceboro Monday night in search of parties against whom warrants have been issued, charging them with violating the internal revenue law by the illicit manufacture of whiskey, their efforts were unavailing.

The party searched a number of houses in that section and also searched the woods for the violators and their plant, but no trace of either could be found. They spent the night in the woods and from reports given by members of the party, some rather amusing incidents occurred, one of which was a vision or dream by Mr. Midgett.

Mr. Midgett and Sheriff Lane went to sleep under a tree, and they did not know how long they had been in the arms of Morpheus when Mr. Midgett very cautiously approached the Sheriff, and awakening him he said that the parties whom they were looking for were nearby for he had just heard them get over a fence. With his revolver in hand, Sheriff Lane made a thorough search for the woods for several years in every direction, but he was unable to locate either the parties or the fence that Mr. Midgett had heard them get over.
