A MAN AND HIS BANK

"A business man is known just as he is known at his bank. And he is known at his bank by the way in which he keeps his monetary affairs.

This, in turn, places an obligation upon the bank itself—that of cheerful and helpful service offered freely at all times to the responsible customer.

And that is the attitude this bank takes—to help the ambitious business man in the safe conduct of his business affairs. Call and ask us to explain this more in detail. It will involve no obligation on your part whatsoever. We have a distinct banking service to offer, and want to tell you face to face just what it is.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN DEAD AT HOME IN CITY

Dr. Henry H. Dodson Passes. Was Widely Known As X-ray Specialist.

HOLD FUNERAL SUNDAY

Dr. H. H. Dodson, one of Greensboro's outstanding citizens and physicians, died yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock at his residence, 911 Olive street, after a period of declining health. He was 71 years of age and was widely known in Greensboro, both as a skilled physician and as a steady and untiring church worker. He having been senior warden of Holy Trinity Episcopal church for many years. News of his death caused genuine regret in many parts of the city where Dr. Dodson was known and loved because of his great kindness of character.

Dr. Henry H. Dodson was born at Milton, this state, February 20, 1855, the son of Dr. Thomas R. Dodson, well known practitioner of that place. He attended Hampden-Sidney college, in Virginia, and later received his degree from the Medical College of Virginia, where he was an honor student. He returned to Milton following his graduation and took up the practice of medicine, and in 1883 was married to Miss Annie Barrett, of Wyethville, Va., who died more than 20 years ago.

Coming to Greensboro in 1905, Dr. Dodson decided to relinquish the general practice of medicine and to devote his time and attention to X-ray work. In this line he was acknowledged to be one of the foremost specialists in North Carolina. He was a member of the state medical society, a charter member of the Tri-State Medical society, and for three years he had served on the state board of health. He was further honored when for six years he was a valued member of the North Carolina board of medical examiners.

Dr. Dodson was a quiet sort of man who went about doing good. Upon coming to Greensboro he affiliated with Holy Trinity Episcopal church and was one of its most dependable and unselfish workers. For many years he had been its senior warden. But two members of his immediate family survive, they being a daughter, Mrs. Charles Saville, of Lexington, Va., and a sister, Miss Mary Dodson, who made her home with the doctor.

Because of the funeral of Dr. Dodson to be held from Holy Trinity church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by the rector, Rev. J. Harding Hughes, there will be no regular morning service at 11 o'clock. There will be the regular 7:30 o'clock communion service, however. It is a memorial to his devoted service to his parish as lay reader and vestryman that the regular morning service is supplanted by the funeral service at 10 o'clock. The service will enable friends to go to Milton, where the interment will take place, and return the same day. There will be the regular Sunday school, except for the men's Bible class and the senior class for girls. The full vested choir of Holy Trinity will take part in the funeral service.

Members of the vestry of the church will act as active pallbearers, while members of the Guilford Medical society will serve in an honorary capacity.—Greensboro Daily News, October 23, 1926.

Dr. Dodson Buried in Milton Cemetery

Following the funeral services of Dr. H. H. Dodson from Holy Trinity church in Greensboro, the body was brought through the country to Milton, his old home, last Sunday, arriving shortly before two o'clock. It was placed in the Episcopal church, the church that he and his wife had been instrumental in building. Many came to view the body, among them a number of colored people who remembered him for his kindness to them. The body was taken from the church to the cemetery where the final rites were held at the grave, conducted by Rev. Harding Hughes, assisted by Rev. N. R. Claytor, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Dr. Wade R. Brown led in the singing of the hymn, "Nearer My God To Thee." A large number of people attended the services at the cemetery showing the high esteem in which Dr. Dodson was held. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Accompanying the body to Milton were the active pallbearers, E. B. Jeffress, H. J. Thurman, Ralph Colt, J. C. Hedgpeh, A. R. Perkins, and Paul Schenck. Among relatives and friends were, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saville, Misses Mamie and Molly Dodson, Rebecca Schenck, Mary Ramseur, Florence Hunt, Mrs. Lucy Witherspoon, Mrs. George Cunningham, Dr. and Mrs. Hudson, and John Barrett.

Dr. Dodson, who was generally called "Dr. Henry," is well remembered in and around Milton by those who revered him as a most kindly and untiring worker as well as a physician of ability. At one time he was a partner of the Lewis Walker Drug Company. He was an active member of the Episcopal church, which structure here stands as a memorial to his and his wife's unselfish labors.

STRESS EIGHT POINTS IN BETTER FARMING

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 27.—Critical situations like the present in cotton growing territory will not be remedied by reduction of cotton acreage alone but other better farming methods must be conducted to meet the situation. "North Carolina has increased the acreage to cotton to some extent but not so largely as have other sections," says Dean I. O. Schaub of North Carolina State College. "Our state is still one of the most diversified farming sections of the United States. To continue this idea of balanced farming is one of the most important jobs before the farmers and agricultural workers of North Carolina at this time."

