On Top Again.

Washington and Lee Shut Out.

The game with Washington and Lee was very one-sided and of little interest. Parts of the game were brilliantly played by the Carolinians, but our lack of practice told on our fielding and pitching. But this was more than equalled by our hard hitting and clever work at critical moments leaving twelve men on bases for Washington and Lee.

The game was umpired by Mr. Acree of Danville and not a kick was made.

In the first inning Gregory scored on Bailey's hit after his fly had been muffed by Hogshead.

In the second, Campell fumbled Graham's grounder, Whitaker got a hit, they advanced on Johnson's out, and scored on Faulkner's fumble of Stanly's grounder.

In the third, Stephens and Brem got first on fumbles of the infield. Graham's hit scored Stephens, and Graham stole second, following Brem across the plate on Johnson's hit.

In the fourth, Stanly outran the throw to first, and again at second.

Gregory dies at second on Bailey's hit to short, Stanly going to third.

Bailey stole second and Stephens' two-bagger cleared the bases.

In the fifth, Whitaker got a hit, Johnson made first on an error and Pearsall got a base on balls. With the bases full, Stanly tried to bunt, but the ball went into the air, Myers caught it, threw to short putting out Whitaker, and Campell threw to first catching Pearsall, making a triple play.

In the seventh, four singles and a double, coupled with three bases on balls and three errors piled up eight runs, four of them being earned.

In the eighth Stanly got a double, Bailey a single, Brem a double, Graham and Whitaker singles earning three runs.

In the seventh, Washington and Lee came near breaking the goose egg. Campell made first by forging Myers at second. Pratt lined the ball between left and center for three bases. But Stephens threw the ball to Johnson, whose pretty throw home nabbed Campell at the plate.

In every inning but the fifth, they were left on bases through their inability to hit the ball and the snappy playing of the Carolinians; many of their plays being beauties, especially Gregory's catch of Myer's liner, making a double play in the ninth.

Below is the score and summary:

The King's Daughters.

The State Convention of the King's Daughters held its opening session on Tuesday, May 12, at the Methodist church. After the opening services, the visitors were welcomed to our village by Mrs. Karl P. Harrington. Then, Mrs. Davis, Corresponding Secretary of the National Order of King's Daughters and Sons, made her address to the Convention. Her address was well delivered, full of earnest zeal and devotion to the cause for which she is working. She defined the King's Daughters as a thoroughly well-organized body, with the avowed purpose of developing spiritual life and stimulating Christian activity. Her description of its foundation and organization was very interesting and her narration of its success and its broad field of action was instructive to nearly all present, showing, as it did, marvellous fruits from the seeds planted by the ten earnest women a comparatively few years ago. Mrs. Davis taught many a new conception of this grand work of the women and no doubt stimulated many to an active Christian life. After this Miss Kingsbury, of Wilmington, expressed for herself and the other delegates their appreciation of the kind reception they had received in Chapel Hill and of the pleasure it gave them to come, in a short and appropriate address.

Then the first session closed with appropriate exercises to reassemble on Wednesday morning.

On Wednesday morning at 9:30, the Convention was called to order by Mrs. Davis, and the opening exercises were conducted by Rev. D. J. Currie.

After the roll call, the State Secretary, Mr. James Cherry, of Greenville, made her address, covering the ground gone over during the past year. The speaker showed up some of the circles in a rather poor light, as not attending to business well, but on the whole there seemed to be quite a loyal spirit among the circles and Mrs. Cherry reported that many of the circles were growing and improving in numbers and in the amount of work done.

After this, the next on the program was Miscellaneous Business, consisting of the appointments of committees, receiving credentials, &c. Then followed the different circles, read by the delegates, many of which were interesting portrayals of the work which the order has done and of their methods of doing it. One method especially noticeable was by the work and ardor of children's circles, many of which, under the leadership of some older daughter, seemed to be outclassing their older sisters in the amount of work and their earnest zeal.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Davis called the Convention to order at 4 P. M. After a vocal duet by Prof. and Mrs. Karl P. Harrington, the regular devotional exercises, consisting of prayer and selections from the scriptures, were carried on by Mrs. Eugene Harris. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. Harrington then read a paper, prepared by Mrs. H. H. Williams, on "The Child and the Woman," showing the relation between the two and the influence of one on the other, with the opportunity for instilling the proper ideas and training.

