Ovation to Triumphant Foot Ball Team. Mass-meeting and Bonfire

The football team returned to Chapel Hill Tuesday evening after an absence of six days, during which time they had defeated the University of Tennessee and Vanderbilt University and broke even with Sewanee when neither side scored.

The record is an admirable one. Traveling over 1600 miles and winning two championship games and tying another is an awful task. Our boys did it and we are proud of them. They showed that we have a team worthy of any college. We expected much; they did more than we expected. The University congratulates them right heartily on their magnificent work. The ovation given them by the student body was soul-stirring and inspiring. It was deserved by them. It was a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm. Men could control themselves no longer. Yelling crowds, flaming torches, college songs, bell-ringing and mass-meetings in abundance were the rule, rather than the exception. We realize that they are great and are able to go up against any college and expect to come out ahead.

Committees met the team at the depot and drove them down in carriages. When they reached the campus, hundreds of students with torches formed an avenue of fire, while others gave the college yells and rahs! for the individual players. The team was driven up Cameron Avenue accompanied by the monster torch-light procession to Commons where they took supper. While they were eating, 50 boys stood in the vestibule of the eating hall and yelled, cheering both the individual men and the team collectively.

After supper a mammoth mass-meeting was held in Gerrard Hall. Every student in college was there, thus showing his appreciation. The townspeople and the co-eds were there and were as deeply interested as the boys. Rival leaders of cheering crowds on the floor and in the galleries vied with one another in yelling Yackety Yacks and Boom! Rah! Rays! It was a scene that baffles description. The team came in together and pandemonium reigned supreme. Hats were thrown into the air and every man stood and yelled for fully five minutes.

Mr. A. R. Berkely, President of the Athletic Association, called the meeting to order. Captain Osborne was the first man called for. He responded with a short talk and thanked the students for the reception. Coach Reynolds made a short speech and called on the boys for earnest support from now until the end of the season. Support was pledged with a mighty yell. Coach told the story of the Sewanee game. He did it in a most interesting way, proving himself an admirable story teller, as well as an able football trainer. Members of the team were called on, but they were a bashful lot and refused to respond. These broad-shouldered men quaked and tried to hide behind one another when their names were called, but just the sight of them kept excitement at the boiling point. Dr. Baskerville, Profs. Henderson and Warshaw, Dr. Jones, Messrs. Meade and Bernard and others made short talks.

The meeting came to a close with a mighty Yackety Yack given by everybody standing and it never sounded better, it never carried more genuine feeling than it did then.

Out on the athletic field a huge bonfire had been built. When the meeting had adjourned everybody went there and the Captain struck a match to the mass of the inflammable material, drenched in 50 gallons of oil. A mighty blaze broke forth that shone for miles around. The boys tramped around singing and cheering. They could not keep still. They didn't even know it was election night. Politics was a small matter to this crowd. Their football team had reflected credit on their alma mater. What cared they how New York voted? The bonfire finally burnt down, but until a late hour the pent-up enthusiasm would let itself loose in many ways. Fireworks were sent off. The college bell rang wildly all night. Everything paid tribute to this sturdy eleven.

Ramon Reyes Lala, who will lecture before the University Nov. 10, is an eminent Filipino author and orator. His lecture is entitled "A Visit to the Philippines," and will be superbly illustrated with 130 colored views. Admiral Dewey speaks in high praise of his work. The New York Herald regards his book as "by all odds the most important contribution" to our knowledge of the Philippines. Those who miss his lecture will miss a delightful evening of picture, song, and story.

Pres. Venable and Dr. Alexander went to the meeting of the Association of Southern Colleges on the first of November. This Association includes the more prominent colleges and many secondary schools of the South. It met last year at Columbia, S. C., this year at Charlottesville. They returned Monday, the 4th.

The marriage of Miss Flora Hazel Brockett and Mr. Percy Wood McMullan, an alumnus, occurred Wednesday afternoon, October 24, at two o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Elizabeth City. We congratulate the happy couple and wish them a serene voyage.

W. B. Sorrell has just received a nice assortment of diamond rings.

Sewanee Game.

Constitution's Account. Both Teams Did Fine Work.

