 Commencing Monday, January 24, at 2:30 p. m. at the Main Street Methodist church the Reverend Doctors, William Evans, Leon Tucker and W. B. Riley, three of the foremost Bible teachers and expositors of America, will lecture daily for the period of one week at 7:30 p. m.
 On Monday afternoon at 2:30 and Monday night at 7:30 Dr. William Evans, a former teacher of the Bible at the Moody Bible Institute, will lecture at the Main Street Methodist church and on Tuesday, at the same place and hours, Dr. Leon Tucker, of the Torrey Bible Institute, of California, will lecture.
 The pastors of all evangelical Protestant churches in Gastonia and Gaston county are especially urged to impress upon their congregations the value of these conferences and urge their attendance.
 This will be a union conference for all the pastors and all the people. Future announcements will be made from the pulpit and in the columns of The Daily Gazette as the meetings progress.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE SHOWING

The report of the Federal Reserve System, as shown by the week's official statement indicates that the system is in the strongest general position it has held for more than a year. The reserve ratio has now reached 48.1, which is the highest since October 24, 1919. It is now figured that the banks of the country could add $5,000,000,000 to outstanding credit at the customary ratio of 2 of circulating credit to 1 of deposit credit without impairing the legal reserve ratio. In other words the banks of the Federal Reserve system could increase their loans approximately $15,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 without undue strain. Reserves have been decreased almost $200,000,000 for the week. This would give the impression that the time is not far distant when the discount rate can be reduced, as on the face of the present week's showing there is no longer the necessity for maintaining it as its present high figure. If this can be done before long it will also give an opportunity for the reduction of rates on commercial paper, which naturally would exceed the discount rate. It is argued that there is not the immediate necessity for action of this kind, but the sooner it is understood the sooner will the business of the country respond to its psychological effect, if nothing else. The sentiment which a few months ago was so exceedingly hostile to the Federal Reserve Board, blaming it for causing too drastic a deflation and so forth, has veered in the other direction and it is now realized that the board has saved the country from financial disaster.

Yorkville Enquirer: "I noticed in connection with the account of the death of that old Adams negro over in North Carolina the other day the first reference to the 'stalling of the stars,' that I have seen in a long time," remarked a Yorkville man to Views and Interviews yesterday. "I am not nearly old enough to remember this noted occurrence—not by thirty years; but my memory goes back to the time when the occurrence was mentioned more frequently than it is now. I have seen many people who claim to have witnessed the startling phenomenon. It was in the fall of 1833, along in the latter part of a November night, I believe. There was a perfect rain of meteors. It looked as if all the stars in the heavens were coming down and many people thought they had run into judgment day. Indeed there were few who saw the thing who were not more or less frightened for the like had never been seen since. It is generally accepted that earth was passing through a field of meteors; but there has been no generally satisfactory explanation of the phenomenon to this day."

PREVENTED BOMB EXPLOSION; IN HOSPITAL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—A sputtering fuse, attached to a large square bomb in the basement of a house in process of reconstruction in Brooklyn, was cut in the nick of time early today by the night watchman, Tony Franko. The fuse was severed two inches from the bomb.
 Franko was so badly burned while hacking at the fuse with a pocket knife that he had to be taken to a hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. He told physicians that as he went into the cellar he saw the dark forms of two men, one of whom had just lighted a match. When he shouted to them they ran away after firing shots at him.

ACCUSES DEMOCRATS OF "GERRYMANDERING"

Republican Members See Political Move in the Neal Bill—Some Institutions Satisfied With Budget Commission's Recommendations.

