A SALE THAT BRINGS PRICES BELOW REPLACEMENT VALUES

You'll find prices in this January Clearance below the prices we will have to ask for equal qualities in the spring! Why?

Simply because it's up to every merchant to move his stock, even at a loss, that orders for more merchandise may go through to manufacturers, and help them to get busy.

That's the only way that we can do our bit toward getting back to the normal basis all of us are striving for.

LOVE AND THE LIGHT OF MORNING

A shelter rude and a crust of bread But your hand in mine on the way I tread. And the love and light of Morning!

A sorrow, thrilling the lonely years, But your smile like light in a rain of tears, And your sweet firm faith, and your whispered prayers, And love and the light of morning!

And so we mingle, and so we meet, And shall—till the journey at last complete, We rest, with the beautiful dreams and sweet In love, and the light of morning! —Atlanta Constitution.

U. C. CLUB MET WITH MRS. JONES

The U. C. Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur C. Jones as hostess at her home on West Airline avenue. Roll call was responded to with quotations from "King John" and the reading of this play continued. Miss Mary Ragan read an interesting article, "Church and State," and Miss Lottie Blake followed with "Light and Shadow," each of these articles bearing on the play at hand. Following the program the hostess served an elaborate salad course with coffee and accessories.

INTERESTING MEETING OF D. A. R. CHAPTER

Mrs. Frost Torrance and Miss Marie Torrance were hostesses Friday afternoon to the William Gaston Chapter, D. A. R. In the absence of both the regent and the vice-regent, the secretary, Miss Mary Ragan, presided and Mrs. T. W. Campbell acted as secretary. After the regular business session an interesting program was rendered. Mrs. C. J. McCombs read a carefully prepared and exceptionally interesting paper on the "Leadership of Washington" and a reading by Miss Helen Ragan was greatly enjoyed. During the social hour which followed the program the hostesses served a delicious chicken salad course with coffee.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHOR ENJOYS DINNER

Thursday evening the gentlemen of the choir of the First Presbyterian church were hosts at a lovely dinner party given at the Armington Hotel in compliment to the ladies of the choir. A delightful dinner in five courses was served, after which a social hour was enjoyed. The ladies received clusters of pink carnations as favors. Invited guests other than choir members were Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kennedy, Mrs. M. B. Ramsey, and Dr. J. H. Headerlite.

The personnel of the choir is as follows: Mesdames Harry Rutter, J. H. Headerlite, J. Holland Morrow, W. Y. Warren, Misses Marian Harvey, Mary Ramsey, and Miss Morton, and Messrs. W. Y. Warren, Perkins Thompson, H. H. Spencer, J. M. Underwood, Will Stowe, J. L. Kendrick, and Dr. C. J. McCombs.

GAVE ROOK PARTY FOR RECENT BRIDES

Mrs. J. Flay Bess entertained Friday afternoon at one of the loveliest parties of the season, honoring Mrs. James Wilson McArver, a recent bride and a charming newcomer to the city. The music room, living room, and dining room were thrown together and informally arranged with ivy, narcissus, and cyclamen, emphasizing a color scheme of king, white, and green, which was also beautifully carried out in the favors and refreshments.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. W. F. Michael and presented to the receiving line which included Mrs. Bess, wearing navy georgette embroidered in American Beauty beads; Mrs. James Wilson McArver, gowned in black lace over black satin; Mrs. Wade S. Buice, wearing black velvet with lace trimmings; Miss Augusta Little, of Wadesboro, wearing a lovely combination of black, georgette and satin heavily beaded; Miss Mary Little, also of Wadesboro, gowned in black velvet; Mrs. R. light brown embroidered charmeuse, and Mrs. Louis W. Henderson, of Charlotte, wearing midnight blue charmeuse with touches of henna.

Progressive rook was the game for the afternoon and was played at ten tables. The place cards were attached to charming boutonnières fashioned of green and white crepe paper and tied with pink ribbon, the heart of the flowers being tiny paper covered bonbons. After an interesting series of games an elaborate and beautifully appointed chicken salad course with sandwiches, tomato jelly, pickles, beaten biscuits, coffee, and fruit cake was served. Assisting Mrs. Bess in entertaining were her lovely little daughter, Margaret, very charming in a hand embroidered frock of pink crepe de chine with lace trimmings and pink hair bow; Mesdames W. F. Michael, J. S. Winget, J. W. Culp, and Miss Eunice Spencer.

