AUCTION SALE REALIZED $10,000 FOR FAMINE SUFFERERS.

MANILA, P. I., Mar. 31. — Auction of relics donated by President Hsu Shi-chang of the Chinese Republic brought in more than $10,000 here this week for the relief of famine sufferers in China. The articles were collected from the palace of Hsu's father at Peking and brought to Manila by Mrs. Wallace, wife of Colonel Charles S. Wallace, chief of the signal corps, United States Army, Department of the Philippines.

A royal Bengal tiger skin, six by eleven feet, which President Hsu highly prized and which he took from the floor of the palace to add to the famine relief fund, was included in the collection. It brought $1000.

A poem written by President Hsu, each character endorsed by his wife, was another article that attracted much attention. The poem was written many years ago and had adorned the wall of Hsu Shun-hang's home long before he became head of the republic.

One of the most prized of all the Chinese president's gifts was a four-month-old white and brown puppy, born in the palace at Peking of a strain which has lived in the royal household for many generations. The puppy sold for $500. Many handsome vases, porcelain in vivid colors, ornamental gifts, and other articles were included in the collection.

Among the auctioneers were Major General Francis J. Kernan, commander of the Department of the Philippines and Chou Kwachien, Chinese consul general in Manila.

Preventative Medicine.
The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumococci germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia, when this remedy can be had.

RECIPES

The following are Mrs. D. E. McConall's recipes for some simple, every-day dishes that are as delicious as they are simple:

Sponge Gingerbread (No Eggs).
5 cups flour.
1 heaping tablespoon butter.
1 cup molasses.
1 cup sugar.
1 cup buttermilk.
2 teaspoons soda dissolved in hot water.
2 teaspoons ground ginger.
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon.
Mix molasses, sugar, butter, and spices, warm slightly and beat until foamy lighter in color. Add milk, then soda and flour, mix well and beat thoroughly. Cooks quickly and is delicious. Served with the following hot raisin sauce it makes a delightful molasses pudding.

Raisin Sauce.
1 cup raisins.
2 cups sugar.
2 cup water. Place on stove and stir mixture until it boils. Serve hot.

Inexpensive Cheese Straws.
For every cup of flour used add 1 level teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1 tablespoon lard. Use cheese to taste, about 1/4 cupful to 1 cup flour. Either grate cheese or grind in a food chopper. Mix with ice water to a stiff dough. Cut in the shape of straws or thin biscuits.

An appetizing way to use left over creamed potatoes is to shape them into patties, brown either in the oven or in an iron pan on top of the stove. When brown place a Vienna sausage on each patty and place in the oven until the sausage is hot and brown.

MILK AND EGGS.

Raleigh News and Observer.
The Winston-Salem test, where investigation of the school children demonstrated that those who drink milk are in better health than those who do not, ought to be sufficient stimulus to all North Carolina to provide for the children a greater quantity of milk and kindred foods. Now when cotton and other farm products are off so in price that they are not profitable to the farm it is a good time to seriously study those other farm products that have to do with the family living. Nothing goes further and costs less on the farm than eggs; with the household well provided with substantial food of this type the magnitude of the money crop is not so important.

The truth is that North Carolina has made a needless fetish of a money crop and has slaved to produce it in order to have money to buy those things that should be made on the farm for home use, but which are not made because the money crop is given all the attention. That expression, "money crop," is unknown in some of the most thrifty farming sections of the North, and the main ambition of the farmer is to make substantial food for himself and his farm animals, and from the farm stock find much of his living.

In making the money crop we in North Carolina forget the things the farm should make in greater abundance, and it is not only money that is lost by such a mistaken procedure, but health and comfort as well. Money is sought to buy the things the farm should raise, and as a money crop does not bring money enough to buy all the things needed many that should be on every farm are not there. In the small towns the same condition prevails, for the farmer who does not make eggs and milk and honey and fruit and similar food supplies for himself does not make them to sell in the towns, and there he cuts himself off from a source of money that is as good as cotton and tobacco. In making home supplies we should not make them only for the farm home, but for the town home, and every other home in the State, and the minute we do that North Carolina will be far better off, the farmer will have money crops he does not now dream of, and he will be far more prosperous and his farm less dependent on commercial fertilizer and high costs of everything he buys. The milk question is more than simply the benefit that comes from its use on the farm or town table. It is one of the leads that means farm success and State prosperity.

Cash and Carry

There were two rather peculiar advertisements appearing in The Gazette last week. The first one was a Soap Agent advising the people not to soil their clothes, and the other one was the 3-In-One grocery store. There is no other way that has ever been thought of by man that is better than the Cash and Carry plan.
