

LANDERS CHAPEL NEWS

(Correspondence of The Daily Gazette)

LINCOLN, Nov. 8.—The farmers of this section are about through with their fall work. Sweet potato digging seems to be the order of the day at present and a good crop is being made by almost everybody.

Misses Lula and Velma Carpenter spent Saturday night with Miss Audrey Kiser.

Mr. Walter Reynolds and family spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Morris Alexander.

Mrs. Mary Tritt who has been right sick is slowly improving.

The Landers Chapel Epworth League will hold its next meeting Sunday night, November 12. Bethel Sunday League held its meeting last Sunday night and a very interesting program was rendered.

Mrs. Oscar Carpenter and children spent a few days the past week with her sister at Malden.

The young people of this section enjoyed a social Saturday night given by Miss Audrey Kiser at her home on the Crouse road.

Misses M. A. Carpenter and Clay Kiser made a business trip to Lincoln Wednesday.

There will be a box supper at the Tryon High school building Saturday night, November 11th, the proceeds will go for the benefit of the school. Everybody invited.

Mrs. Ida Carpenter and Miss Julia Carpenter spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Mary Tritt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Alexander and children spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Lynch.

Mrs. J. O. Allen spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Mary Tritt, who has been right sick but is better now.

LOWELL LOCALS

LOWELL, Nov. 10.—The Woman's Club of Lowell is to give a reception Thursday, November 16, 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Gail Robinson, all Lowell club members are expected to attend and there will be many visitors from clubs in other towns invited.

Many Lowell women are busy today, preparing baskets for the Gastonia Armistice Day luncheon.

Mrs. J. K. Hand and her small son, Frank Robinson, from Charlotte, are spending a few days in town visiting around, among their relatives.

Mrs. Dr. Robinson is on a trip to Albermarle, N. C.

Miss Mary Ragan of Gastonia, spent Wednesday night in Lowell, with Miss Edith Robinson.

Messrs. John M. Gaston and Ralph Groves, attended the American Legion banquet at Belmont, Thursday evening. Mr. Groves went to help entertain the crowd with his violin.

The school will have a float in the Armistice Day parade, but we can't tell what that float is to be, something good—something that will suit the Gazette.

The jitney that runs from Crumerton to Gastonia through Lowell, is flying a number of flags and is a general reminder to all along the way of Armistice Day.

MCADENVILLE MATTERS

MCADENVILLE, Nov. 10.—Everything is going on at McAdenville nicely and smoothly. The election came off and McAdenville went Democratic from bottom to top.

Several new members were admitted and during the social hour hot coffee and sandwiches were served.

DALLAS EXTENDS A WELCOME TO REV. AND MRS. E. S. RAPER

Mrs. C. C. Cornwell, Mrs. Clara W. Geer, Misses Kathleen Cooley, and Bunnah Jones accompanied Rev. E. S. Raper to Gastonia Thursday afternoon to meet Mrs. Raper who arrived from Concord, where she visited friends since leaving Charlotte pending the moving to her new home in Dallas where Rev. Mr. Raper is pastor of the Methodist church for the ensuing year.

The parsonage was made ready by the ladies of the church and a generous pounding from the members supplied the pantry well with fancy and staple groceries.

Mr. Raper, in his initial sermons Sunday, greatly pleased the large congregations that practically filled the church at the morning and evening services.

November 6 and 7 are birthday anniversaries of two faithful members for a long time of the Methodist church, Miss Margaret and Miss Dorcus Gaston, who, upon their recent birthdays of this month were the recipients of a very unique present, when their pastor, Rev. J. O. Ervin, called at their home Monday night for a little farewell visit, taking with him two very large sticks of peppermint candy at least fourteen inches long and one inch in diameter, and, after an humorous little speech, presented each with one. This was the first time in their lives of many birthdays they had ever received a present which accounts, perhaps, for their refusal to divide with their friends and guest for the night, Mrs. Sarah Rhyne. Altogether a very delightful evening was spent, concluding with family prayer.

AT THE THEATRES

LAVISH SCENES IN

Cecil B. De Mille's Production "MANSLAUGHTER"

"The most lavish scene since 'Joan the Woman!'"

That's what is said of the Roman bacchanal recently staged by Cecil B. De Mille for his latest Paramount production of "Manslaughter."

Several years ago the same producer gave to the screen his classic tale of the Maid of Orleans. At that time thousands of "extras" clad in the picturesque costumes of the period, were to be seen daily around the studio and on the massive sets created for that picture.

Since that date there have been many huge scenes filmed at the West Coast home of Paramount Pictures. Hundreds and even thousands of people have worked simultaneously before the cameras. But it remained for Cecil B. De Mille to again set a new mark for sheer, spectacular splendor. And he did it with the Roman scenes in "Manslaughter."

The episode, which is used to point a powerful moral, shows Rome just before the fall—pagan Rome with all of its licentiousness and debauched beauty. At the height of the revels while the guests, the dancers and the guards slumber in drunken stupor—the barbarian hordes storm the gates and pillage, burn and destroy everything in their path.

Leatrice Joy in the role of the patrician hostess of this bacchanal and Thomas Meighan as the leader of the barbarians have the principal roles in this as with Lois Wilson, they have in the major portion of the actual story of "Manslaughter."

Credit for the stately settings goes to Paul Irlbe, art director for Cecil B. De Mille productions, who also contributed to the designing of the hundreds of colorful costumes. An elaborate ballet trained by Theodore Kosloff especially for this occasion figured prominently in the action of this portion of the picture.

Jeanie Macpherson, who adapted Alice Duer Miller's story for the screen many weeks in research work preparing for the actual filming of these scenes. Several famous paintings including the "Thumbs Down" painting depicting the end of a gladiatorial combat were literally reproduced by the producer and scenarist. "Manslaughter," which is Cecil B. De Mille's most masterful and lavish creation is the Gastonia's attraction next week, Monday and Tuesday.

The Ideal offers "The Timber Queen," "The Avenger," western, Larry Semon, in "The Agent," comedy and "Aesop's Fables," Saturday, Monday, "Buffalo Bill," "The Better Man Wins," western and "Spiking The Spooks," comedy.