RALEIGH, Jan. 21.—Republican members of the General Assembly who have scrutinized the Neal bill to redistribute the State so that the minority members will be gerrymandered out of five or six senators in the 1923 session think that the Democrats are trying to protect themselves from the rapid growth of the Republican party by gerrymandering far worse than old man Gerry would have done himself.
 Representative Ralph H. Fisher of Transylvania, Republican in the lower house, thinks that there should be 50 senatorial districts in the State with one senator from each district. This is the plan the Republican members would support if given the opportunity. They are not satisfied with the present arrangement nor with the proposed re-arrangement as outlined in the Neal bill.
 "Afrail to meet the Republicans in the next campaign on the issue," says Representative Fisher, "the Democrats prepare to avoid a 'dog fall' in the upper house. A few thousand votes spread according to Watts would carry the lower house for the Republicans. Fully a war of these facts and appraisings the forced clearness by the women voters the Democrats are busy."
 "The most intelligent body of men comprising the minority for several years is now in Raleigh. Young, patriotic and energetic, some soldiers with many months of foreign service to their credit."
 Speaking for the minority members, Mr. Fisher thinks that the Neal bill proposing a re-districting of the State senatorial districts is a revival of two fifths of the white voters in North Carolina and is obviously to the fair minded citizen, and when properly considered by the fairer sex the word reaction will display its banner.

The Republican members believe that if the Neal bill goes through as originally drafted and "gerrymandered" the minority party out of five or six senators in the next general assembly there will be a general reaction that will, in the end, result in Republican success in the State.
 Some Satisfied With Budget.
 State institutions dissatisfied at first with the recommendation of the State Budget Commission are now said to be falling in line with the recommendations as made and they will not ask for more than has been given them.
 Senator R. S. McLean, a member of the commission and also a member of the present senate, today authorized the publication of the following institutions that have decided they will not appeal from the commission's recommendations. They are:

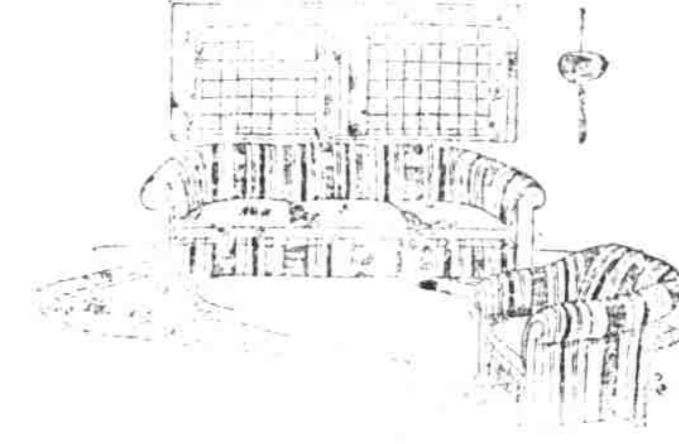

State Hospital for the Insane at Raleigh; State Hospital for the Insane at Goldsboro; Caswell Training School; Negro Normal School at Fayetteville; Negro Normal School at Winston-Salem; State Library Commission; State School for the Blind, at Raleigh.
 These institutions have written in that they will abide by the decision of the Commission although they were disappointed in the appropriations made. They thought that larger appropriations should have been made but since the commission found it necessary to reduce all requests they have decided that they will not ask for more money at this time.

There are a number of State institutions that feel as if they have not been given enough money to carry on their work during the next two years but they will not insist since it is apparent that all of the institutions have been reduced in appropriations on the same basis. Some of the educational institutions have asked for a conference before the commission finally makes its report to the General Assembly. The University is one of this number.
 Fight Over Compensation Act.
 All indications are that there will be a bitter fight over the two workmen's compensation acts as introduced in the Legislature by Senator Delaney of Mecklenburg and Representative Young of Buncombe.
 The Delaney bill is said to have the approval of the State Federation of Labor while the Young bill was laid before the House with the understanding that unionized labor had registered its most vigorous protest. The latter is based on the Virginia act which has been in operation for several months, while the Delaney bill, is framed after the Oklahoma and New York acts, is understood to have been drafted at the request of organized labor.
 Unless both factions can be persuaded to come together it is apparent that neither bill will receive enough votes when they come back from the committee to secure their passage.