To assist in this movement, Dean Schaub has outlined eight important points which will govern the activities of extension workers during the coming year. These, briefly, are:

1. Each farmer should grow sufficient grain and roughage to supply the needs of his livestock and work animals.
 2. An all-year-round garden is needed on each farm to supply the needs of the family with a surplus to market.
 3. There should be at least 50 laying hens to supply the family needs with a surplus of both poultry and eggs for market.
 4. At least one family cow should be on every farm and more where feeds are available. The surplus milk and butter or cream may be sold on the market.
 5. Produce sufficient pork for family needs and where there is surplus corn, the supply of hogs should be increased for market purposes.
 6. Plant cotton only on the best cotton lands and restrict the acreage to those lands which will produce at least one-half bale per acre.
 7. Have at least two so-called money crops on each farm.
 8. Begin a definite rotation of crops in which legumes are included to improve the fertility of the soil.
- If these eight points are adopted by the cotton farmers of North Carolina, states Dean Schaub, the cotton acreage will automatically be decreased and there will be less distress cotton.

Farmers of Stanly county believe that one way to reduce the cost of producing cotton is to use better seed and they are saving the best seed from their pure-bred strains for planting next spring.

One brood sow and two litters of pigs per year cost little but will aid much in providing a plentiful supply of meat on the home farm.

It is a crime against childhood not to have a family cow on the farm.

TO THE VOTERS OF CASWELL COUNTY

We are nominees of the Republican Party in Caswell County for the offices of State Senator from the Sixteenth Senatorial District of North Carolina, and member of the House of Representatives, in the next General Assembly of North Carolina, respectively.

We favor a State School System supported by a tax rate which will be applied equally in all Counties of the State.

We favor the election of the County Boards of Education, by a direct vote of the people.

We favor the genuine Australian Ballot to be used in all elections, which will guarantee to every one the right to vote for his or her choice of candidates for office, regardless of political affiliation, and thereby encourage independence in voting.

We favor repealing Representative Neal's Dog Law, which was enacted at the last session of the General Assembly, and which has been disgracefully nullified in our County.

We stand for strict enforcement of all laws upon our statute books, both State and National.

We are opposed to the issuance of State Bonds to secure money to be used in building ports and terminals on the North Carolina Coast, which issue was adversely decided by a large majority of the voters at the last general election, but which issue seems destined to be revived at the next session of the General Assembly.

Upon these issues we invite your suffrage. If you feel inclined to support us, we shall appreciate your good will and votes. If your minds lead you to vote for our opponents, we still hope to maintain your personal friendship and confidence.

REDUCING AT THE WRONG PLACE

The following news was sent out from Raleigh Monday morning: "Reduction of state taxes—income, franchises, license, and other varieties—is likely to be a big issue at the session of the North Carolina general assembly in the winter of 1927. This is in view of the fact that the tax paying power of the state has obviously been underrated for the present biennium by the governor and his advisors of the budget bureau."

Income, franchise, license, and other varieties, but not a word about the farmer, who, of all people, should be considered. Oh, we know many will say at once, why, the state collects no tax from the farmer. Yes, but it does. The state says you shall maintain a six months school term, and the farmer pays more than his just part of this tax. Certainly, the county levies the tax, and the county sheriff collects the tax, but the state says they shall do it, and if the county fails to do it, then said county fails to participate in the equalization—which does not equalize—fund which is distributed to the counties, so-called pauper counties. Person levies a school tax as per the mandate of the state, and that tax is more than all of the other taxes, including roads, and yet, they stand up and say the state collects no tax from the farmer.

Many people, honest people, have really thought the state did not collect any tax from lands, etc., and some of the politicians get red in the face and bless you out when you tell them better. When the state segregated the taxes and took over corporation and franchise, and inheritance, and incomes, etc., they left for the county only the land to meet all of the burden of schools, roads, bridges, county homes, and all general expenses of the county. It was just about like the case where the farmer owned the cow and calf, and the sheriff came along to collect the taxes due by the farmer. He said he would only take the cow and leave the calf to provide milk and butter for the farmer's family. The state took the cow and left the calf for each county to get its revenue.

If the state has money to burn under the wise administration of the present governor, and undoubtedly there will be a large surplus, why not let the fellow who is fortunate enough to have an income large enough to be taxed continue to pay this tax, and let the state take off part of the burden of schools, thus enabling the counties to lower its rate for this purpose. But no, this will not be done, because there will be too many members of the general assembly who pay an income tax.

The farmer has been the goat for many years; he has not been able to break even on his farm for several years, and unless all signs fail he will have the same result with this crop, but he will get just the same treatment he has in the past, and that is, PROMISES. Oh, if he could live on political promises, how rich he would be, but promises, like pie crust, is easily broken.
