FRENCH ARE STILL PAYING MORE THAN FOUR TIMES THE PRE-WAR PRICES.

PARIS, Mar. 17.—The French price holders are still paying more than four times the pre-war prices for the necessities of life, although there has been a big decline in the cost of living.

The French government has made public figures comparing the living cost in France with those in the United States as given by B. D. H. Jones and Great Britain as given by the Statist. These show that the peak of the cost of living in all three countries was attained in April, 1920. Taking the prices of 1913 as normal, or 100 per cent, the prices of necessities in April last year are given as 577.5 per cent in France; 225.1 in the United States and 313.3 in Great Britain.

According to the national figures these percentages had declined in December last to 444 per cent in France and 243.5 in Great Britain. The figure for the United States in November last was given as 147.9 per cent. The December figures were not given.

Most of the French newspapers find the joy of the reduction in the cost of living tempered by knowledge that it is still more than four times higher than in 1913 and that it is accentuated by much unemployment.

Found a Cure for Indigestion.
"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty-one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to, now," writes George W. Emory, Leek Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no poison but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally.

SPARING THE ROD

"As I came past Jimmelson's house this morning," said the assessor, "I saw him applying a buggy-whip to his fifteen-year-old boy with a zeal worthy a better cause. I think a man should be arrested and punished for such an offense."

MISS ELLA NEELY OF YORK BADLY HURT IN ACCIDENT

Automobile Struck by C. & N. W. Train —Miss Mary Williams Also Hurt in Crash.

YORK, S. C., March 17.—Their automobile struck by the northbound Carolina & Northwestern passenger train at the East Liberty street crossing, where they were on the way to school this morning, and dragged on the locomotive pilot 675 yards to the station, Miss Ella Neely, a teacher in the city schools, was probably fatally injured and Miss Mary Williams, also a teacher, was severely bruised and lacerated about the head and face. Both Miss Neely's legs were broken below the knee and three ribs were broken, one of which punctured the lungs. Though still living at 7 o'clock this evening, no hope is entertained for her recovery.

Five school girls, Frances Williams, daughter of H. T. Williams, and Julia, Ruth, Hazel and Eleanor Flexon, daughter of M. R. Flexon, escaped practically unhurt.

Miss Williams, who was driving the car, evidently did not see the train until within a few rods of the track and was unable to bring it to a stop. She then tried to turn aside but was unable to keep the machine off the rails.

Engineer R. E. Egan, being on the side of the cut-away from the automobile, was unaware of the accident until notified by the shouts and gestures of bystanders. The train was running on regular schedule, reaching York at 8:25 a. m. The railroad authorities immediately sent Dr. R. E. Abell, of Chester, and a nurse to give assistance to those hurt.

Miss Neely is 45 years of age and has been teaching in the city schools about 20 years. She has a mother and two brothers, John A. Neely, of Anderson, and Arthur Neely, of York. Miss Williams is a daughter of L. R. Williams, a former York county judge of probate for many years.

R. F. BEASLEY RESIGNS AS HEAD WELFARE DEPT.

R. F. Beasley, who for the past four years has served the state as commissioner of public welfare, has tendered his resignation, effective at once, and will return to private life. This fact was announced yesterday afternoon upon the adjournment of a called meeting of the state board of charities and public welfare. The meeting, which was attended by the full membership of the board, was held at the home of A. W. McAlister and followed a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. McAlister. The board accepted the resignation with great regret and with warmest expressions of appreciation for his services to the cause and to the state.

No successor was named, but a committee, composed of Wm. A. Blair, chairman of the board, A. W. McAlister, Carey J. Hunter, and Mrs. T. L. Lingle, was appointed to secure a commissioner. Another meeting of the board is to be held in Raleigh in about 10 days, after the committee shall have had time to find a commissioner. In the meantime Carey J. Hunter will be in charge of the work as acting commissioner. It is understood that he already has a good man in mind.

as it was when Cosner double-crossed the Rutledge.

"I believe that every man must be his own judge about the management of his family. Jimmelson strikes me as an excellent citizen, and he should be a successful parent. If he finds it necessary to wear out a buggy-whip on his heir, I have no doubt that the provocation is sufficient. If his policy is wrong he is pretty sure to realize it before long and change his tactics; meanwhile outsiders have no reason to butt in, and the idea of calling the police is perfectly ridiculous.

"My father was an old-fashioned man who believed that an ounce of birch was better than a ton of attention. He kept a small sapling behind the kitchen door and applied it to my person whenever I violated the by-laws governing our happy home. I think he probably carried his theory to extremes; whipping me became a sort of dissipation with him. But I am willing to admit that his treatment did me good, and I can't imagine what would have become of me but for it.

"My mother believed in moral suasion, and used to plead and argue with me, but I can't remember that her tender eloquence ever prevented me from breaking into a melon patch or fishing in forbidden waters. Her method probably would have been successful in many cases. There are boys who are responsive to such appeals, but I was headstrong as a government mule and when I wanted to do something it took more than gentle counsel to head me off.

"I had a profound respect for that sapling behind the door. It always seemed to be quivering with impatience to get at me, and my father regarded it with loving glances. It used to mystify me how he heard of everything I did. There was no such thing as concealing a crime or misdemeanor from him.

"I'd swipe a few apples from a farmer's orchard, for instance, and would be willing to make an affidavit that nobody had seen me. I took all possible precautions against discovery. Yet in the evening, when I got home, my stern parent would meet me at the door and say, 'So you have been robbing Farmer Dofunny's orchard, hey? You are fully aware that robbing orchards does violence to the peace and dignity of the state, and is contrary to the provisions of the revised statutes, come, therefore, and receive the punishment prescribed by Solomon and other law givers.'

"He always explained that it caused him the most poignant sorrow to pour the birch into me, but I couldn't believe in his sincerity, for his eyes sparkled with unseemly joy at such times, and if he had used the same enthusiasm when sawing wood, he'd have whacked up two or three cords in an hour.

"I don't know to this day how he found out everything I did, unless he did some quiet sleuthing with false whiskers and a dark lantern, but he always did discover everything, and when I fully realized that fact I decided to reform and became a model young man. I was so extremely good that my father couldn't dig up an excuse for chastising me, and a settled melancholy fell upon him and he pined away until he died. I'll never forget the reproachful glances he used to cast upon me, as though asking whether I considered my course honorable or generous. I got into the habit of being good, and have never been able to break away from it."

Cooper—Oh, he found he could move faster than three pigs, all right; but not in as many directions.

DOES A HEN STOP SCRATCHING WHEN WORMS ARE SCARCE?

Water Always Finds Its Level Eventually

The laws of Nature are certain and inexorable, and the laws of successful business are just as exact. Reasonable capital, careful buying, restricted credit, good salesmanship—all these are absolutely essential.

But these things are not sufficient. They amount to less than nothing if people do not come into the store. The whole organization is a costly, useless plaything unless you can sell the goods on the shelves.

The more people who enter the store and buy, the cheaper the overhead per dollar of sales and the greater the profit. That is a rule of business. You can't get around it nor sidestep.
