RARE FLOWER WHICH HAS BEEN NAMED
IN HONOR OF FIRST LADY OF THE LAND.

One of the features of the eighth annual flower show held at Grand Central Palace, New York, was a white amaryllis, the only white flower of its species in the United States. It has been named "The Florence Harding," by John Scheepers, its owner, in honor of the First Lady of the Land. The photograph shows Miss Jessie Gilliland and the rare plant.

New York Letter
By Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Mar. 24. — They mix art and politics better in the hands of the Slavs than we do here. At least they mix them more. First there was Paderewski; and now Ivan Nardolny, Russian dancer who has been teaching here in New York, has received an appeal to go immediately to Kronstadt to take charge of the anti-Bolshevist rebellion there. A messenger who left Revel two weeks ago, has just arrived with the appeal. Mr. Nardolny, it seems, is as experienced a rebellion leader as he is a dancer. He was prominent in the rebellion against the Czar in 1905 and issued the first proclamation of the United States of Russia in 1909.

There isn't such a great deal of difference in the activities of boys the world over. Even in a crowded city, they manage to find some spare crannies for the expression of their natural tastes. A great smoothed rock in the north end of Manhattan is testimony to that. A deep groove runs over the rocky formation, as smooth as a mahogany tabletop. An old paper picker in the park says that it has been used by boys for sliding purposes ever since he could remember anything and probably before. He himself used it as a boy and that was in President Grant's time. "It's taken thousands of pairs of pants to wear that rock down as smooth as it is," he reflected.

It has been quite all right to be flip-pant about ears during these past months. No one minded how much enjoyment the cartoonists gathered from their being tucked safely out of sight; just so long as out of sight they were. But now they've become a serious matter. Somebody, known as Fashion, has said, "Ears out!" and out they are coming. Drawn up and away are those knobby, combed waves of hair. And in all their queer lines, ears are beheld once more. The hairdressers having some their worst, the milliners will have to rush to the front and save what they can of beauty from the catastrophic, doleful windows on the Avenue all ready show results of their efforts to help by stalling up the protruding features in new sorts of earrings. Peggy Hoyt, who creates hats as her big part in the serious work of making women beautiful, (or still more serious, making them look beautiful when they just can't even be made so), discloses that her whole early spring days have been given over to the work of envisioning and materializing hats which would make even ears seem attractive. "One cannot just pull a hat completely over them," Miss Hoyt explains. "That is too drastic a solution, and not appealing, anyway. So the new hats must, with their own lines, make what does show of the ears really look pretty. It is difficult, but of course we will do it. We can't let mere ears kill a woman's possibilities."

A Connecticut Yankee in the Court of King Arthur," the Mark Twain story, which has just been produced as a film play, is good evidence of the possibilities for motion picture producers which await them in the classics. This particular one has been subjected to a good many changes, but it has retained its values and its humor.

There is great difference in wives' reactions, Charles Klein has discovered, in his experience as a loganist. His first wife had him arrested; his second had him out; and his third was just about to arrest him again. But he decided that life was too uncertain and he disappeared.

New York (see from gold part) these days, gold is flowing into this country from all points of the compass and it enters by New York Harbor. From Australia, England, Holland, Sweden, and India, have come shipments within the past few days, great boxes of her gold. In two days, New York banking houses received $3,257,000 in gold from Europe and Asia.

Among those who have shown a ready tendency to monkey business in the South American case is "Lucky Red," a Kentucky Tom Collins, a middle-aged showman, who was once a leading pugilist in England, called for Brazil and the Argentine, taking Lucky Red with him to display his prowess as a boxer. He said that he had sent challenges on ahead and has offered prizes for any man who can defeat his long armed pet.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT VISITS WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 25. — Former President Taft, in Washington on personal business, looked in at his old office at the White House today and paid his respects to President Harding. The former president came to the capital to deliver a lecture and said he called on Mr. Harding was merely a visit of courtesy. His appearance provoked speculation about his possible announcement to the supreme court bench, but if that subject was mentioned in his short talk with the president it was not made known.

HARDING KNIGHT TEMPLAR

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 25. — President Harding was tonight by unanimous rising vote elected an honorary member of the South Carolina commandery No. 1, Knights Templar. The local body was instituted in 1780 and is the oldest order of Christian knighthood in the western hemisphere.

Number of divorces granted in the United States is more than twice as great as in all the rest of Christendom combined. — Prof. J. L. Garrison, Boston College.

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their soul's content
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran—
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope
The men who are faint with the strife,
But I turn not away from their smiles
Nor their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead
And mountains of wondrous height;
The road that passes along through the long afternoon
And stretches away to the night,
But I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that mourn,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish, so am I,
Then why should I sit in the sear's seat
Or hurt the eyes of my kind?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

— Sam Walter Foss.

EASTER EGG HUNT AT "MAYWOOD."

Miss May McLenn entertained about twenty of her friends Friday afternoon at an egg hunt given at her home, "Maywood," on the New Hope road. Various games were enjoyed on the lawn after which the children, accompanied by Miss Katharine McLenn, went to the woods near the house where the eggs were hidden. After an exciting hour spent in gathering bright colored eggs from the most unlikely places the guests returned to the house where punch and refreshments were served in the library.

MRS. WILSON'S PAPER.

The following article was read by Mrs. Frank L. Wilson at a recent meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association for the program being Motion Pictures.

An Opportunity to Improve Motion Pictures.

Many Motion Pictures now being exhibited are from real life about young people and children. As a medium of entertainment the Motion Picture has a tremendous hold upon the public. Its influence therefore must be recognized. Unfortunately at present, however, owing to the selfish character of many pictures, this influence is almost wholly in the wrong direction. The public is determined to see Motion Pictures, but the majority do not wish to see vulgar trash. It is therefore necessary for right thinking people to exert every influence possible to turn this most potent form of amusement into proper channels. The National Motion Picture League has undertaken the task of removing the above conditions by a concentrated campaign of education and publicity. Let by proper publicity for good pictures and a campaign of education against the immoral