As is well known, on Thursday last in Knoxville, Carolina walked over the University of Tennessee by a score of 23 to 5. Tennessee made five by drop kick from field.

Saturday at Nashville, our boys easily defeated Vanderbilt by the large score of 48 to 0. The story of these two games will be in the next issue of the Tar Heel.

On Monday afternoon at Atlanta Carolina and Sewanee played a very brilliant and snappy game which resulted Carolina 0, Sewanee 0 which the Atlanta Constitution says "tells the story of a game desperately and viciously fought out, brilliant in team work and alive with daring and individual plays." It says "Carolina's tactics were clearly a shade better than Sewanee's" and while the Tennesseans were in fine physical condition "the Tar Heels entered the game in signally poor physical condition, demanding the administration of stimulants on the field to keep the men on their feet." Describing Seibel's long run when the ball was put on Carolina's ten yard line and everybody expected to see it rush over in Sewanee's furious attempt to score, the Constitution says: "Here Carolina showed her dogged grit. The Chapel Hill men stood in their last ditch like grim death was behind them. Three times the line broke through and each time Kilpatrick was dashed back with a loss of ground and the oval went over on downs amid a yell of glee from the Carolina crowd. There on Carolina's ten yard line it became evident at last that Sewanee could not muster the strength to score on her opponent save through a fluke or chance kick from the field."

The game began at 2:30 and the following report is from the Constitution:

Carolina took the ball for the kick-off, while Sewanee defended west goal. Graves kicked 40 yds. and the oval was brought back nearly to centre of field where the Tennesseans sent Simpkins, Seibels and Kilpatrick around the end and through the line for gains of 3 and 4 yards. After the first rush was over Carolina settled down to work and took the ball from Sewanee on downs. McRae and Berkeley romped through the line for short gains, but Sewanee got ball on downs and with an occasional punt the first half was over while neither team had brought the ball anywhere near its opponent's goal. During this half Graves made effort to kick drop kick goal from Sewanee's 25 yard line, but failed.

SECOND HALF.

Sewanee kicked off and Graves got ball on five yard line and kicked to centre of field. Simpkins returned the kick and Graves again sent the oval back..

Carr is substituted for McRae. Kilpatrick went around right end for 3 yards and again for two yards. Seibels tried left end, but was thrown back. Kilpatrick was sent around right end for 4 yards and the three following attempts resulted in the ball going over on down. Carolina kicked and Seibels caught the ball. Sewanee kicked only 10 yards. Kilpatrick got 5 yards over line. He went around end for 1 yard and then 3 yards. Seibels was given the ball and he shot around left end for 35 yards being nicely tackled by Graves L. on Carolina's 10 yard line. Kilpatrick got 3 yards over tackle and then he bucked the line for 2 yards. On the third attempt he was thrown back by Captain Osborne for a loss of 5 yards and his next two attempts were equally as futile.

Carolina's defense was brilliant and the ball went over to the Tar Heels.

Graves kicks the oval out of danger, and Simpkins on the line-up, in trying to break through centre was thrown back 2 yards. Sewanee kicked and Graves returned the ball, when Simpkins made a free catch on the 35 yard line. Sewanee lined up for a place kick and the crowd held its breath while Kilpatrick adjusted the oval. The contact came, but the ball sailed to the left and Sewanee's only chance of scoring was lost.

It was Carolina's ball on the 20 yd. line and again Graves kicked out of danger. A series of punts followed in which neither side received any material advantage. On Carolina's last punt Seibels made a brilliant catch and brought the oval up the field for 25 yds. Captain Williams on double pass goes around end for 4 yds., and Seibels make 1 yd. over line. Kilpatrick kicked and Graves L. caught the ball. With the oval in center of the field the Tar Heels display offensive work. Carr was thrown into the line for 4 yards and again for 3 yards. Berkeley goes around end for 7 yds. and Bennett hits centre for 3 yds. Carr again makes 5 yds. and then three yards. Sewanee off-side gives Carolina 10 yds. The oval was in Sewanee's territory, brought there by quick and fast rushes, but there was only two minutes more to play and after an exchange of kicks the game was over with ball in center of the field in Carolina's possession.
