NOTES AND PERSONALS

Mrs. Howard Allen, of Roxboro, has been in the hospital at Durham, but returned to her home on Wednesday of last week, much improved.

As the news items are being mailed to the press, word comes that Capt. Billie Griffin Graves, aged 81, died at his home on last Monday and is to be buried at Yanceyville from the Baptist church on Tuesday. The Messenger hopes to receive an account of Capt. Graves' life, sickness and death for publication.

T. J. Moore, of Milton, has sold 16 acres of land, lying between Milton and Yanceyville, to C. W. Moses and J. H. West of Danville, on which these gentlemen expect to build, live and run a chicken farm. Caswell welcomes these men and their families.

WHAT IS A CONDENSERY? UNLIMITED MILK MARKET

It Will Mean a Lot to Caswell If Mebane Gets a Condensery.

The great need of the southern farmer today is a supplementary crop or produce that will bring him a monthly income. In this section this can best be accomplished through the cow.

The old crop practice is a failure. Soil fertility is primary—the insurance of soil productiveness is the cow. The products of cows almost guarantee life and prosperity. The demand for such food is constant and continuous, not governed by seasons or economic cycles.

Cows will provide a steady monthly income, provided we have a market for milk. Can we have a big market in this section of North Carolina? The answer is YES, provided there is sufficient supply of milk to insure the location of a condensery.

What is a condensery? A large majority of consumers buy their milk in a condensed form, which is packed in small tin cans. A condensery takes the raw milk from the farms and condensers, refines and packs it into these cans. It takes expensive equipment to do this work, requiring an investment in plant and equipment of at least $250,000.00. Milk routes are established to all sections, therefore, it saves you the trouble of hauling your milk to market. You receive your pay checks at regular intervals.

Eighteen months ago there was not a condensery in the entire south; all of them were located in the north, west and Canada. The first condensery was located at Starkville, Miss. We quote from newspaper article appearing in the Commercial Appeal September 15th, 1927. "Checks mailed out today to the amount of $150,000, to patrons of the creamery and condensery. Men and women are returning borrowed money, cancelling notes, lifting mortgages, and placing on deposit part of their milk earnings." "It is indeed a land of milk and honey that the cow built."

Murfreesboro, Tenn., where the second condensery was established, a few months ago, has even a better record. It is estimated that $2,000,000 will be paid out for milk in 1927.

There are now four condenseries in operation in the south and five others being built, all located in Tennessee, Mississippi, and Kentucky. Do the farmers in this section want one of these condenseries? You now have a good market for your milk, but it is a limited market. A condensery means an unlimited market.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS GOOD, DECLARES COX

(From News and Observer)

High Point, Nov. 1.—Business conditions throughout the country are very good and getting better each month, according to J. Elwood Cox, president of the Commercial National Bank, this city, and newly elected member of the National Executive Council of Bankers. Mr. Cox, who travels extensively and is recognized as one of the leading bankers in North Carolina, said general business conditions are not only good but are especially good in some parts of the country.

The South is not suffering this year, he said, and from all indications, business throughout the South at this time is better than it has been for some time during the past. The cotton belt section of the South has been blessed with an exceptionally good season in which to harvest the crop, and, although the production this year was not as large as during some years past, the price has been very good and cotton farmers are enjoying a profitable year.