POEMS WRITTEN IN ROME BY FORMER GASTONIAN

The three exquisite sonnets given below under the signature of Dorian Sebastian Hope will be of especial interest in the city and county. They are the work of Mr. Bret Holland, a former Gastonian who now is living abroad, and were written in Rome, where Mr. Holland is pursuing the study of archaeology. These sonnets will be included in a volume of verse, "Jungle Bloom," to be issued by Mr. Holland from the publishing house of Burns and Oates, London, early in April. For the past several years Mr. Holland has resided in New York city and writing under the pen name of "Dorian Hope" has achieved remarkable success in a literary way. His career will be watched with interest by his many Gaston county friends. The poems follow:

SOCIETY PERSONALS

Mrs. Charlie Revels, of Salisbury, is the guest of her father, Mr. E. L. Dalton, his many Gaston county friends. The poems follow:
Mass.
Against the vaulted arch's chiselled stone,
The noble organ's thundering of sound,
Majestically rolling from the ground,
Reluctant dies in one vibrating tone.
Upon the perfumed atmosphere is flown
A boy's high voice that flutters to confound
In silvered purity the echoes. Crowned
Niche throne.
An awe descends upon the kneeling throng;
Its inarticulate murmurs fade,
And I—who see no life beyond the dead,
As priests and choir stir with solemn song
The gleam of tapers, ghostly in that shade—
I bend in holy reverence my head!
The Dark.

light guards the helpless town, until the deep Of dawn's grey budding, slowly through the deep Cold dark, puts darkness and her hordes to flight.
Now down the dead though whispering street, Like some dread ghoul in horror gowned, Where demons thickest dance in noiseless rout, There moves a stealthy form on ghostly feet.
And other shades in terror yield their ground As hooded Evil softly steals about!
Inspiration.
Standing like Mars at perilous
You light the dark horizon of my heart,
You make my life of your high life a part
And lure to me the lights on Helicon
Great, dawn like one, sweet singer just begun,
Return to study her values and
For one whose loveliness befits thy song
As classic Thyrus or grave Corydon.
Mine was the rapture of a radiant day,
Now I must walk Love's long white road,
Alone
With memory of your impassioned art,
And ecstasies that pass my charted way
See shadowed eyes that starlight made its own,
For midnight is the monarch of my heart.

BUY NOW.
Buy Now is the slogan in many places and with many people. Some days ago this newspaper advised that every one buy now the things they need. Just at present the wheels of commerce are sluggish, business is dull and people are hesitating. So long as we deliberately cultivate this spirit there will be a continuation of these things, and as soon as we open up and forget things will promptly right themselves.

The "Buy Now" campaign is attracting much attention in numerous places. Buying now the things that one needs both ways, it gives us now the things we need now, it opens up the trade lines and will set the wheels of manufacture in motion, which in turn will start commerce booming in many directions.
To buy now one does not have to rush out and buy recklessly or extravagantly. That is just what is not wanted. But to go out and buy things that one really needs—all doing this, will start something and all things.
Buying now the things we need will empty the shelves of the retailer, send him to the jobber and manufacturer for more stocks, start the manufacturer to producing, and that will mean buying the raw materials, cotton and other necessities, and start ours carrying merchandise all over the country.
If all Americans were to start today and buy the things that they need now there would be no such thing as a depression anywhere of any kind. The worst depression is the one to go to it our selves.
Do not hesitate to buy the things you are needing and revive the nation's activities.

Mrs. Laura Fisher.
News was received in Gastonia yesterday of the death at her home in Crescent, Rowan county, of Mrs. Laura Fisher, a sister of the late Mrs. L. C. Eury, of this city. She was in her eighty-third year and was the oldest of five sisters. The living sisters are Mrs. Linda Lyerly, of Hickory; Mrs. Margaret Brown, Mrs. Sarah Lyerly and Mrs. Eva Ann Lyerly, all of Rowan county. Deceased is survived by nine children. Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at Crescent, where the burial will also take place. Mrs. John D. Lindsay, a niece of Mrs. Fisher, attended the funeral.
