GOOD WORK BY THE VISITORS

Played a Snappy Game and Developed Fine Team Work.

A. AND M. BOYS PLAYED A GRITTY GAME

Though They Outweighed the Visitors They Did Not Have the Team Work. The Varsity Eleven Played as One Man.

The A. and M. football team was no match for the sturdy players from the University of North Carolina who won the game at the Fair grounds yesterday by the decisive score of 30 to 0.

The A. and M. boys played a gritty game and contested for every inch of space, often times making brilliant plays, but they were outclassed by the University, which battles next Saturday with the University of Virginia for the football championship of the South.

It was a raw, biting cold day and the weather was not calculated to bring out a big crowd, although a good number of people wrapped themselves up and journeyed out to the grounds to witness the game. Darkness finally terminated the contest, the first half lasting 25 minutes and the second half 15 minutes.

The farmers outweighed their opponents, but they were not on to the fine points of the game. The Varsity eleven played as one man, and the interference put up was the noticeable feature of the team play. When the ball was put in motion the runner was well backed up. There was snap and ginger in the play of the visitors. With the Varsity it was eleven men in every play and with the farmers this was not the case. Gardener, Turner and Welsch of the A. and M. team did fine work, but they did not have the team play to back them up, as did Berkeley, Foust, Council and the Carrs of the University.

A. and M. had the kick off and Wooten sailed the pig skin up the gridiron for 25 yards. Carr, M., received the sphere and made five yards before he was halted. There were several successive gains for the required distance and then Berkeley half for the Varsity made a beautiful run for 30 yards around the right end. Good interference was the feature of the play. The Varsity boys had the ball at the farmer's 20 yard line. The gains of the visitors were growing less each play and at the ten yard line Turner and Asbury made great tackles within open field. The ball went into the possession of the A. and M. at the seven yard line. Welsch circled the Varsity's left end for 2 1-2 yards, while Gardener hit the line twice for gains of three yards. Turner went through an opening for five yards, but here the farmers ruined their good playing on a fumble, the ball going to the University. Berkeley moved around right end for five yards, but the visitors failed to gain on the next two downs. The farmers made another break just here, being off side as the ball was put in play and the penalty for this was a gift of ten yards to the Varsity. This placed the ball on the A. and M. three yard line and Council bucked the centre safely, landing across the coveted goal line. Carr, W., kicked the goal. Time of play 5 minutes and 20 seconds. Score, University, 6, A. and M. 0.

Wooten kicked off again for the A. and M. with a long drive up the field. Capt. Carr received the oval and advanced ten yards, and Berkeley circled the right end for 35 yards before he was brought to earth. The Varsity seesawed for a few minutes and then the ball went over for offside play. Welsch and Turner both made gains of ten yards each, with practically no assistance. Gardener plunged through the line for three yards and Wooten gained one yard. A. and M. stock had risen way up and the cadets were wild with enthusiasm, believing they would score. Three desperate trials resulted without gains and the ball went over. Carr, Berkeley and Foust made successive gains, carrying the ball down to A. and M.'s goal. Foust went over the line in a mass play for the second touchdown. Carr split the goal. Time of play 8:40. Score, University 12, A. and M. 0.

Neither team scored during the remainder of the half. Both sides resorted to the kicking game and there were some clever exchanges of long punts up the field. Berkeley made several runs behind splendid interference and there was a sensational tackle by Gulley. The farmers were putting up their best game at the end of the second half, when time was called. Successive rushes had given the farmers some thirty yards. The ball was on Carolina's 40 yard line at the end of the second half.

The second half only lasted fifteen minutes, being called on account of the approaching darkness. The Varsity had the kick off, and Capt. Carr punted the ball down to the A. and M. 10 yard line, where it was captured by Wooten who made a splendid run for twenty yards. There was another slight gain and then the pig skin passed from one team to the other, finally returning to the possession of the University, when Foust took advantage of an opening and shot across the field for a touchdown. Graves kicked the goal. Time of play 3:45.

Score, University 18, A. and M. 0.

Wooten for the A. and M. punted for 40 yards, but twenty of this was regained by Capt. Carr, who got the ball. There was a gain of ten yards, and several unsuccessful plays, when Capt. Carr punted for thirty yards. The kick was returned for 25 yards. The Varsity still stuck to the kicking game, but fumbled the ball for first time, losing five yards. Capt. Carr tried again and drove the sphere for 40 yards. A. and M. fumbled but Gulley plunged through the line and got the oval. It was rocky playing along here, both teams fumbling again in succession. The ball passed from one side to the other in a desultory sort of a way, when Berkeley got hold of the oval and made a magnificent dash for 35 yards to the A. and M. 15 yard line. There were gains of five yards after this when Foust made the fourth touchdown of the game and Graves kicked the goal. Time of play 13 minutes. Score, University 24, A. and M. 0.

The next touchdown came quick and was made in less than two minutes. Wooten kicked off for the A. and M., landing the sphere up the field a distance of 30 yards. Capt. Carr returned the kick for a distance of 40 yards and in attempting to punt the ball again it got away from Asbury. Jones, the Varsity guard, seized the sphere and sprinted across the field for the fifth touchdown. Graves kicked the goal. Time of play, 15 minutes. Score, University 30, A. and M. 0.

Dr. Jones Lecture.

Rev. J. William Jones, D. D. under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. delivered his lecture, "The Boys in Gray," or the Private Soldier as I Knew Him, in the Chapel Thursday evening, Nov. 14th. Every cent of the proceeds went to furnish the Y. M. C. A. study room. Dr. Jones, chaplain as he was of Lee's army, is prominent authority on Confederate history, and his work along this line merits the gratitude of every true Southerner. It goes without saying that his audience, spoken to by a man of such wide knowledge of his subject, was well entertained. Below is given a brief synopsis of his lecture. General Lee said: "the true heroes in the war are not the men in the rank, but the men in the ranks."

Who were the privates in our army? Did secession conspirators force them into the war? No. Private soldiers forced the leaders into the war. Abraham Lincoln by calling for troops brought on the war. The lawyer left his client; the doctor, his patient; the merchant, his customers, and the farmer his furrows to give their service to the country. In the Confederate army was the brawn and sinew of southern manhood and chivalry.

The old Confederate soldiers have been honored by all positions in the South.

Let us take a trip to Harper's Ferry at the opening of the war. We find beef piled up, soldiers well dressed and a beautiful silk flag for every company. Dr. Jones said, "It shall never trail in the dust, but in ninety days it shall be planted on the dome of the capital at Washington." But the scene changes. Poorer dress, brogan shoes, bare and bleeding feet on the march, revolvers and fine things disappeared, negro cook disappeared, silk banners changed to a tattered flag for each regiment.

In the camps the soldiers were lively and happy. Stonewall Jackson never failed to raise a Confederate yell. Here Dr. Jones gave a number of anecdotes illustrative of camp life. Then he showed by statistics the overwhelming odds against which Lee struggled.

Important Notice.

There will be a mass-meeting in Gerard Hall on the night of Thursday, November the twenty first at 7:15. Every one in any way connected with the college is requested to be present.

Nearly two hundred and fifty men entered the preliminary debates at Michigan this year. At Leland Stanford more men appear for the preliminary debates than for football practice.

Armour Institute, with an endowment of $3,000,000 and an enrollment of 1000 students will probably be absorbed by the University of Chicago in a short time. In the past five years this University has absorbed 19 schools.
