An announcement of the "Star Course of Lectures" was made in our last issue. It may be that the nature of these lectures is not generally understood, especially among the new men, and a few words of explanation may not be out of place.

The need of entertainments during the winter which may keep us in touch with the outside world has often been felt: something to keep the long succession of winter evenings from growing dull and monotonous. Many of the new men can already appreciate the idea, when one of the aims is to keep them from driving through a cold night to Durham to see a "bum" show. Oh no! Not that we mean that you can see it here instead! The Star Course is what it claims to be, every time. Every entertainment is given by a specialist in his line, carefully selected by a committee from the Faculty and students, and you never get anything that is not first class; you never fail to "get your money's worth." The lecture by Mr. Hawks last week was a sample of the quality you may expect. Gen. John B. Gordon and Max O'Rell have been Star Lecturers here; others right in the same class may be depended on, every time.

The scheme is operated for the sole purpose of giving first class entertainment to the University; it is in no way a money-making scheme. It is worked somewhat in this way: the University gives a certain amount towards the expense, and the two Literary societies are responsible for the remainder of the expense. In order that the expense be not too heavy on the societies, an admission fee of fifty cents for each entertainment is charged of men not society members. Season tickets for the whole series are sold at a lower rate than this, for the benefit of those who know a good thing when they see it. The Secretaries of the societies can give full information with regard to the course, and tickets may be gotten from them, until a regular agent is appointed by the Committee. The Course has been fully appreciated in the past, as the full attendances have proved, and it has deserved it. It is safe to say that it will continue to deserve, and to have the appreciation of the student body.

During the past month have died several Alumni whose lives have been a source of unmixed pride and pleased to their University.

On September 17th died Mills Roberts Eure, of the class of 1898, in his 33d year. While in college he was a member of the D. K. E. fraternity, and of the Philanthropic Society; he was president of the Society for two terms. He narrowly missed being awarded the Mangum Medal. After a few years of teaching he entered the practice of law. In 1892 received by acclamation the Democratic nomination for the Legislature from Gates county, and the Populist party was then powerful, he was elected by the largest majority ever received by any candidate for the office. From 1894 to 1897 he served as vice-consul under General Roberts, U. S. Consul to Victoria, B. C. Since his return to this State he has enjoyed a large practice in his profession of law, in Greenville, N. C.

On October 3d, died Richard Turner Arington, of the well-known firm of John Arington and Sons, Commission Merchants. He was born in Warrenton, N. C.; and married Miss Betty Plummer of that place.

On October 5th died Henry Clay Thompson, for many years a resident of Chapel Hill. He was a first honor man of the class of 1857. For years he was a teacher, and superintendent of public instruction of Orange county. He was a man of very high character and talents. He was a ruling Elder in the Presbyterian church. Though ever since the war he was of the Republican Party, there was never a charge against him, nor any of his motives ever questioned. At the time of his death he was Chief Clerk of the Revenue Department, Raleigh.

Every year since the writer entered college, the University Magazine has been seriously handicapped by the lack of contributions from the students. To obtain for publication a bit of fiction, a poem, or a sketch, it has been necessary for the editors to stand over the promising contributor with a figurative goad until the contribution is handed in. This communication is an appeal to every student to do his duty as a student and to perform his part in relation to the Magazine by a trial of his talent for writing. The columns of the Magazine are always open to contributions from the students of the University. By the students and by the students only, can the Magazine be made a success. Let us have contributions!

To encourage literary activity, the Commencement Debaters' Prize of $20 has been offered to the contributors to the Magazine. The Bingham Prize is to be offered at Commencement. The editors have decided to divide the Magazine Prize as follows:

For the best essay or biography $10.00
For each of the two best pieces of fiction $5.00
The following conditions were decided upon.

Each contestant must be a student of the University at the time of submission of essay or piece of fiction.

To be entitled to either of the prizes for fiction, the contribution must be at least 750 words in length. The prizes are to be awarded by a committee of three from the faculty.

Sophs. vs. Juniors; 5 to 0.

For the first time in its history, the Junior football team was on last Saturday forced down before the superiority of a competitor. It was most humiliating to this proud class, who for three years have held undisputed championship over the other class teams, to acknowledge defeat at the hands of a competitor for whom they professed the utmost contempt—the '04's.

To the success of the Juniors in their earlier years can be traced the cause of their reverses now. They had such continued success over the other teams that they came to regard success as theirs by right divine, and were only convinced of the fallacy of this belief by the brilliant runs of Jacocks around their ends for anywhere from 5 to 30 yds.

The game was called at 2:30, with the Sophs. defending the west goal. Urquhart kicked off for the Juniors, and sent the ball well into the Sophs. territory, where it remained during the half. The Sophs began by bucking the line, but finding this of no avail, they tried end runs, where they had more show. No one, however, made any decided gain, and at the end of the first half the score stood 0 to 0.

On second half, Juniors defended west goal. Jacocks kicked off for Sophs. Jonas secured ball and advanced some distance. On first down Kerner circled end for 20 yds., carrying ball to center of field. Then by repeated end runs Jacocks and Bass carried the pig skin back to Juniors 5 yd. line. On first down, Sophs. on Juniors 5 yd. line. They buck the line for no gain, but on second down Jacocks circles end for a touch down.

At end of second half score stood: Sophs. 5; Juniors 0. Time, seven minutes. Remainder of half spent in scrambling over the ball without any decided gain for either.

Line up as follows:

which is unpopular and fight for it. It never hurts a man to tie himself to a principle that is right. If a man believes in a principle let him die for that principle, and he will never die. He will live in memory. The best way to promotion is to be humble. This is typified in the life of Christ.

Happiness, whether religious or secular, is not found by direct search. Happiness, you cannot buy. The most unhappy people in the world are those who are in search of it. We are not here to feel good. We are here to work. We are here to fight all manner of evil. The best thing about anything is what it does. We are here for the service of God. Life is great only as it is linked with everlasting principles. Let us live for the good we can do.
