Whiskey Car Takes A Fright At Fox-Hunters

Thirty-Five Gallons of Whiskey and Ten of Brandy Are Thrown Away. (Cleveland Star.) The sight of fox hunters in upper Cleveland a few nights ago frightened the occupants of a whiskey car so that they turned out into a field where the car rolled down in wet ground and caused the run runners to destroy their cargo which amounted to thirty-five gallons of South Mountain liquor and ten gallons of brandy, according to a reliable citizen of near Casar who was in Shelby this week. Fox hunters from Casar and Knob Creek had gathered for a chase, but a rain kept them in wait until late at night. While in wait, a mysterious car came down the road. The occupants of the mysterious car seeing the fox hunters and possibly thinking they were officers, turned out of the road into soft ground, where the car rolled until the engine was stalled. The fox hunters went to the rescue, but the run runners, said to be from South Carolina, had broken their donkeyjokes and destroyed their valuable cargo. Deputy Morrison of No. 19 was sent for but the three white men in the whiskey car had proceeded on their way greatly disappointed over their loss.

Plenty of Experience.

A victim of chronic bronchitis called on a well-known physician to be examined. The doctor, after careful questioning, assured the patient that the ailment would respond readily to treatment. "I suppose you must have had a great deal of experience with this disease," said the sufferer. The physician smiled wisely and replied: "Why, my dear sir, I've had bronchitis myself for more than five years."

NEW WIRELESS STATION AT N. C. STATE COLLEGE

Station WLAC, the new wireless transmitting station at State College, will be formally opened Monday evening, October 16, Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, Governor Cameron Morrison, Josephus Daniels, Frank Page, Dr. W. C. Riddick and other distinguished speakers being on the program for addresses. The exercises will begin at eight o'clock and due to the limited amount of space available admission will be by card only. The radio station is under the direction of Captain George C. Cox, formerly of the Signal Corps, A. E. F., but now connected with the department of Electrical Engineering of the College, under whose supervision the station has been built and assembled by students in the electrical engineering courses. Early in the spring Captain Cox and his assistants installed transmitting equipment at the station for the special purpose of broadcasting the series of sermons delivered by Dr. George Truitt in the city auditorium. Only a partial success, however, was achieved as the home made equipment was unable to stand the high voltages necessary in sending long distances, although a number of people near Raleigh heard the sermons distinctly. During the summer the station has been entirely rebuilt and greatly improved by the addition of some of the more recently developed devices. For the last month the station has been testing out and cards received from various parts of the country indicate that it is now covering, at night, a radius of about one thousand miles with the probability that the distance will be doubled or even trebled. The State College wireless station has been built primarily to serve the people of North Carolina. On a definite schedule to be announced later, it will broadcast daily (1) agricultural stock and market reports, (2) various other agricultural statistics, (3) agricultural news items of interest, (4) State and Federal weather reports for North and South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee, (5) general news items from the press, and (6) State College news including full reports of all athletic contests. Three nights each week there will be musical programs by the State College band or the Glee Clubs of Peace, Meredith and St. Marys. Local artists and distinguished entertainers visiting the city will also use the station for broadcasting their programs. Once a month the North Carolina Bankers' Association will send out special lectures on banking and elementary economics, and members of the State College faculty, from time to time, will address the people of the State on timely subjects. Station WLAC will transmit on a wave length of 500 meters. The program for the exercises at the formal opening follows: "The Influence of the State Fair on the Agricultural and Industrial Development of North Carolina"—Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt. "Greetings to the People of North Carolina from their Governor"—Governor Cameron Morrison. "International Applications of the Radiophone"—Josephus Daniels. "Radio in the Development of North Carolina's Highway System"—Frank Page. "Educational Advantages Furnished by Wireless"—Dr. E. C. Brooks. "The Radiophone and the Farm"—Dr. B. W. Kilgore. "Use of the Radiophone in the Propagation of Christianity"—Rev. Henry G. Lane. "A New Connecting Link Between the State and Its Capital"—Mayor T. B. Eldridge. "The Value of the Radiophone to the College"—Dr. W. C. Riddick. Concert from the Westinghouse Station at Pittsburgh.

Abbeville Citizen Has Strange Healing Power

Joe Munday Says Strange Power Has Been Handed Down in His Family For Generations. ABBEVILLE, S. C., Oct. 16.—Abbeville has a man who claims to be possessed of a strange healing power. His name is Joe Munday and he lives near Buzzard Roost church on the Abbeville Hodge road. He is a middle-aged square-set fellow with a face as full of freckles as a turkey egg is full of spots. He is of ordinary education and attainment but believes absolutely in himself and in his power to heal. He says this power has been in his family for generations and is handed down from mother to son and from father to daughter. That a man can teach a woman to heal but not a man, and a woman can teach a man but not another woman. The power is passed down through the sexes in this cross-wise way. The Munday's live at the old home-stand. One brother, Rik Munday, has lived there for 55 years and has never been away longer than two weeks during this time. Joe Munday believes firmly that he has the power to heal and that this power is God given. He says he can cure any kind of skin affection or disease like eczema or psoriasis, or any hemorrhage or bleeding. He cures various causes and marvelous cures he has made. He makes no charge for the treatment and claims that his power would be taken from him if he accepted pay. His power is a secret and he will not reveal it. All that is necessary for you to do to be healed, he says, is to tell him your name and he will look into your eyes, and presto, you are well. There are words he uses in his mind, but that belongs to the secret. Joe Munday's family believe him possessed of this strange power. Recently one of the children while playing near the house cut a toe nearly off, and the story goes that a playmate ran in haste for the mother, who kept on with her work saying Joe was there and he would heal it. They claim he did. He also tells a story of being able to heal animals as well as people. A mule while plowing in a field stepped on a broken bottle and cut a gash in his foot causing great loss of blood. The healer was sent for. He approached the mule and looked into his eyes and the bleed- ing stopped instantly.

What Are You Missing?

NO one can want anything until he knows of its existence. That is why ancient folk managed to live fairly contented lives without window glass, soap, automobiles, stoves, toothbrushes, telephones and so many of the things we consider the bare necessities of life.

Advertising has done more than any one thing to make this era of ours so rich in comforts and conveniences. To advertising is directly due much of the multiplication of products and services which are now at the disposal of every one.

There is no denying the fact that advertising has ironed out the mechanics of existence. It has made life easier and more pleasant by bringing to our attention countless necessities which years ago a king's ransom could not have bought.

Folks dress better, eat better, sleep better and live better because of advertising.

You owe much to advertising—and you miss much when you fail to read it.
