

PROGRESS MADE IN GASTONIA MILL SCHOOL

One of the very interesting graded school commencements that has so far escaped publication was that of the Clara community school last Thursday night. The pupils of all grades acquitted themselves with credit and with honor to their teachers. Miss Moore, principal, and Misses Edwards and Armstrong have been "few but faithful," and intellectual progress has been demonstrated in the increased ability and capability of the scholars. By sickness and resignations the morale of the faculty has been broken into during the present term, which prevented general community work being aggressively done by the teachers, but they have "made good" at "home." Mrs. C. B. Armstrong was the donor of a portrait of General Robert E. Lee and Miss Leticia Warren made the presentation to the school. Among the visitors were Col. and Mrs. C. B. Armstrong, Mrs. C. C. Armstrong, Mrs. R. C. Warren, Mrs. T. W. Wilson and Misses Spencer and Warren.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a notice of the celebration of Jefferson Davis' birthday, to which all Confederate veterans of the county are especially invited by the members of Gastonia Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Small enough to be carried in a shopping bag is a perfume bottle that will not spill its contents even if the corks at each end become loose unless it is violently shaken.
