

THE TAR HEEL.

VOL. II.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FEBRUARY 16, 1894.

NO. 15.

A GENEROUS GIFT FROM C. G. WRIGHT.

The manager of the base-ball team has received a check for $25 from Clem. G. Wright of Greensboro, one of our prominent young alumni. He has been instructed to draw on Mr. Wright for $25 more in March. This generous contribution of $50 puts the management in heart again. Practicing the most rigid economy this season promises to be an expensive one and a critical one in the history of athletics at U. N. C.

We have the finest material for a team that we ever had and the best list of dates for games. The season should be a brilliant and successful one, but we can do nothing unless properly supported at home. We must have a trainer and balls and bats and gloves. Mr. Wright's example ought to inspire some of our other alumni, old or young to come to our aid. Similar contributions from a few of the University's friends would put us beyond the fear of failure.

It shows but little love for the Alma Mater and pride in holding high the White and Blue to refuse aid and then to find fault and jeer and scoff because, unaided and unsupported, the Varsity's teams have been unable to wrest victory from stronger colleges.

Let students, faculty and alumni all come forward now and put the team on the best possible footing for the sharp contest before it.

THE GLEE CLUB.

The Glee Club left the Hill on Monday the 5th and returned on Friday the 9th, visiting on their annual winter trip the cities of Greensboro, Salisbury, Charlotte and Winston. The trip was on the whole a most enjoyable one. It was unfortunate that the time selected should have been in Lent and that in each of the cities visited there had been several entertainments on the nights previous; so the club did not have the pleasure of singing to full houses and we notice that the greater part of them walked from the station to the University.

Another unfortunate thing in its coming in Lent was the lack of the receptions that are usually given, although some of the fellows had a very pleasant time at a german in Salisbury given to the club, led by Mr. McKenzie and Miss Noble, of Philadelphia.

The concerts given were very much superior to the one given here. There was more blending and working together and no one seemed to forget his words.

Every one seemed to enjoy the warbling of Mangum, and Lindsay's acrobatic feat always won great applause. But "Mac" gained the greatest praise, being encored many times wherever he sang. He had added "The Laughing Song" to the number given at Chapel Hill, which always took well.

Prof. Harrington went with the club and after one or two of the songs in Salisbury, where the club began to do its best work, he was almost unable to contain himself and was found dancing up and down behind the scenery. He says that he thinks this club gave better concerts than any that have preceded it and reflected more credit upon the University. We must not omit the excellent way the club was managed. Mr. Patterson showed his great ability for managing a club of this kind. Perhaps some selections from the papers will not be out of place.

"The University Glee Club was greeted by a large audience in the Assembly hall of the Graded School last night, quite a number of both Normal and G. F. C. girls being present. Each one of the fifteen numbers on the program was well rendered and it is almost impossible to specialize, but we would mention as being of particularly enjoyable 'The Way it's Done at North Carolina,' 'A Cannibal Idyl,' and 'The Song of the A. B.' Mr. McKenzie, as a soloist, was a great success, bringing down the house on 'Romeo and Juliet,' and 'The Party at Odd Fellows Hall.' Mr. McKenzie has a good presence as well as a fine voice, and knows how to use both to the best advantage. We hope to hear him again.

"Mr. Mangum, the club's warbler, was very pleasing in 'Come Rally To-night.' He is also one of the first tenors.

"We wish the club much success and a pleasant trip."—Greensboro Patriot.

"The Glee Club of the University gave their concert at the opera house last night and captured the audience. The young men sing well, their voices blend and harmonize splendidly and their songs were popular and catchy. Some of the numbers were exceedingly funny and kept the audience in a roar of laughter. The attendance was not as large as it should have been. The Herald is sorry more of our people were not present. The concert was an excellent one and delighted all who heard it.—Salisbury Daily Herald.

"——, the apologetic prelude, is to explain to that clever, handsome set of fellows who compose the University Glee Club why the audience which greeted them last night was not larger. Of its appreciation of their music they themselves could judge. Their very appearance was greeted with applause, whole-hearted and cordial.

Few colleges can send out such a handsome octette of boys as 'U. N. C.' Their very appearance is inspiring. In the crowd last night were recognized many familiar faces—those who had composed the club last year.

The club's singing was, if anything, better than last season, and those who heard the boys then know what high praise that is. The solos of Mr. McKenzie, 'the Adonis,' as the girls styled him, were delightful. Each brought forth a volley of applause. His 'Romeo and Juliet' and 'Laughing Song' were capital.

"Mr. Mangum's warbling was good. It was smooth and without a break."—Charlotte Observer.

THE UNIVERSITY PRESS.

The University is always progressive. On last Monday afternoon there was a meeting of subscribers of stock in this new enterprise, when initial steps were taken towards the proper organization of a company for general and job printing. Committees were appointed, though no officers elected, to secure a charter, order presses, type, &c, and rent a building. The company is patterned after the Columbia College Press. Within two weeks it is hoped that all will be in readiness for doing all the printing the University, professors and students have done.

This new and great advance is the direct result of the progressiveness of some of our energetic professors. It will indeed supply a long felt want besides enabling those having printing done to have direct supervision over it. Its good is even more far-reaching than this, as it will furnish occasional employment to many poor students, who can by this method help earn their support while at college.

Dr. Tolman delivered a very interesting lecture in the Baptist church last Wednesday night to a large audience. He spoke of Corea, that island which has been so long isolated from the rest of the world, but which has within the last few years obtained a great deal of attention as a missionary field. It is of peculiar interest to see the religious system of this little island. China and Japan have both influenced it. Buddhism is the predominant religion among Coreans at present, but Christianity is fast gaining ground. In his lecture, Dr. Tolman traced the growth of the religious system of Corea, illustrating by reference to other people. There is in man a natural longing for something higher than himself, and a feeling that some external power is overruling him. From such primitive aspirations, grows gradually a system of worship and religious observances. It is our duty as Christians to direct aright this tendency and satisfy the longings of the soul. The lecture was delivered in the speaker's usual happy style, and all enjoyed it.