Next on the program was the report of Committees, especially the Committee on Credentials, followed by further reports of the different circles.

On Thursday morning, the session came to order at 9:30 and devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. L. S. Massey.

After the reading and adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting a paper, on "My Experiences in Asiatic Turkey," by Mrs. I. C. Davis, the Secretary, was listened to with rapt attention and interest as that lady recounted her life and work in that sin-stricken country.

Then came the reports of Committees, and the Credential Committee finally decided the voting members of the Convention. This was followed by miscellaneous business, after which Mrs. James Cherry, of Greenville, held the audience almost spell-bound with a delightful vocal solo.

The Convention then adjourned to be escorted by Dr. Winston to inspect the University generally, including all of interest around the buildings and campus.

On Thursday afternoon the program consisted of a consecration meeting, conducted by Mrs. Davis, the reading of minutes, report of circles, miscellaneous business, and adjournment.

During the whole Convention, many interested spectators watched the proceedings and learned how to run a convention. The idea of The King's Daughters which many in Chapel Hill had previously and their present idea are no doubt different. From the reports of the circles of the State and from the individual ardor of the delegates we have no doubt but that the order is one which deserves much praise for the good they are doing all over the world, and for their self-sacrificing Christian nature in carrying on their work. The people of Chapel Hill have been glad to have them meet in their village.

Nearly 40,000 people witnessed the preliminary contest held at Athens to select the representatives of Greece in Olympic games.

FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

The Great Game Next Wednesday.

On next Wednesday, at four P. M. the greatest game ever played at our Athletic Park will take place. The faculty against ninety-six.

The game will be for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association, to aid them in sending delegates to the Convention at Knoxville, Tenn., during the summer.

It is something new and novel in the line of athletics and will be quite amusing as well as interesting. The Faculty according to Ninety-six are to chase so many balls across the field that they will be sorry they ever saw the Seniors. But the Faculty idea is that the Seniors will be done up worse than if they had been on "exam." So from this we judge that we are to see a game for blood. Let all come out and witness the struggle and at the same time aid in a worthy object.

The teams will take their positions as follows:—

FACULTY.		SENIORS.
Butler, Capt.	1b	Roberson.
Baskerville	3b	Bryson.
Harrington,	ss	Lemly.
Webb,	lf	Sanford.
Gore,	cf	Gwyn, (p)
Holmes,	2b	Robbins.
Wills,	rf	Canada.
Clarke,	c	Carr, Ed.,
Ball,	p	White.

Dr. Geo. T. Winston, Umpire.
Venable and C. Cobb, Scorers.
Dr. Whitehead, Surgeon.

Capt. Stanly Re-elected.

At a meeting of the team of '96 on Tuesday, May 12, the team showed their wisdom by re-electing B. E. Stanly to the captaincy of our base ball team.

Capt. Stanly played ball before coming to the University at Horner School and at his home in Kinston. He entered the University in '92 and became short-stop on the 'Varsity the next spring. He has played that position for four years, playing at Asheville and Atlantic City during the summers of '94 and '95. During the coming summer he will play center-field at Atlantic City.

As captain of the team of '96, he has produced a team whose record has never been equalled by any team in the South, and students and alumni and friends of the University will no doubt be glad to learn that this efficient leader will again endeavor to put old U. N. C. at the head of Southern baseball.

The trustees of Cornell have decided to establish a college of architecture, offering the degree of bachelor of architecture at the end of a four year course, a degree hitherto not conferred in America.

Amherst is to have a series of lectures by prominent men on important topics of the day. The first will be given by Chauncey M. Depew.

Chicago University will graduate its first class next June.

No college in all England publishes a college paper.
