

WOMEN OF THE COUNTY WANT A CURB MARKET

(Correspondence of The Daily Gazette.) OLNEY, Feb. 25. — On next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock Rev. R. C. Long will preach for us. Sunday school meets at two o'clock.

Rev. T. G. Tate and wife and child are expected to arrive next week. It is expected to have them reside in a rented house until the manse is completed.

The contract has been let for the building of the manse, and it is expected to have it finished and ready for occupancy in the very shortest time possible.

On next Wednesday the Womens Auxiliary will hold a meeting at the church at three o'clock. Mrs. Raymond C. Robinson will be the hostess at this meeting and she wishes to invite every lady in the church to be her guest at the social hour and also attend the meeting.

She wishes to remind the ladies to clean out their closets and bring a new bundle of clothing to be shipped for Near East Relief.

On Wednesday February 22, Mr. William Finley Bradley was laid to rest in Olney cemetery.

Mrs. H. C. Huffstetter and Mrs. C. P. Robinson, Gold Star War Mother and War Mother, attended the Washington tea, Tuesday afternoon.

A few weeks ago I tried to tell a little something of a "public market" to be conducted in Gastonia, where the farmers and farmers' wives might sell their products direct to the consumer.

Since then a number of the ladies in our part of the county have asked me to push it along. Personally, I feel sure it is a splendid thing. But I would like to hear what some of the town ladies think of it.

Now if any one is interested let us hear from them, and if the people in town would like it will they please just tell us so.

In a communication received by Mrs. C. P. Robinson from Miss Attie Hostick who left to take up her work in China, January 6th, she says: "We expect to reach Japan January 30th, and expect to be in Shanghai, February 4th. Then will begin the long journey up in the interior to Tai an Fri where she is engaged in missionary work."

She writes interestingly of her stop in Honolulu, says it was almost like seeing fairy land. The grass so green and luxuriant and great hedges of poinsettias, hibiscus and plumbago, etc., in full bloom out doors, and bananas, pineapples, pineapples, and coconuts. She also spoke of the fish being so very beautiful. But she saw over one hundred different kinds, with every hue of the rainbow, mingled with beautiful pastelle like colors.

With Miss Hostick is a young lady from Georgia, going over to China to do school work. (Baptist.)

Miss Hostick made the trip on the S. S. "Golden State."

Harassing Wheat Pests. Plant pests cause the loss of millions of bushels of wheat in the United States, and if all the wheat now destroyed annually by these pests could be saved and made into flour the United States Department of Agriculture says it would add approximately 20,468,700 barrels to the yearly output of the nation.

The annual production of wheat in this country for the four-year period 1916 to 1919, inclusive, was 783,849,500 bushels. The annual loss from disease during this period was 147,318,000 bushels. While it is not possible entirely to eliminate wheat disease, it is possible to much reduce the toll. One branch of investigation in the bureau of plant industry is to work out the preventive measures for the diseases of all cereal crops.

THE COTTAGE GARDENER

STARTING PLANTS FOR GARDEN—SOWING SEED

POT-GROWN TOMATOES USE HOT WATER TO KILL GERMS

Sturdy Plants Assure the Grower an Early Crop.

Indoor Product, Carefully Transplanted to Different Sized Boxes, Profitable to Gardeners. The majority of home gardeners have a lobby on some sort of vegetable or on some certain kind of flowers. Tomatoes, being easy to grow, find popular favor with the small garden man.

The Ideal Pot-Grown Plant.

There are some families that prefer the medium-sized, smooth tomato, while others desire the largest that can be grown. The larger tomato is suitable for slicing, but the housewife complains that it is usually too large for canning, so the medium-sized tomato seems to be more in the limelight.

In either instance, a strong, healthy plant is necessary if the best results and early fruit are desired.

TEST THE SEEDS YOU SAVED

Use Small Box in Basement Window to Try Out Corn or Other Seed to See if Good.

Experienced agriculturists take no chances on corn and other seed if there is any doubt as to whether or not it will germinate. It is just as important to the small gardener to know that he has good seed. The best way to determine this is to plant small quantities of the various varieties of seed that have been saved.

CLEAN UP ASPARAGUS BEDS

If you want to get best results from the asparagus bed, clean off the dead vegetation and trash from the bed before the new shoots begin to grow.

BRITISH PEERS SELL ESTATES

Claim Action Is Forced Upon Them by Taxation and Death Duties.

MUST SEEK SMALLER HOMES

One Big Landed Proprietor After Another is Dividing and Selling His Holdings—in Same Families for Many Centuries.

London.—England's great estates are crumbling under the weight of taxation and death duties and one big landed proprietor after another among the nobility is dividing and selling his holdings, many of which have been in the hands of single families for centuries.

The latest indication that peers are finding it necessary to seek smaller homes comes in the announcement of the duke of Portland that he may have to abandon his palatial mansion, Welbeck Abbey, in Nottinghamshire. This is only one of the residences of the duke, who owns some 200,000 acres in England.

Duke Expresses Fears. "For centuries past landed estates have been handed down from generation to generation," said the duke, addressing his tenants on the occasion of the coming of age of his son Lord Francis Cavendish.

"Landlords and tenants have lived on terms of mutual trust and affection. I fear, however, that the state of things is passing away, for with the present weight of taxation and the extremely onerous death duties, the future may become very uncertain for all landed proprietors. If this is good for the country, I certainly do not complain. With regard to my own case, it may not be possible for me and my family to continue to reside at Welbeck, but I fear that there can be little doubt that those who come after me will not be able to do so."

Many Connections Severed. On all sides historic houses are finding new tenants and ancient families are severing their connection with the soil. The duke of Devonshire sold Devonshire house in 1919 and Stowe house, the property of Baroness Kinloss, was disposed of recently.

Others who have sold their properties recently include the duke of Bedford, the duke of Westminster, the duke of Rutland, the duke of Grafton, the duke of Marlborough, Lord Leconfield, Lord Beauchamp, Earl Bradford, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Lovat, Lord Harrington, Lord Harlech, the countess of Warwick and Sir Richard Bulkeley.

Runnymede, a meadow on the bank of the Thames river, in Surrey, site of the historic battle where the barons wrested from King John the Magna Charta in 1215, was up for sale but aroused sentiment compelled its withdrawal. Attacking the government in the debate on the corn production acts repeal bill, Lord Lincolnshire in the house of lords declared the present ministry was preparing to sell 'the crown lands and said nothing remained but "to pawn the crown jewels."

NOW FILM SURGICAL WORK

German Schools Find Teaching of Medicine by Movies Excels Former Methods.

Berlin.—An invention by which detailed, enlarged moving pictures of intricate surgical operations are taken without interfering with the operating physicians and without the presence of a camera operator has been perfected by Dr. A. Rothe of Berlin, and now is being used in a number of German medical universities, for the benefit of students. It is claimed that the students obtain better instruction from a study of the movie picture of the operation than from witnessing the operation itself.

The "operation camera" is designed to hang directly above the operating physician's hands. The cinematographical lamps are in a room above, separated from the operating room by a glass roof. After the machine has been placed in position an operating physician or a nurse can start it by pressing an electrical foot device, which is all the attention necessary on the part of the doctor or the attendants.

Three-Year-Old Girl Walks Up Pike's Peak

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Miss Helen M. Riordan, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Riordan of New York city, holds the world's record for the ascent on foot of Pike's Peak. She and her mother walked up to the burro stand, where they stayed all night. Early next morning they started afoot on the last lap of the ascent, where all the difficult climbing comes in, because of the altitude and cold and winds. The child walked the entire distance unaided.
